STONE HITS AT CRITICS

Tells Stand on Wheeler

Says Indictment Sought in Washington Because Plot Laid There

Road Now Thought Clear to His Appointment to Supreme Bench

BY ARTHUR SEARS HENNING
[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

WASHINGTON, Jan. 28.—Atty.-Gen. Stone knocked the props from under the obstruction of confirmation of his appointment to the Supreme Court, when he went before the Senate Judiciary Committee in the open session he had requested and frankly explained the reasons of the government for seeking a conspiracy indictment in the District of Columbia in a case affecting Senator Wheeler, Democrat, Montana.

The government, the Attorney-General explained, has uncovered a conspiracy of far reaching proportions to defraud the United States of oil lands. The attempted bribery of administrative officials of the government also is involved. The chief figures in the conspiracy include a client of Senator Wheeler, but whether the Senator is involved is not known, but the Attorney-General offered the Senator the privilege of testifying before the grand jury, if he would waive immunity from prosecution for so doing.

PLOT SHOWING FAILS

The committee, after hearing Mr. Stone, adjourned to meet next Monday, but is uncertain whether further witnesses will be called.

The efforts of Senator Walsh, Democrat, Montana, counsel for Senator Wheeler and a member of the committee, and of Senator Reed, Democrat, Missouri, to establish that the indictment sought here is part of a plot to persecute Senator Wheeler failed dismally. Mr. Stone showed that the indictment is sought here because the alleged crime was committed here.

CONFIRMATION NOW LIKELY

It now seems as if confirmation of Mr. Stone's appointment to the Supreme Court cannot be prevented unless the Wheeler partisans succeed in delaying action from motives of retaliation of the steps taken by the Department of Justice to procure an indictment in the conspiracy case.

The contention of Senator Walsh and his supporters in the hearing was that if persecution were not

POOR PLANE BLAMED FOR AIR SMASH

Pilot Asserts Ship Was in Bad Condition on Paris Flight

[BY CABLE—EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

LONDON, Jan. 28.—Startling evidence about the condition of the plane on the London-Paris airway which crashed Christmas Eve, killing eight persons, was given at the official inquiry by Capt. Hinchcliffe, the pilot who had been flying the plane before Capt. Stewart, the pilot killed in the crash, and who refused to take it out on the fatal trip because of its condition.

Capt. Hinchcliffe said he flew the plane from London to Amsterdam on December 18 and found the engine rough and the oil pressure low. He reported this on his arrival in Amsterdam, and mechanics told him after lunch the plane had been repaired and was fit for service. He started back to London, but serious oil trouble developed and he returned to Amsterdam, where more work was done, and on December 19, started again, but returned because the engine was behaving badly.

Finally he flew to London on December 23, where, although the engine was still rough, the power was good. On December 24, he was told to take it to Paris and refused, partly because of the condition of the plane and partly because he was tired and cold. Capt. Stewart replaced him. He warned Capt. Stewart of the condition of the engine.

Capt. Hinchcliffe said he would not have flown the machine that day to Paris with a full load, but might have been willing to take off with half a load. Capt. Hinchcliffe also said that the mechanic in Amsterdam found some white metal in the filter, which would indicate that a bearing had run.

Funds Sought for Oil Lease Prosecutions

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE]

WASHINGTON, Jan. 28.—Request for another $100,000 for continuing the prosecution of cases growing out the naval oil leases was transmitted to Congress today by the budget. An appropriation of $100,000 was made last February.

Another request was for $1,460,040 to meet the expected Department of Justice deficits, including $100,000 for continuing prosecution of war frauds and $149,000 for meeting "extraordinary" expenses incident to the enforcement of prohibition due to the storage and guarding of seized property.

COLDEST DAY IN NEW YORK

Snow Hinders Traffic; One Death is Reported; East Coast Stormswept; Relief Due for Chicago

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

NEW YORK, Jan. 28.—Rubbing his frost-bitten nose with fingers numbed inside their gloves, Father Knickerbocker today chalked up the record of the coldest day of the season and prepared to let 10,000 snow shovelers dig him out of last night's five-inch fall of snow. The mercury read at 7:40 this morning 1 degree below zero, from which it gradually recovered to around 18 degrees above at nightfall, but the city got off lightly considering the 40 degrees below reported from Riverhead, near Malone; 10 degrees below at Albany, and 30 degrees below in many other up-State cities.

Along the seacoast last night's storm was particularly severe. Atlantic City, which up to this time had escaped the winter's snows, was not fortunate on this occasion. The city is blanketed today under a two-inch fall.

In Connecticut the snowfall averaged six inches.

The cold wave, which covers the whole country except Florida and the upper Great Lakes region, is passing seaward, while another storm, originating in Saskatchewan, is advancing over Montana.

The Hudson River between Nyack and Tarrytown, its widest point, was bridged today by a layer of ice twelve to fourteen inches thick, for the first time in three years and the third time in fifteen years.

Automobile traffic throughout New York State has been hard hit, and in some places completely stopped, while in and around New York City the usual tie-ups in surface, "L" and commutation railway services were experienced for a time today.

Many small fires were successfully battled by the fire department, though hampered by drifting snow on the streets. "Smoky Joe" Martin, assistant fire chief, sounded his usual warning to householders to be careful with all blazes, and said this winter had been the worst in his experience for reaching scenes of fires.

Along the Jersey coast the cutters of the Coast Guard are standing at attention for any distress signals. So far, however, they have heard no such reports.

One man was killed and two men seriously injured as the result of the storm. Harry Gibson, a middle-aged man, was found dead of exposure in a basement on Doyer street in Chinatown.

High snow banks, frozen switches, inability to fill engine boilers because of frozen water tanks and frozen signal systems, were given by Pennsylvania, New York Central and other railroad officials as the reason for delays in the arrival of trains from the West.

RELIEF PROMISED

CHICAGO, Jan. 28.—Some relief from the frigid temperatures of the last few days was promised tonight by the Weather Bureau. The mercury will begin to rise during the night, the weather man said, bringing a minimum coldness of 16 deg. above zero. Heavy leaden skies presage snow following the rise in temperature, he added.

Near zero weather remained in Chicago and vicinity today. At 6 o'clock this morning the ther-

CHURCHMEN HEAR COOLIDGE

President Opens Missions Session Bringing Home Responsibility of Christians

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE]

WASHINGTON, Jan. 28.—With an opening address by President Coolidge, the foreign missions conference of North America began a six-day session here today attended by delegates and missionaries of virtually every Protestant denomination in the United States and Canada.

Mr. Coolidge, facing his largest indoor audience since he became President, asserted that Christian churches and governments have no greater responsibility than to make sure that the best and not the worst of which Christian society is capable, shall be given to the outer peoples.

Such a service as that which the missionary movement aspires to do for mankind, the President said, can be rendered "only under the inspiration of a broad and genuine liberalism" resting on toleration and a spirit of brotherhood.

BETTER THAN TREATIES

Rev. James L. Barton of Boston, chairman of the committee on arrangements, declared in an address that in the true spirit of Christianity and "not by treaties and alliances, not by armies and armaments" lies the one hope of abiding peace among nations.

Reciting the growth of the missionary movement among the churches of North America, Dr. Barton said they are now expending $40,000,000 annually in supporting and directing the work of 18,000 American missionaries.

"Not everything that the men of Christian countries have carried to the other peoples of the world has been good and helpful to those

DIES IN PLOT TO ESCAPE

Hijacker Shot in Daring Attempt

Federal Officer Drenched With Ammonia by Pals of Bay City Prisoners

Bullet Intended for Deputy Hits One of Captives as Other Gains Liberty

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

SAN FRANCISCO, Jan. 28.—Desperate plans of two brothers, internationally notorious as liquor pirates, brought death to one, freedom to the other, and possible blindness to United States Deputy Marshal Jack Donnelly in a dramatic ammonia and pistol battle on the stairs of the postoffice building today.

The man killed was Ariel "Happy" Eggers, alias Arthur Miller, Canadian hijacker. His brother, Milo Eggers, alias Frank Larsen, associated with him in numerous hijacking enterprises for which he was facing extradition to Canada, escaped during the affray.

The sensational affair came when Donnelly was taking the Eggers brothers from the office of the United States marshal on the third floor of the postoffice building to the courtroom of United States Commissioner Francis Krull on the floor below.

Krull was to conduct a final hearing on the case of the two men, whose extradition is asked by the Canadian government on several charges of hijacking of liquor cargoes from ships in Canadian waters.

CONFEDERATES APPEAR

Just as Donnelly and his two prisoners reached the bottom of the marble stairs leading from the third to the second floor of the Federal Building, one of the brothers said:

"Wait a minute, Jack; I want to light a cigarette."

At that instant two strangers closed in on the party from two directions, one, a tall man in a brown coat, came from the corridor at the foot of the stairs, the other from the stairs above the prisoners.

Donnelly saw one flourish a pistol, while the other drew from a pocket a red rubber bulb syringe. This he thrust into the deputy's face and a stream of ammonia flew into his eyes and mouth. As Donnelly dodged he heard a report of a gun; heard Ariel Eggers gasp: "Good-by," and felt his own gun, which he had drawn, wrenched from his hands. Then, half unconscious from the pain of the ammonia in his eyes and mouth, he collapsed.

MISS THEIR TARGET

The rest of the story is told by witnesses. The two strangers had evidently intended to shoot Donnelly. The bullet struck Ariel Eggers instead—struck him full in the chest. Ariel stumbled the two or three steps to the bottom of the stairs and fell. He died within a few minutes before doctors could be summoned.

The gun was wrenched from Donnelly's hand by Milo Eggers, who fled down the stairs to the ground floor of the building behind the two strangers, who had already taken to their heels.

Outside at the Mission-street side of the postoffice, a touring car was waiting with a man at the wheel. The three jumped in and the machine sped away.

Mrs. Dorothy Eggers, wife of Milo, and Mrs. Erna Brown, sister of the two prisoners were close by when the shots were heard, throwing the courtrooms into turmoil. They became hysterical, adding to the confusion which covered the escape from the building of the two confederates and the fleeing prisoner. They are being held by the police.

AUTO IS TRACED

Martin Harrington, a citizen who had followed the running men from the postoffice corridor, gave the police the number of the escaped car. It was traced to an auto rental shop, whose proprietor said the car had been taken out by two men who gave their names and addresses as Jack Jordan, 516 Jones street, and James Callahan, Ramona Hotel. They had left no deposit on the car because they had returned another machine rented the night before.

Donnelly, after first aid measures in the Postoffice Building was taken to the Emergency Hospital and later to his home. His face, eyes and mouth are badly burned.

The Eggers brothers were arrested in San Francisco November 28, after a chase which led across the continent. They were accused specifically of piracy in the case of the rum runner, Lillum, and of the motorboat Hadsell. In the latter case, they shot Einar Larum, operator of the boat.

They were involved, according to Canadian officials, in many other hijacking operations, preying always on small boats running liquor from Canadian shores to the United States shores along Puget Sound. They are said to have been ruthless in their treatment of the one-or-two-man crews of the boats which they attacked, using pistols and knives freely.

HERRIOT PLEDGES FRANCE TO PAYMENT OF DEBTS

Pleads for Security of Country in Speech Before Chamber; Doubts German Spirit

[BY CABLE AND ASSOCIATED PRESS]

PARIS, Jan. 28.—Security was the main theme of Premier Herriot's long-awaited speech on France's foreign policy delivered before a great gathering in the Chamber of Deputies today. The Premier occupied two hours of his three and a half-hour address in drawing up a vivid but dark picture of Germany's activities in armaments while he disposed of the problem of inter-Allied debts in a brief but nevertheless emphatic manner.

Never before since he assumed power has M. Herriot spoken of Germany in the tones he used today, and although he had the entire chamber, excepting the Communists, enthusiastically applauding and cheering him, the general interpretation throughout Parliament was that his purpose was deeper than merely catering to the right group—that it was a warning to the British government against the evacuation of the Cologne zone.

INTER-ALLIED DEBTS

On the subject of inter-Allied debts the Premier said:

"I come to the question of inter-Allied debts. I shall speak very briefly thereon, for you have remarked how great is the susceptibility of our friends and Allies on this subject, and you know now even the sublimest words and best sentiments risk at times being interpreted in a regrettable way.

"What I can do is solemnly repeat once more what M. Viviani has said, what M. Poincare has said—France does not intend to repudiate her debts.

"It is not the government over which I preside, attached as it is to respect for treaties and conventions, that will disavow the principle of debts which France has contracted.

"That being said, we have the right, after the speech, filled with such useful figures, by M. Du Bois after M. Marin's, to appeal to the sentiments of solidarity of our Allies and friends. Conversations with them have begun. It would be ungracious, ungrateful, not to thank those who are aiding us in these conversations.

CITES SENATE SPEECH

"If it has been possible to cite words of an American Senator which were unfavorable to France, it must not be forgotten how many are those in America who remember the ideas of cordial and intend to treat the problem not as one of exclusively commercial or financial order, but almost as one of moral order. France can only say how deeply she feels such words coming from far away and how they touch her at the moment she is searching her resources for her unfortunate devastated regions.

"It is only just to state that M. Clementel and I have met with a spirit of sincere cordiality beyond reproach in Winston Churchill (British Chancellor of the Exchequer.) His letter to M. Clementel recalled what he termed the terrible agony of the war, agony suffered in common, and he declared that we ought to approach the solution of the present problem in common also.

"Even from a commercial and practical viewpoint it is impossible that the Allies cannot see the terrible difficulties there would be in transferring to England and America sums corresponding to their credits. These sums have not increased our means of action, while the loan of 100,000,000 gold marks provided by the Dawes plan—to which I continue to think we have done well in subscribing—has given Germany fresh economic force.

"The money lent us prevented us

CHILD LABOR FOES GO ON

Deny Defeat of Amendment

Advocates of Regulation by Congress Think States May Reconsider

Organizations Assert Fight Will be Continued Until Plan is Ratified

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE]

NEW YORK, Jan. 28.—The fight for a child-labor amendment to the Constitution will be continued, even though thirteen States, or more than one-quarter of the necessary three-fourths, have refused to ratify it, said a statement issued here today by the National Child Labor Commission, organized in 1907.

The adverse vote of the legislatures is not final, according to the statement, and the amendment "has not been defeated or shelved."

The commission expects six of the thirteen States to reverse their action and "go on record in favor of the children when they discover that the present scare of a super-Socialism is groundless."

These six States are Ohio, Oklahoma, Kansas, North and South Dakota and Massachusetts. All of these States, it was said, now have child labor laws.

"We intend to continue fighting for adequate child-labor standards until all American children are protected," the statement continued. "Every Legislature will vote on the amendment. It may take two years instead of six months to secure ratification. It will come because it is now being rejected from a foolish fear that all labor will be prohibited and all chores forbidden, rather than from adequate reasons. No good legislation can be permanently in defeat." In the Legislatures, which have voted adversely, the statement pointed out, only eight registered action in both houses.

"In South Dakota, North Dakota, Delaware and Wyoming, only one house rejected. Favorable action by the other house will bring immediate reconsideration. Further favorable action will simply postpone present consideration of the amendment. Favorable action has been taken by California, Arkansas and one house of the Montana and Arizona legislatures. In New York State, the legislators are

DOG TEAMS RACE DEATH

Sleds Bearing Antitoxin Leave Nenana for Nome, Where Diphtheria Epidemic Rages

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE]

FAIRBANKS (Alaska) Jan. 28.—According to wireless messages received here from Nome, Alaska, a diphtheria epidemic raging there remained the same today. The actual number of dead was not given, but one of the dispatches read: "Several white people, grown-ups and children, are included in the dead." The largest percentage of those afflicted are Eskimos. Four persons had been reported dead yesterday.

Three hundred thousand units of antitoxin were sent to Nome by dog team from Nenana, north of here, today. With Leonard Seppala, noted northern dog musher, on his way from Nome to meet the Nenana team to relay the antitoxin to the stricken town, the trip should be made in fifteen days, it was generally believed here.

Fairbanks in a reply to Dan Sutherland, delegate in Congress from Alaska, as to whether an airplane could be used, said that with seventy-two hour's notice the life-saving agent could be delivered to Nome in four hours.

The aviators of three airplanes assembled here have left Alaska for the winter, but two outside flyers are available. James O'Brien, motion-picture cameraman and a member of the Royal Flying Corps

FRANCE TO PAY, SAYS HERRIOT

Premier Pledges Country to Debt Refunding

Pleads for Security from German Menace

from perishing, but our substance, nevertheless, diminished. I hope as much gold will be brought to this problem as we ourselves are putting in it. France has always been true to her word. She will be again here as everywhere."

The above questions from M. Herriot's speech on the subject of inter-Allied debts were as set forth in the official stenographic report and as revised by the speaker for publication. Before the Deputies he said among other things:

"We are still in the midst of discussions on this affair of debts and anything I might say from the height of this tribune might open up a press polemic to the varied interpretations which might be given my words and that is the thing I wish at all costs to avoid."

From the Chamber's rostrum he contented himself with reiterating solemnly that France would pay her debts. The question, however, of how large these debts really were, was left open for discussions, which already were begun and it was in fear of endangering these discussions, the Premier averred, that prompted him to be very brief.

BRITAIN RELATIONS

Having paid a tribute to Mr. Churchill, M. Herriot declared:

"Our relations with Great Britain were never more cordial," but he desired to make clear what the occupation of the Cologne bridgehead meant to France. France had no intention of remaining on the Rhine forever, but in the face of Germany's nonfulfillment of the disarmament clauses of the Versailles Treaty, particularly regarding military organizations, reconstitution of the great German general staff with extraordinarily perfected technique and the fact that the old Prussian militaristic spirit still existed and was making preparations for an assault upon poor peoples who only wanted peace, M. Herriot declared:

"I say to our Allies and friends, to the English democracy, to Italy, that we want to beware, that we must watch what is taking place over there."

GENEVA PROTOCOL

The Premier after devoting some time to explaining how the Geneva protocol, if ratified, would contribute greatly to making France feel safe against unprovoked aggression, expressed regret that the "guaranty pact" had not been ratified by the United States and Great Britain.

"This provided for intervention by the United States and England in case of an attack against France," said M. Herriot. "It is a great pity it was not carried through."

M. Briand interjected:

"I as good as had Great Britain's signature at Cannes."

At the morning session Louis DuBois, former president of the Reparations Commission, submitted a long list of figures relating to German reparations and treating the debt of France to the United States from what he termed "a business man's viewpoint," declared that the United States must make a considerable reduction in her claims against France.

While the remarks of M. DuBois did not bear the official seal of the government, the Chamber was virtually unanimous, except for the Communists, in adopting his views as to the manner in which the problem of France's debt to the United States should be approached.

DuBOIS'S STAND

In brief, M. DuBois said that France could not pay England and the United States twice as much as France would receive from Germany, especially as the two great Anglo-Saxon powers were held jointly responsible for the reduction of France's claims against Germany.

Premier Herriot, in his long address, spoke with great fervor and earnestness and even his bitterest political opponents had to admit, after he had concluded his most fatiguing effort, that he was sincere. He stood the ordeal well, but from time to time had to rest his ailing leg, which had kept him in bed for a month, upon a little stool which had been placed upon the speaker's tribune.

Several other questions occupied the Premier's attention. With regard to the Russian question, he declared that the French government would not admit of any intervention in the internal politics of the country by foreign nations.

"Zinovieff may as well make up his mind to that," he added, amid applause from all quarters except the Communists.

LOANS TO RUSSIA

French loans were made to the Russians to the amount of about 20,000,000,000 francs by 4,000,000 lenders, continued the Premier. Much of these billions was spent on the Russian army, which by throwing itself on Eastern Prussia in 1914 possibly saved Paris from capture by the Germans.

"That is one of the reasons why the French government renewed relations with Russia," he declared.

Passing to the question of security, M. Herriot said, "our presence on the Rhine is an essential guarantee—the last guarantee of our security."

He drew a picture of Germany's armaments, which stirred the House to excitement, and said:

"I have no hatred for the Germans, but I must say that disarmament will never come until German militarism is suppressed."

The entire Chamber, with the exception of the Communists, cheered the pronouncement loudly.

LOS ANGELES'S FLIGHT

The voyage of the Zeppelin ZR-3 (now the Los Angeles) constructed by the Germans for the United States, and piloted last fall from Germany to Lakehurst, N. J., M. Herriot recognized as a magnificent industrial and engineering feat, but, he added, it had been exploited by the Germans as a "hymn of hate" against France.

"Here is how they write in Germany about it," said the Premier—"French peasants in Lotre and Gironde bowed their heads and bent their spines as they saw the symbol of future German force pass above them."

"And yet," exclaimed M. Herriot, "we are asked not to insist upon the destruction of the Zeppelin works under the Treaty of Versailles."

The Premier concluded his address with the declaration that he was animated by only one purpose—"universal peace, the beginning of which is French security."

"My greatest desire is to see the dawn of the United States of Europe arise under the Aegis of the League of Nations. I seek to work for the peace of Europe and the world, but as a basis for that peace I seek the security of my country."

ENVOY TAKES POST FRIDAY

Daeschner Will Present Credentials to Coolidge; French War Debt Discussion Expected

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE]

WASHINGTON, Jan. 28.—Emile Daeschner will present to President Coolidge on Friday his credentials as French Ambassador to the United States to succeed Jules Jusserand. Arrangements for the presentation were concluded today, coincident with the departure of the retiring Ambassador from New York for France.

Since the arrival of the Ambassador-designate in Washington, a general feeling has gained headway that he soon will begin discussions here on the subject of the French war debt. In some quarters the statement made today by Louis DuBois in the French Chamber of Deputies, that he awaited "confidently the reply of the United States," was interpreted as giving color to that possibility.

However, it was said flatly by high officials today that M. Daeschner has not yet mentioned the debt question, nor is he expected to do so until he actually takes over his post after his reception by President Coolidge Friday.

The French government had been informed before M. Daeschner sailed for the United States that the Clementel memorandum had been found unacceptable by the Washington government as a basis for a discussion of debt funding. In the light of this fact, it is regarded as more than possible that Premier Herriot, Finance Minister Clementel and M. Daeschner thoroughly surveyed the situation during their conference in Paris.

Chairman Borah of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee, who recently asserted in a Senate address on the debt situation that the United States had paid France in full for all Revolutionary obligations, was informed by the Treasury Department today that its records showed remission of certain arrears of interest on these loans.

The department's letter referred to a review of the transactions between the American government and France after the Revolution, which was prepared last November and subsequently inserted in the Congressional Record by Mr. Borah, setting forth that all loans incurred by the colonies had been settled in full. With the exception of the remissions mentioned, the letter stated the November review as printed in the Record was correct.

NEW YORK HAS COLDEST SPELL

mometers stood at 6 deg. above zero. During the day it rose two points, then began to slump again with the evening shadows.

SOUTH SUFFERS

The cold wave now covers all the Eastern and Southern States. The line of zero temperatures runs southward almost to the District of Columbia. South of there, according to reports reaching the Weather Bureau, a radical drop in temperatures is accompanied by snow and sleet, with cold rains farther south. The Carolinas, Georgia and Virginia are under blankets of snow.

To the west, Nebraska tonight is suffering from heavy snowstorms which are being swirled into big drifts by high winds. Subzero weather still prevails in that section.

Sioux City, Iowa, and vicinity is suffering from an exceptionally heavy fall of snow which shows no signs of abating tonight. Although the Sioux City street-car companies had sweepers at work early, cars during the rush hour were operating with difficulty. The government weather forecast is for continued snow with lower temperatures.

A new cold wave has appeared in the Canadian provinces, lowering thermometers to 18 deg. below zero. At Eagle (Alaska) the temperature hit 62 below. The tail end of this new cold wave, it is predicted, will sweep over the Northwest and may reach into the Middle West again.

A mistake of one-half cent a mile run by London omnibuses would cost the company $300,000 a year.

WHEAT ATTAINS NEW PINNACLE

ket" in recent years had gone on a rampage.

Five minutes after the pits had opened May wheat shot up to $2.01 1-4, a record-breaking price for the commodity outside of war times. Scenes of excitement rarely witnessed in the great grain exchanges attended the advance to a price higher than that which even the foremost experts on the grain market had predicted.

FOREIGN MARKET FIRM

There was a note of disappointment that crept into the jollification by those on the long end of the market. Most of it came from $2 bulls who had let go of their holdings yesterday, in the fear that the $2 mark might not be reached.

Wheat had reached $1.99 3-4 yesterday and many experts advised selling. The result was that there was immense profit-taking, but there were differences of opinion among operators and brokers as to who cashed in.

Foreign markets continued firm. There were high prices early in the day at Winnipeg, Liverpool and Buenos Aires. Foreign trading centers still were feverishly ordering wheat, in the hope that they might fill the grain shortage caused by the failure of their own crops. European trade centers reported large orders.

Hungary, Egypt, Smyrna, Russia and Bulgaria again were in the field to buy through their agents.

Rumors crediting Cullen and Patten with "killings" in wheat were denied by representatives of the two men.

Extradition of Asserted Bunko Man Approved

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE]

SACRAMENTO, Jan. 28.—Extradition of Raymond J. Bischoff, wanted in Chicago, on charges of conducting a gigantic swindle game, similar to the "get-rich-quick" plan, operated by Ponzi a few years ago, was approved here today by Gov. Richardson.

Bischoff is at present being held in the Pasadena jail. He was arrested more than a year ago in Chicago and released on bond. He later fled to Southern California.

Jusserand Goes; Asserts Regard for Americans

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE]

NEW YORK, Jan. 28.—Jules J. Jusserand sailed home today after twenty-two years as French Ambassador to the United States.

"The most important years of my life I have spent in your country," he said. "I leave my duties now in the hands of Emile Daeschner, my successor, and depart full of love for you Americans and your America."

BOMB IN MAIL WRECKS PENNSYLVANIA OFFICE

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE]

JOHNSTOWN (Pa.) Jan. 28.—A bomb contained in a package mailed today in the South Fork postoffice by a man who said he was Giuseppi Siourella, exploded after it had been placed in a mail bag and wrecked the rear end of the postoffice building. No one was hurt.

WHEELER STAND TOLD BY STONE

the motive the indictment would be sought in Montana.

SUBDUES ASHURST

"It is a principle of law that a man shall be tried in the vicinage," Senator Ashurst, Democrat, Arizona, weightily propounded.

"I know of no such principle of law," quietly observed Mr. Stone.

"Never heard of it?" exclaimed Ashurst in astonishment.

"The law is that a man shall be tried where the crime is committed," said the Attorney-General.

"Well, that's the vicinage," said Ashurst in triumph.

"Then the vicinage in this case is the District of Columbia," rejoined the Attorney-General and Mr. Ashurst subsided.

Mr. Stone said that he ordered a fresh investigation of the matter with which Wheeler was indicted in Montana for practicing before a department as attorney for Gordon Campbell, the oil man.

"The investigation indicated that Campbell's promotion schemes involved primarily the securing, fraudulently, of oil and gas prospecting permits on public lands in Montana and that the most important element in them was the validating of these permits by the Interior Department and the approval of assignments of these permits by the executive officers of the Interior Department at Washington," said Mr. Stone.

CHANGE IN PLOT SEEN

"These subsequent investigations changed entirely the aspect of the crime which seemed to have been committed in Montana. Instead of a mere fraudulent scheme to use the mails in the selling of oil stock, it appeared that there was a scheme to defraud the United States of its public lands and of the oil and minerals underlying those lands. The principal and most important acts in furtherance of the scheme were to be performed, and were in fact performed, at the seat of the government. A crime, if committed in these transactions, was committed within the District of Columbia, where, under the statutes of the United States, it was properly triable. Much of the evidence required is documentary in character and is located in the official files of the Interior Department, and numerous overt acts in connection with the transaction were committed in the District of Columbia. While from the facts presented to me it appeared that a number of people were unquestionably implicated in this transaction, it became apparent that testimony could not be taken with respect to it, without indicating that Senator Wheeler was involved to it. I, therefore, came to the conclusion that in fairness to him, and with a view to the due and orderly administration of justice, an opportunity should be given to him to explain his connection with the transaction. But independently of his connection with it, there had apparently been a crime committed and that crime had been committed within the District of Columbia and the case could not be submitted to a grand jury without developing the part Senator Wheeler had taken in it.

"I, therefore, gave instructions early in December that the matter should be submitted to a grand jury in the District of Columbia. I further, at that time, gave instructions that the utmost caution should be used in presenting the case, to present it with absolute fairness to all the defendants concerned, and in view of Senator Wheeler's relation to the case, I gave instructions that he should be permitted to appear before the grand jury to testify, if he so desired, provided he waive immunity and that a reasonable time in advance of grand jury proceedings, either Senator Wheeler or his counsel should be advised of my determination."

IN SELF-DEFENSE

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

BAKERSFIELD, Jan. 28.—The killing of Ernest Davis, resident of Bakersfield, was justifiable on the part of M. C. Sloan, a Coroner's jury held today when it returned a verdict of "justifiable homicide."

Testimony given by participants in an asserted "party" at the Davis home, on Cottonwood Road, last Thursday night and early Friday morning, tended to show that Sloan had fatally wounded Davis in self-defense, according to the authorities.

SHOWERS IN KERN

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

BAKERSFIELD, Jan. 28.—Light showers descending from ominous clouds this morning dwindled down to a lazy mist and ended in a burst of sunshine at noon once more destroying hopes of the local farm owners that the storm of two days ago would revisit this area. Reports from the Kern County Land Company said no record was obtainable at any of their rain gauges.

pledged in favor of the amendment by both party platforms."

SENATORS SEE REDS BACK OF AMENDMENT

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE]

WASHINGTON, Jan. 28.—Communism backed the child labor amendment with a view to laying the foundation for "a class struggle" Senator Bayard, Democrat, Delaware, declared today in the Senate.

"It was the start of a movement they hoped would split into classes," he said. "I do not mean to infer, however, that Senators who supported the amendment here had that thought in mind."

Senator King, Democrat, Utah, supported the statement, declaring Communists and Socialists favored centralization in the Federal power and destruction of State rights, but Senator Walsh, Democrat, Massachusetts, pointed out that the proposal had been sponsored in Congress by conservatives.

Action thus far taken by the States upon the child labor amendment assures its defeat, Senator Wadsworth, Republican, New York, declared.

"It is now perfectly apparent," he said, "that the States are suspicious of further extension of Federal power and intend to retain exclusive jurisdiction over matters which they are competent to handle."

CALL REJECTION ONLY "TEMPORARY SETBACK"

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE]

WASHINGTON, Jan. 28.—Rejection of the child labor amendment by a State legislature "is a temporary setback, not a final defeat," said a statement tonight by the organizations associated for ratification of the child labor amendment commenting upon unfavorable action on the amendment in thirteen States.

Declaring that Constitution authorities agree that ratification of a constitutional amendment is final, but rejection is not, the statement said the organizations' "answer to the campaign of misrepresentation which has hindered speedy ratification of the children's amendment, is an immediate speeding up of activity, with the object of securing ratification by the thirty-three States which have not yet acted and reconsideration in the States where one or both houses have rejected."

"A sober second thought will be the result where the real facts reach these legislators," the statement asserted.

DECLARES FARMERS' FEARS ARE GROUNDLESS

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE]

CHICAGO, Jan. 28.—It would be preposterous and unfeasible to attempt to control child labor on home farms, Owen R. Lovejoy, secretary of the National Child Labor Committee, told members of the Illinois League of Women Voters here today.

"People are letting their false fears eat out their common sense and human decency," he declared. "The people of the Middle West have, as a rule, good child labor laws. If they stop to consider they will find no reason why they should not help the children in other States to have as good a chance for life as their own children have. This is only American fairness."

NEW MEXICO HOUSE VOTES RATIFICATION

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE]

SANTA FE (N. M.) Jan. 28.—By a vote of 40 to 8, the House of Representatives of the State Legislature late today voted to ratify the Federal child labor amendment. Seven Republicans and one Democrat voted against it.

Dawes May Act Ancestor's Part in Revere's Ride

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

WASHINGTON, Jan. 28.—Charles G. Dawes, Vice-President-elect, not only will be asked to attend the one hundred and fiftieth anniversary of the battles of Lexington and Concord on April 19 and 20, but, if present plans are carried out, he may also be asked to impersonate his ancestor, William Dawes, who rode with Paul Revere. While Revere got the historical credit out of that ride to rouse the countrymen against the "red coats," historians agree that William Dawes played a more prominent part, in fact.

John W. Weeks, Secretary of War, has been made chairman of the government commission in connection with the celebration, and it is now planned, if public business will permit, for the President, Gen. Dawes, who then will be Vice-President, and the Cabinet to attend the celebration together.

SHOALS BILL PASSAGE SEEN

Naming of Favorable Conferees Forecasts Victory in House and Senate This Session

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE]

WASHINGTON, Jan. 28.—The Underwood bill authorizing leasing of Muscle Shoals advanced a step toward final enactment today when it was referred by the Senate to a joint Congressional conference composed mainly of friendly conferees. Both opponents and supporters of the measure expressed the opinion that the vote indicated that with some amendments it would pass both the House and Senate at the current session.

The Senate selected Senators Keyes of New Hampshire and McKinley, Illinois, Republicans, and Kendrick, Wyoming, Democrat, as its conferees after Chairman Norris of the Agriculture Committee, with Senators McNary, Oregon, and Smith, South Carolina, the ranking Republican and Democratic members, had declined to serve.

Opponents of the bill centered their efforts on selection of Senators Norris, McNary and Smith, who voted against the measure, and in the usual course, because of their positions on the committee, were in line for the designation. They announced, however, that they would not accept the appointments and then Senator McKellar, Democrat, Tennessee, another opponent of the bill, made a motion that they be named. This was adopted and the three then declined to serve.

A half-dozen other Senators also refused to act as members and finally, with no precedents broken, Senators Keyes, McKinley and Kendrick, all of whom voted for the bill, were chosen.

The House ordered the Muscle Shoals legislation to conference yesterday and the representatives of both chambers will begin their work of ironing out differences between measures passed by each at a meeting called for tomorrow. They are expected to reach an agreement with little delay.

chored in a cove at Pender Island, near Victoria, B. C., according to evidence in possession of the Provincial police department here.

The cargo of the Lilluma was valued at $15,000. Kelley and Pfluger was arrested after the hijacking of the vessel, and sentenced to Victoria to two years each in the penitentiary. The Lilluma was owned by Adolph E. Ongsted.

Police asserted the Eggers brothers were involved in the theft of a valuable cargo from the gasoline boat Hadsell, also skippered by Ongsted. The Hadsell was due near an island off Victoria, where she was to meet a Seattle gasoline boat said to be the Kyak.

The Eggers boarded the Kyak and on approaching the Hadsell, opened fire and wound Ongsted. The liquor cargo was transferred to the hijacking boat and the Hadsell set adrift, the police said.

OAKLAND BRIDGE NEARER REALITY

Golden Gate Span Building Will be Helpful

Problems One Step Closer to Solution, Says Strauss

Engineer in City to Advocate Americanization

Engineering problems involved in the building of a bridge over the bay between San Francisco and Oakland, such as has been talked of for many years, are one step nearer solution, Joseph B. Strauss, Chicago engineer, guest at the Biltmore Hotel, said last night.

Mr. Strauss is engineer of the $21,000,000 bridge that is to be begun this year across the Golden Gate at San Francisco. It will be more than twice as large as any bridge now in existence. Mr. Strauss said:

MR. STRAUSS' STATEMENT

"In solving the problems attached to the building of the Golden Gate bridge, we have approached much nearer than ever before the problems to be incurred in building a bridge between San Francisco and Oakland."

The principal problem involved in the Oakland bridge, Mr. Strauss said, is the bridging of the 9000 to 10,000-foot gap between Goat Island and Telegraph Hill in San Francisco, the problem of the gap between Oakland and the island being comparatively simple.

That a very definite movement looking toward a realization of the dream of the San Francisco-Oakland bridge is under way was learned from Mr. Strauss, but he would give no details of the movement.

The Golden Gate bridge is to be one and one-sixth miles long, the main span being 4000 feet. It is of the cantilever suspension type. The longest bridges now in existence are 1600-foot bridges in New York and Quebec. An 1800-foot bridge is in cource of construction in Philadelphia, he said.

Mr. Strauss is here to interest Angelenos, he said, in the American Citizenship Foundation, an organization just branching out from Chicago. It proposes to conduct courses in citizenship among boys and girls and among adults in industry and business. He is president of the foundation and William Wrigley, Jr., is vice-president. John Fisher of the Famous Players-Lasky Company is a local man on the foundation's national board.

AMERICANIZATION

"This is a work of Americanizing Americans and aliens," Mr. Strauss said, "and is intended to guarantee our national strength and prosperity, to provide definite citizenship training, to conduct periodic citizenship ceremonies in each community, to introduce and popularize a national code of citizenship and to develop the highest type of national ideals and national spirit."

Details of the local organization probably will not be completed on this visit here, Mr. Strauss said. He will return to San Francisco today.

CITY'S NEED OF TRANSIT MEANS TOLD

De Leuw Says Greater Investment Necessary to Insure Proper Growth

Proper rapid transit facilities are required to insure the continuance of the Los Angeles type of community development — the single family dwelling — Charles E. De Leuw of Keiker, De Leuw & Co., told members of the City Club yesterday. Mr. De Leuw's firm recently completed a transportation survey for the city and county and will make a report soon. This will be based on work done since last May.

Of the larger cities, Los Angeles and Detroit are the only ones to attain a population of 1,000,000 since the influx of modern motor traffic, he said. The effect of this burden, he declared, is to aggravate the necessity for rapid transit. Los Angeles, therefore, has more perplexing problems than any of the older cities faced at the same stage in their development.

Los Angeles is far behind other large cities in the present investment in transportation facilities, the speaker asserted. He cited the instance of Boston, a city not much larger than Los Angeles, declaring the Massachusetts city has approximately $150,000,000 invested, compared with $45,000,000 in transportation in urban Los Angeles. The city of Boston has supplied $45,000,000 of that sum, he said.

The conclusion drawn by Mr. De Leuw was that Los Angeles must make an additional investment to place herself in the same advantageous position as Eastern cities.

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

LONG-LOST BROTHERS REUNITED

Similarity of Voices is Recognized by Teacher and Meeting Follows

A Los Angeles vocal teacher training to see with her ears was responsible for the happy meeting yesterday of Ben and Roy Yost, two brothers, who had not looked into each other's faces since they parted seven years ago at the home of their childhood.

Ben Yost, 17 years of age, tenor soloist, with the Whitney Boys' Chorus and a member of the Senior Glee Club of the Polytechnic High School, left the home of his stepfather, Charles Zuelsorf, at Portland, four years ago to travel with H. E. K. Whitney and his band of singers.

Seven years ago, Roy Yost, 22, left his home to "take a little look at the world," and since that time has visited every country of the Western Hemisphere. A few days ago he reached Los Angeles.

Possessing a good baritone voice, he decided to take vocal lessons and meandering through the Music Art Building yesterday, he applied at the studio of Miss F. B. Holdsworth.

While giving Roy his first lesson, Miss Holdsworth suddenly paused and remarked, "Your voice has in it something that reminds me of the timbre of the voice of another young man who takes lessons here."

"What's his name?" asked Roy, merely to be "polite."

"I can't think, now—but wait a minute, let me look at my book. It's Ben Yost," she continued after a hasty glance at the book.

For a moment Roy lost his voice entirely and then he gasped, "Great snakes! Where can I find him?"

Ten minutes later the brothers were clasped in each other's arms. The boys' parents were musicians, the father having been a violinist and their mother a successful teacher and concert singer. Roy will become a member of the Whitney Chorus and the brothers will be heard in a duet at the First Congregational Church at Long Beach, next Sunday evening.

"We have another brother, George, of whose whereabouts we have known nothing for many years," said Roy. "He's a singer, too, and we are hot g we will find him through the mediumship of radio."

Flivver Owners Given Stay on Headlight Law

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE]

SACRAMENTO, Jan. 28.—In compliance with a resolution adopted by the Legislature, Will H. Marsh, chief of the State Division of Motor Vehicles, announced today that he will not compel owners of cars manufactured prior to 1919 and lighted from magnetos to comply with provisions of the law requiring standard headlight equipment until September 1, 1925.

This action will save a large number of farmers and others who own old type, popular-priced cars from the necessity of spending money for headlight equipment on automobiles that because of their age have become of small value.

An official statement declared that only a sand bank, 100 meters long, on Port Alexander, had been submerged. It was added that there were no casualties as the submerged portion was not inhabited.

SCHOOL FIGHT IN SAN MATEO

Principal Says Conditions Due to Women

Club Members Blamed for Jazz, Drinking

Statement of Educator Puts City in Turmoil

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

SAN MATEO, Jan. 28.—Charges of W. H. Glasscock, principal of San Mateo Union High School, that club women of this and surrounding communities are themselves responsible for "jazz conditions" in the public schools, today threw this city into one of the bitterest community rows in its history, with prominent social leaders aligning themselves definitely for a fight against certain school heads.

It is Glasscock's specific charge that "the parents and club women have eaten the juicy meat of the apple and have thrown the core of criticism and blame upon the young people for the things they themselves do," which has precipitated the row.

The high school principal further declared that "modern modes of dress, criticised by the parents, are established by the very mothers who do the 'kicking'."

To which Mrs. W. E. Finn, vice-president of San Mateo County Federation of Parent-Teachers' Associations, replies that she is "so stupefied" by the attitude of the principal that she is "at a loss to understand him."

The whole thing will come to a head at a special meeting of the Parent-Teachers' Association of San Mateo High School, called by William H. Taylor, its president, at the instigation of Glasscock, to "investigate" charges of the club women that drinking, vulgar dancing and other "jazz tendencies" are demoralizing the public schools.

The whole controversy has been precipitated by a resolution recently passed by the County Federation of Parent-Teachers' Associations and confirmed by the Federation of Women's Clubs, in which it was pointed out that "drunkenness" and "jazz" were becoming more and more evident at parties held by high school students of San Mateo county and urging more rigorous chaperonage of these parties.

Leaders of the Federation of Women's Club have taken a decided stand in the matter.

RAIL HEADS IN NEW BELT LINE PARLEY

No Conclusion Reached at Meeting; Will Study Data at Home Offices

Executive heads of the Union Pacific, the Southern Pacific and the Pacific Electric railways who are in the city in connection with the proposal to establish a municipally owned belt line in the Los Angeles Harbor district or unify those roads now there, met again yesterday with the representatives of the Greater Harbor Committee of 200 of the Los Angeles Chamber of Commerce in the directors' room of the Pacific-Southwest Trust and Savings Bank. No developments on the project were concluded.

The executives, it is said, will depart for their respective headquarters within the next few days but are expected to return soon for another conference. While away the rail chiefs will study the different propositions in order to render a decision on the matter more quickly when they return.

The government has demanded that the harbor district be given a publically owned or controlled belt-line railway, extending service to the entire port area. Acceptance of this project, it is said, means amalgamation of the three lines now running into the harbor or an opposition municipally owned line and the completion of the breakwater and harbor dredging for which Federal appropriation of $6,500,000 has already been provided.

ARIZONA PASSES ON CHILD LABOR

Legislature Ignores Failure of Amendment

Resolution Passed Will be Forwarded to East

Fourteen Bills Deal With School Administration

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

PHOENIX, Jan. 28.—Ignoring the national failure of the child-labor amendment to the national Constitution, Arizona's Legislature this afternoon passed the measure. The resolution from the House was redrafted in the Senate to agree with the language of the proposition received from Washington and then was passed unanimously. The amendment was accepted by the House and the resolution will be forwarded east.

Understood to have indorsement by a committee of the State Educational Association, Representative Pomeroy this afternoon offered fourteen new bills dealing with the powers of the State Board of Education and of school and district administration.

Changes are sought in the manner of making the school textbooks and in contracting for their supply; the teachers' old-age and service pension is raised to $1200 a year; teachers' qualifications are demanded of county - school superintendents; changes are made in the census law; with stricter enforcement of the compulsory school attendance law, district schools are permitted to establish higher grades, facility is provided for consolidation of districts and trustees are empowered to charge tuition to nonresidents.

A Senate bill would give the State Corporation Commission authority for all publication of incorporation, now one of the main sources of rural newspaper income.

Chinese are becoming more interested in British material for shirts and increased shipments of prints are being made.

Texan Writes Long Beach Chamber to Get Him Live Devil Fish

[By a "Times" Staff Correspondent.]

LONG BEACH, Jan. 28.—Have you a nice, man killing devil-fish about your premises that you would like to part with?

You can find a market for him in Houston, Tex. The Long Beach Chamber of Commerce is engaged in a still hunt for a real, live, not too friendly octopus, following receipt of a letter today from M. C. Thocker, C. P. Station, Box 95, Houston, Tex.:

"Please furnish me by return mail the name and address of a sea fishing party that can obtain a devil-fish or man-killing octopus," is Mr. Thocker's modest request.

GLORIA'S HONEYMOON HERE

Film Star Weds French Marquis; Will Return to Southland With Groom Soon

BY HENRY WALES

[BY CABLE—EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

PARIS, Jan. 28.—"No honeymoon for me, we are too busy winding up the last scenes in 'Mme. Sans Gene' so that we can sail for America on February 11," said Gloria Swanson, American movie actress, after her wedding to the youthful Marquis James Henri De La Falaise et De La Coudray.

"We are going to California for our honeymoon, where we can take a long rest," continued Gloria, shaking her bobbed black shiny head emphatically, while her husband approvingly inhaled cigarette smoke through an eighteen-inch amber holder—a gift of the bride.

Only a few of Gloria's friends knew of her intention to marry, but all Paris has been agog for months over the assiduous courtship of the youthful Marquis. In fact, in an effort to stop the tongue-wagging, Gloria had Falaise officially hired by the Paramount company and set down on the salary list as an "interpreter" for her, as he was constantly with her in Paris, Compiegne and Fontainebleau, or wherever pictures were being taken.

GROOM 27 YEARS OF AGE

Falaise is only 27, but he is an expert with movie actresses. In 1919, just after the armistice, when Pearl White first came to France, Falaise soon evinced a lively interest and, although then only 21, he was seen regularly in her company. Then when the Dolly sisters first appeared on the horizon the Marquis showed a marked preference for one of them, but he could never quite determine for which one.

Running true to form, the Marquis managed to meet Gloria when she came to Paris last summer and he immediately became a fixture in her entourage.

Falaise is a nephew of Jean Hennesy, manufacturer of the famous Three Star brandy and recently appointed French Ambassador to Switzerland. The mother of the Marquis was M. Hennesy's sister, but both his parents have been dead for some time.

Gloria's passport says she is 27. The new Marquise has decided to maintain her American citizenship under the new regulations of the State Department and she had the name on her passport changed from Mrs. Herbert Somborn, whom she was recently, to the Marquise De la Falaise.

WEDDING CEREMONY

Hallet Johnson, First Secretary of the Embassy here, who was just transferred to Paris from Madrid, was the bride's witness, and the Baron Alguy stood up for the bridegroom.

Leon Perot, director of the film company, made the arrangements, and Gloria arrived at the Mairie of the Sixteenth Arrondissement just before noon in a fawn-colored suit, with a big purple orchid pinned to her breast and a little black cloth hat, flesh-colored stockings and openwork slippers.

The Marquis, resplendent in a full-dress suit, which is customary for weddings in Europe regardless of the hour the ceremony is held, and a burnished silk hat, awaited nervously with the inevitable cigarette.

A long-bearded Mayor read the ceremony in jig time and Falaise slipped a platinum circlet of diamonds on the bride's finger. Then the Mayor gave Gloria a paternal kiss, Johnson gave her a friendly embrace and others present kissed her hand. The Marquis then up and kissed her full in the mouth, carrying away a souvenir from her scarlet lipstick.

The couple then dashed to the plaza at Hense Hotel, where the wedding breakfast was given and in the afternoon Gloria went to her dressmakers to try on a couple of new dresses.

"I am going back to Fontainebleau tomorrow and I won't get another breathing spell until we sail," said Gloria. "I am happy beyond words," she added, and the Marquis bowed stiffly.

Falaise entered the French army at the outreak of the war when he was 17 years of age, serving with a crack cavalry regiment which was dismounted and sent to the trenches. During the Somme offensive in 1916, the Marquis was slightly wounded in the leg and afterward he was transferred to the tank division, which was created in 1917. He was awarded three official citations for bravery and the Croix de Guerre.

"No, I don't intend to enter the movies," said the Marquis, and Gloria nodded approvingly. "This will be my first trip to the United States, but I know many Americans whom I met here."

Gloria puffed at a cigarette nervously while her husand was talking and then she telephoned her chauffeur to get her limousine ready for a shopping tour on which the bridegroom accompanied her.

Gloria's little adopted child peeked into the salon from her nursery, wondering what it was all about, and then she rushed up and kissed her new papa.

This is Gloria's third matrimonial adventure. Her previous husbands were Wallace Beery, motion-picture actor, and Herbert Somborn, wealthy Pasadenan.

When Beery was granted a divorce in December, 1918, from Gloria on the grounds of desertion, she is said to have written him:

"I don't want you to cry. Please don't coax me and don't run around and make a fool of yourself."

Beery testified in court that money matters brought on the quarrel that led to their separation and that Gloria refused to have any children.

On December 20, 1919, Gloria was married to Herbert Somborn after a courtship extending over several months. In September, 1923, Somborn was granted a divorce, a separation having occurred between the two, however, in May, 1921. When approached for a reconciliation with her husband, Gloria was said to have replied:

"My career is all important. I cannot be tied down by marriage. I think I will be better living alone."

Somborn said that his wife placed her screen career over everything else in the world, including men.

And since that time Gloria has been reported to have been interested in several others, notably Jascha Heifetz, well-known violinist.

A child of the Somborn marriage is being provided for under a trust fund.

SACRAMENTO VALLEY FARM RELIEF FRAMED

GENERAD REVISION OF FLOOD CONTROL PROJECT TO BE ATTEMPTED

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE]

SACRAMENTO, Jan. 28.—Relief for the owners of farm lands of the Sacramento Valley, who now are heavily assessed under reclamation and flood control projects, was promised at a meeting here today of interested agencies, providing the State and Federal governments adopt the plans being worked out by the State Reclamation Board and the California Debris Commission for revising the general flood control project of the Sacramento and San Joaquin valleys.

The meeting was in the nature of a conference between members of the Reclamation Board and an executive committee of citizens which was appointed recently by A. T. Spencer, as president of the board to assist in carrying out the revised program.

The purpose of the program, together with the objects of a group of bills already introduced in the Legislature for the purpose of amending the reclamation laws of the State, was outlined by Stephen W. Downey, attorney for the board.

It is estimated, Downey said, that the cost of the revised plan would aggregate $50,000,000, which would be borne in equal part by the State, the Federal government and the landowners benefitting by the plan.

Three Jurists Halted by Officer When They Violate Law

Jaywalking was definitely proved to be a human failing yesterday noon when three of the justices of the State Supreme Court were caught in the act by a traffic officer at Sixth and Olive streets.

Deliberating on the question of where they should eat their noon repast between sessions of the highest court of the State, Justice Lawlor, Lennon and Seawell came to the southwest corner of the intersection.

Traffic was moving north and south but the magistrates walked into it and as far as the center of the street. Then came a whistle and a commanding direction from the officer for the pedestrians to return to the curb. They complied.

Honduras Bill to Ban Negroes is Introduced

[BY CABLE AND ASSOCIATED PRESS]

TEGUCIGALPA (Honduras) Jan. 28.—A resolution to amend the immigration law so as to bar negroes from Honduras was introduced in the national Congress today by Deputy Ramireo Carvajal. The reason for the resolution is the asserted menace created along the Atlantic Coast by the importation of negroes by banana shipping companies to compete with native labor.

This immigration is declared to have brought about numerous clashes in which there have been many casualties among the negroes as well as among the native population.

Soviet Cannot Pay Old Loans, France is Told

[BY CABLE AND ASSOCIATED PRESS]

MOSCOW, Jan. 28.—The soviet government cannot recognize French loans to former Russian governments, according to an interview given today by Leonid Krassin, the soviet Ambassador to France, upon his arrival here from Paris. The Ambassador added that if an agreement was desired on the debt issue it could be reached only by compromise.

"If France could only give the soviet government sufficient long-term credits to re-establish the Russian economic position," he said, "then my government probably will agree to acknowledge part of the sums owed France, such as those due small bondholders and private persons. So far, however, we have not entered into actual negotiations with France on any of the disputed matters."

Joerger had sued for $140,000. A series of similar suits are pending here.

Remember, there's more due your motor than gasoline which starts quickly. That's a common quality with good gasolines.

YOUR motor-pistons should receive a powerful thrust, not a sudden crashing blow upon the head. That thrust should come from a sort of series of explosions which deliver power impulses throughout the entire length of each piston's stroke.

Non-detonating gasoline produces such explosions and Union is non-detonating gasoline.

JOHNNY DUNDEE RENIGS; LAYS CLAIM TO FEATHERWEIGHT RING TITLE

COTTISH-WOP FICKLE FELLER

...'Em to Dust Off Benny's Throne for Him

...Retired Monarch Ignites Fistic Bombshell

...t Statement Repudiates His Famous Letter

[RESERVE DISPATCH]
NEW YORK, Jan. 28.—...y Dundee, who is supposed to be the retired featherweight champion of the world, tossed a bombshell into the circles by his announcement that he still considers himself the holder of the world's featherweight title.

...dee's statements would seem completely repudiate the letter he is said to have written to the New York State Commission in which he stated that it was no longer possible for him to make the featherweight limit, 126 pounds.

"I acted in good faith when I told the commission that I could make the featherweight limit," he explains. "At that time I did think that I could. I am convinced that I can make the featherweight limit of 126 pounds and I am determined to do it. I am ready to step back into the ring at 126 pounds and claim the best of the featherweights. I still consider that I am the lightweight champion of the world. Titles are won and lost in the ring."

Dundee is not going to reclaim the world's featherweight title, but is going to enter the lists as a contender for the lightweight title recently vacated by Benny Leonard.

Upon Benny Leonard's announcement of his retirement that he had brought Johnny scurrying back in this country. The veteran scribe honor believes, in his old age, that he cannot only knock over the best of the featherweights at 126 pounds, but that he can beat the best of the current lightweights.

The announcement made recently by the commission that a lightweight elimination tournament is to be held was music to Dundee's ears. He loved it. Johnny announced that he would play a prominent part in this elimination meeting.

GIBBONS PASSES UP COAST TRIP

Robertson, whose foot injury was renewed in the Oregon game last week, may not be able to play. If he cannot, that will be a blow to Willamette, for Robertson is equally good on offensive and defensive.

Fred "Windy" Winsor may "sell" his interest in Tony Fuente, the hot-tamale champion, to Joe Levy, who managed Joe Rivers in the days when the local Mexican was a leading contender in the lightweight ranks.

He announced last night that a conference would be held with Levy today, at which time the latter may agree to Winsor's price of $7500 for the heavyweight battler's services.

KEEN BATTLE EXPECTED

South Accorded Almost Even Break When Tennis Stars of State Tangle

On the face of things it looks as though the south is in for a drubbing when the Southern California tennis team faces the "four" from San Francisco at the Midwick Club Saturday and Sunday. Such, however, is not the opinion of the four stars that will defend Southern California's laurels, while many of the wiseacres that make the local tennis club their headquarters hold the same view.

Undoubtedly the feature battle for Saturday will be the affair between "Little Bill" Johnston, head of the invading delegation, and Harvey Snodgrass, ranking singles player of Southern California. Johnston has had the better of all their net arguments but one, Snodgrass taking his measure in a terrific match staged here two years ago. As the Southerner is at the peak of his form now, it is quite possible that he will be able to worst Johnston again, at any rate he will do his durndest.

When it is considered that Casey was defeated by Snodgrass and Westbrook, proving he is not invincible, not so long ago things look decidedly brighter for the local hopes, and it seems that Godshall will stand a chance. Further, it

Following a conference with James Irsfeld and Bert Hartwell, athletic officials of the Movie City club, Smith stated that plans for the trip were complete. Ten players will make the trip, leaving Los Angeles the latter part of February. Coach and Capt. Chuck Kearney will take Tardey, Reed, DeGrasse, White, Warner, MacFadden, Davis, Mayberry and Schammert to Kansas City. This list includes four forwards, four guards and two centers.

Santos Whips Curtis in Ring at Wilmington

Digging in with a sharp punishing left, followed by a right cross that was dangerous, Sammy Santos punished Buck Curtis almost to death in the first five rounds at Wilmington last night and won the decision. Santos floored Curtis three times in the fifth, but the latter proved his gameness by coming back strong in the last three rounds and making a whale of a battle out of the affair.

Jimmy Young and Young Bells fought to a draw in the semi-wind-up, mixing it hammer and tongs from start to finish.

Sailor Buddy Seigel took the decision over Frankie Quigley in the special event, although many were of the opinion that the fight should have been a draw. The boys stood toe to toe and socked for the whole of the performance, and had the spectators wild several times.

In the third event Frankie Carter had his hand raised over Peb Barton, who substituted for Jimmy Adair. The battle was a bear.

Jimmy Gould and Sailor Mullin battled their way through four rounds to a draw in the second event, putting on an interesting exhibition. Sailor Jones and Boob McNutt put on an affair for the curtain raiser that was a riot. The boys waded in heavily and were about even till the third round, when Jones kayoed his opponent with a right to the solar plexus.

REOPEN CULVER BOXING ARENA

Tommy Loughran, Billy Freas Meet in Main Bout

Assure Strelinger Michigan Scrapper is Tough

Fight Club Stages Big Tilt Week from Saturday

BY PAUL LOWRY

The storm that broke over the reopening of the Culver City arena last week has finally subsided, and the home of the world's fastest speedway will swing into the fight calendar one week from Saturday night. The original opening bill will hold, Matchmaker Larry Hunt announced yesterday, the renowned Tommy Loughran meeting Billy Freas of Michigan in the ten-round main event.

Commissioner Seth Strelinger held up the card, as was quite right and proper, until he had first assured himself that Freas was enough of a fighter to meet a chap of Loughran's known caliber.

Assured by E. H. McAuley, boxing commissioner of Michigan, that Freas was "capable of meeting anyone at his weight," Strelinger gave Hunt the necessary permit and the match is on.

Hunt was given a tough night, following right on the heels of the Hudkin-Myers scrap at Hollywood, but with Loughran as his big attraction he ought to pack 'em in.

As far as fighting top-notchers goes Loughran is not the only man in the main event who has been there. It seems that Freas has been looping the boys for the count with regularity back in Michigan, and one of his last fights was with Harry Krohn, the Akron thunderbolt. The fight lasted four rounds. Krohn has fought many of the good boys, including Young Stribling, Paul Berlenbach and Jack Delaney.

Larney Litchtenstein, manager of Ray Walker, the boy many critics tout as the conqueror of Kid Kaplan when they meet, says Freas is one of the best boxers in his class and one of the real contenders for the light heavyweight title.

Hunt says Culver City will not show weekly, but he hopes to stage top-notch fights every month or six weeks. He has lines out for Gibbons, Young Stribling, Jim Slattery and others.

Silva-Rivers Tomorrow

The Silva-Rivers feud will be revived tomorrow night. These two good little boys have fought innumerable times, but there still lingers considerable doubt as to who is the better boy.

The winner may get Jimmy McLarnin or Fidel La Barba, a tough plum to fight for, whichever way you figure it.

It's not much use boosting a show like this. These kids ought to stir up enough fuss for the boys to talk over for weeks. It's for ten rounds, too.

In the semi-wind-up the pride of the newsboys, Mushy Callahan, will tangle with Young Datto, the Filipino bellhop king.

Datto wants to get Carter, Callahan's stablemate, but he has to beat Callahan first.

At Pasadena Tonight

Sailor Ashmore and Frankie Tierney are billed for ten rounds in the main event at the Pasadena armory tonight. Tierney claims a record of twenty knockouts in thirty-seven fights, and Ashmore was once the Pacific Coast lightweight champion.

Young Lancho and Cyclone Burns meet in the semi-wind-up.

Papke-Layman

Young Papke, the human windmill, and Joe Layman, the tough Mexican, are the boys slated for the ten-round main event at the Lyceum Saturday night. Billy Blake and Benny Diaz meet in the semi.

DYAS QUINTET AFTER CAGE CHAMPIONSHIP

The B. H. Dyas basketball team has got off to a flying start in the Commercial League race. So far the Dyas cagers have won three games and lost none.

Friday night they will meet Barker Brothers' fast quintet on the Hollywood High court and a fast game is expected, for, contrary to the old saying, the Barkers have a bite.

FIGHT PROMOTERS MUST GET BUSY

Ten days of grace will be allowed fight club promoters in which to visit Commissioner Seth W. P. Strelinger's office in Hollywood and secure permanent permits in place of the temporary permits under which they have been operating. The commissioner said yesterday that those who fail to heed this notice will have their permits revoked.

RABBIT PUNCHES

By Paul Lowry

AFTER watching William Alexander Hart outpoint Dode Bercot all the way at Doyle's this week, it is very apparent that the rough, rugged maulers of the West are going to have to brush up on their boxing. Either that or drop many a battle to the boys who hail from east of the Rockies.

The old high-pressure four-round game, where you could wade in and slambang your way to a decision if you were as lucky landing punches as the other fellow, is altogether different from the ten-round racket.

The latter requires a certain degree of artistry on the part of its navigators. The boys who can duck and slip and parry their opponent's blows are going to be winners in the long run over the boys whose idea of guarding is to take 'em on the arms and elbows and other parts of the human anatomy. That style went pretty well in four rounds, but it won't go in ten.

Wherefore, we are led to reiterate De Witt Van Court's early-in-the-year prophecy that it's going to be a couple of years before any really good boxers are developed from the ranks of our local hopes.

Hart is a shining example of the boys who can box but lack the old kayo wallop. He operates his feet as easily as Jack Doyle clips coupons, and in the former respect we can think of no better person to compare him with than Jimmy McLarnin, the Dublin flea.

In style Hart is not unlike Pal Moore, except that he does not flail like Pal and hit with an open glove. He has few knockouts to his credit, but, on the other hand, he has never been knocked out himself.

He is an excellent judge of pace and distance. His head ducks and bobs with the other fellow's punches, and with Bercot he was beating him to the punch repeatedly.

If the big fellow, Roy Cliffe, who was licked by Harry Lee in one of the early preliminaries Tuesday night, could dig up a pile-driver punch to go with the barrage of gloves he lays on a rival he would be a riot.

Cliffe hit Lee plenty of times and always had his gloves working, but he lacked steam behind the old sock and he

Frigerio Bows to Plant in 5000-Meter Walk

Yank Heel and Toe Artist Sets New Record

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE]
MADISON SQUARE GARDEN, NEW YORK, Jan. 28. Paavo Nurmi raced to hollow triumph tonight in a mile and a half race featuring the Millrose games, in which Joie Ray, Chicago veteran, dropped out after trailing in a field of five for four laps.

Nurmi led his nearest rival, Willie Goodwin of the New York A.C., to the finish by sixty-five yards and shattered Ray's world record for the distance, marking the fourteenth record performance the Finnish phantom has set in his nine American races. His time of 6:33 2-5 displaced the old mark of 6:41 4-5 set by Ray in 1923.

SECOND MARK

Nurmi was credited with a second world's mark in his race when he was clocked at the mile and a quarter mark in 5:30 1-5, dislodging another of Ray's records, 5:33 2-5 set in 1923.

Nurmi was off to the front at the start with Ray trailing. Just after finishing the fourth lap, Joie made a gesture of pain, stopped and left the track. He watched the rest of the race from the sidelines.

Ugo Frigerio, famous Italian walker and Olympic champion, sustained a crushing defeat tonight in his first big test in the United States when he lost to Willie Plant of New York, in a 5000-meter race from which George Goulding, Canadian veteran, was forced to withdraw because of a breakdown.

NEW RECORD

Plant, taking the lead from the start, added steadily to his advantage with a brilliant exhibition and finished amid a bedlam of cheering fully 110 yards in front of the invader. The American's time of 22m. 6 3-5 s. set a world's indoor record for the distance, which had never been walked before indoors.

Whether Frigerio was suffering from the effects of the injury to his foot last night caused by a new shot, or has not yet rounded into form, was a question, but he failed at any stage of the race to show real speed or threaten Plant's lead.

BRITONS WIN RETURN MATCH

Local Combination Defeated by 4 and 3 Count

Indifferent Putting Loses in Hard-Fought Contest

Match Play Opens Today in Palos Verdes Event

BY CHARLES WEST

Hunter and Von Elm, long considered Southern California's most formidable golfing combination, were defeated emphatically yesterday at the Brentwood Country Club when they bowed to George Duncan and Abe Mitchell of England, 4 and 3, over thirty-six holes.

As is usually the case, the match was won and lost on the greens. Hunter and Von Elm being unable to keep pace with their opponents with the putter, and booted away several excellent opportunities to gain on Mitchell and Duncan by failing to sink putts. The match is the first exhibition affair Hunter and Von Elm have ever lost, but they get some solace out of the fact that they held one victory over the celebrated English team, obtained a few weeks ago at Rancho.

Duncan and Mitchell had a best ball of 64 and their morning round, going out in 34 and returning 30, while Hunter and Von Elm went out in 37, being three down at the turn, and came back in 31, which put them four down at the noon interval, their best ball scoring 68. The second nine of the morning round brought out by far the best golf of the day, Duncan and Mitchell each scoring 32, Von Elm 33 and Hunter 34. Three holes were halved in birdies on this side, three were won with birdies, and Von Elm took the tenth with an eagle three, laying his iron shot right up by the pin.

WELL IN HAND

In the afternoon the Englishmen scored 36 out against a 34 by their opponents, but had the match well in hand and ended it on the fifteenth green when Hunter's long putt for an eagle win halted a couple inches short of the cup.

Duncan and Mitchell took the lead at the first hole with Mitchell's eighteen-foot putt, won the second, sixth and seventh, Hunter missing an easy putt on the eighth, but sinking one on the ninth for the local team's first hole. Von Elm got his eagle at this point, and a birdie four on the fourteenth by Mitchell was matched with a birdie three on the sixteenth by Hunter, but Mitchell holed another birdie on the home hole for a win, putting the local combination four down.

A determined attempt to cut down the lead got as far as the ninth hole of the afternoon round, when Duncan and Mitchell led by only two holes, and it looked as though Hunter and Von Elm might come through. However, two holes was too many to spot the Englishmen on nine, and the match lasted only six holes more.

PALOS VERDES

None of the qualifiers in the Palos Verdes Golf Club invitation tournament who played their medal round yesterday were able to better the cards of 80 turned in Tuesday by J. S. Gaines and C. H. Wisner, so these golfers hold the gross honors jointly. A play-off will determine who wins the trophy, the players to decide on a day this week in which to settle things.

OBSERVATIONS

BY THE INNOCENT BYSTANDER
BILL HENRY

WHAT a wonderful stimulus competition is. The brother who first exhaled the celebrated maxim that "competition is the life of trade" apparently had had some experience. The present visit of Paavo Nurmi to this fair and tax-ridden country is a splendid example, for the Phantom Finn's parade over the prostrate bodies of our local heroes instead of killing off competition has apparently aroused every athlete in the world to try to become as outstanding a hero in his own line as Nurmi seems to be in the field of distance runners.

Willie Ritola, his American-lized compatriot, instead of being discouraged over his defeats at the hands—or rather feet—of Nurmi, has turned to the longer races, at which he seems to feel more at home, and has succeeded in lowering a flock of world records almost as imposing as those gathered in by the invader. Willie, in fact, seems to be spoiling for a fuss with Nurmi over a slightly longer route.

The same thing is true everywhere. Give a college one top-notch sprinter and every son of a gun in the college tries to get out and lick him, and as a rule does pretty well. On the other hand, let a college fuss along with a dearth of stars in some particular event and instead of encouraging athletes to try this event and pick off something easy, the college usually continues to have no class in said event.

Charley Daggs at Pomona College started a landslide of hurdlers in that institution, most of whom were developed right there in the school through the handsome example of Mr. Daggs. Pomona has had loud-winded distance men ever since the year one. Occidental dug up a sprinter a few years ago and the school has been full of 'em ever since.

U.S.C. in the days of Charley Parsons, nearly twenty years ago, started collecting sprinters, and no institution in the country can look back at such a succession of sprint stars as Parsons, Throop, Drew and Paddock, all of whom consistently beat ten seconds, and the present aggregation of Lloyd, Smith and Taylor, all of whom have done the same.

When Hollywood's famous quintet crowned the L.A.A.C. five a couple of nights ago in the A.A.U. basketball race, they added a great deal to the interest in the struggle for hoop supremacy, since apparently the long reign of the Mercury athletes seems to be halted, at least pro tem. A little change in scenery at the head of the procession is a good thing for the sport.

Incidentally we have another team in the league which is likewise interesting. It is the Alhambra A.C. five, which has been beaten only by Hollywood and that by a very close score. The Alhambra five is of even more interest locally, since it is a real home-talent team, nearly all of its members having been brought up here and learned the game in Southern California.

The ten-round boxing game has done one thing to liven up the interest in those who deal black eyes with one hand and bloody noses with the other—it has at least brought a little diversity of opinion among the gentlemen of the press who sit at the ringside and then write learnedly of what they see. So far there hasn't been a fight at Vernon which hasn't found at least one dissenting voice among the newspaper men. This is as it should be, as it enables the boxer to take at least one slipping home with him to prove that he got robbed and therefore prevents his stay here from being entirely unpleasant. That's true southern hospitality.

BAY LOOP IS MIXED UP

Many Upsets Take Place in Play for Basketball Title; Venice, Huntington Park Tied at Top

The Bay League basketball dopester is a much abused fellow these days. Instead of remaining satisfied with cellar positions in the percentage column, schools of former low loop standing are gradually forging to the front, with the result that the victory prognosticator has a precarious job.

While the Class A circuit is running more or less to form, even this division is expecting many upsets before the schedule terminates, five weeks hence.

Venice, undefeated thus far, is meeting a dangerous opponent tomorrow in San Pedro. The tussle is carded for the Gendoller gymnasium. The Venetians are big and strong this year, and should prove hard for any team to shove from first place.

Another game that should go a long way in deciding the wearer of the victory wreath is the Inglewood-Huntington Park scrap in the Sentinel gymnasium. The Inglewooders battled to the Southern California championship last year, and are difficult to conquer on their own court.

The Redondo Class A's journey to Santa Monica, while Compton motors to Gardena. These games are not expected to greatly affect the league standings.

Class B teams will play the same schools named above, offering the first part of a double-header in each case. Results of the Venice-San Pedro, Santa Monica-Redondo, and Inglewood-Huntington Park mills will break up the three-cornered tie that now exists for first place. The standings:

CLASS A

	W.	L.	P.C.
Venice	2	0	1.000
Huntington Park	2	0	1.000
Inglewood	1	1	.500
San Pedro	1	1	.500
Redondo	1	1	.500

dian walker, who was to have opposed Ugo Frigerio of Italy, and Willie Plant of New York, suffered a breakdown and did not compete.

DID NOT SLEEP

It was announced that Goulding did not sleep all last night, after his handicap race which marked his return to competition after many years' idleness. This afternoon a physician who examined him said that because of his heart action it would be suicide for the veteran to compete tonight, or probably at any future time.

Davidson Will Pilot Lockhart "Roller Skate"

"Fuzzy" Davidson, intrepid Indianapolis youth, will probably pilot the famous 27 "roller ler skate" racing car which brought fame and gold to Frank Lockhart, in two of the Ascot Speedway events to be run next Sunday afternoon. R. E. Lamming, purchaser of the car from the "boy wonder" entered it in last Sunday's postponed races, naming himself as the driver. But racing officials of Ascot and several of the veteran pilots soon began to figure that so fast and tricky a car as the motor freak is admitted to be should be in the hands of an experienced pilot instead of having just a stout-hearted, willing and ambitious young fellow at the wheel.

The driver's license issued to Lamming last week was rescinded last night until such time as he could drive the car a great deal in practice and show by consistent speeding that he is able to weave in and out of the crowd of drivers at top speed without endangering the lives and bones of his competitors. Lamming immediately got in touch with Davidson and made a proposition to drive the car in the Italian Colony Victory Crown dash and the Golden State Sweepstakes.

Games Friday

Manual Arts at Polytechnic.
L. A. High at Jefferson.

After the quintets representing Manual Arts and Polytechnic get through messing each other around in the Mechanic gym tomorrow afternoon, a City League basketball champion will be named. Just at present Hollywood is topping the loop by virtue of a victory over Franklin last Tuesday and will be tied with the winner of the Poly-Manual game, but—

Here's where the catch comes in. If Polytechnic manages to subdue the Toilers tomorrow, Hollywood will get the prep gonfalon despite the fact that the Mechanics will be tied with the Foothillers, but should Manual win, the championship goes to Motts Blair's quintet even though it will be tied in the standing with Hollywood.

HAVEN'T A CHANCE

Polytechnic is practically in the same position as the gent who had his choice between being hanged or electrocuted—the Mechanics haven't a chance to the title. Hollywood defeated Poly, 19 to 13, in the third round of play and that licking ruined the Yellowjackets' championship aspirations, even though they will have the pleasure of deciding who gets the title.

Should Manual trounce Poly, the Foothillers will have been aced out of the championship by a single point, for that was the margin of Manual's victory over Hollywood, 14 to 13, being the exact score.

Jefferson and L. A. High also tangle tomorrow for the right to occupy fourth place, the battle coming off on the Democrats' court. The Pioneers are favored, for Jefferson will be without the services of Blackman and Heap who will be unable to play.

BANTIES TANGLE

Of course there will be a couple of lightweight tilts, but the midget title is already practically clinched by the L. A. High five, which has not been defeated to date. Tomorrow the Roman babes face the Jefferson midgets, who have lost just as many games as the L. A. outfit has won, and a Pioneer victory should result. Should L. A. High lose, it will be tied with Hollywood and a play-off will be necessary to decide the championship.

In the other bantie clash, Manual Arts invades the Polytechnic gym, favored to romp on the Mechanic lightweights.

couldn't keep his own jaw protected.

He's a game boy, though. He went down twice in the first two rounds, but was still there at the finish.

They call Jimmy Daugherty, man of fortune and manager of Bobby Barrett, and Alex Hart, the "Baron of Leiperville."

"Why?" a fight fan asked me.

Some years ago Daugherty owned a hotel in the town of Leiperville, not far from Chester, Pa. It was one of the first spots old Bill Penn graced by his presence in this country and the 200 or so residents proudly proclaim it is the only unincorporated town still in existence in Pennsylvania.

Daugherty hastens to assure us that he does not live there now, but at the time of our story he was the town bonifface. He put on a party for the newspaper men, and included in the gang was "Tiny" Maxwell, a leading football official and writer, who was killed in an automobile accident about two years ago.

"Tiny" and his confreres hit Leiperville on a stormy night. It was raining pitchforks and the streets were mud bogs. There were no sidewalks and no pavement in the town, and "Tiny," who was a small little fellow weighing about 300 pounds, had some difficulty in circumnavigating the bogs.

Thereafter "Tiny," so the story goes, was wont to refer sarcastically to Leiperville as the "mud capital of Pennsylvania," and Daugherty as the "Baron of Leiperville."

SANTA BARBARA WILL FACE TOUGH OUTFITS

It would look as though Santa Barbara is in for a couple of wallopings this Sunday and next, when they meet the Alhambra Merchants, and Jack Nofziger's renovated Belvedere Gardens nine.

Both the Merchants and Belvedere Gardens are known for the fast brand of baseball they play, which means that Santa Barbara will have to step to keep out in front. The Merchants have won ten out of their last twelve games, having whipped the U.S.S. California, and Barry Classy Hats twice, both of whom are reputed to be strong semipro outfits.

PRIDES OF BROOKLYN

BY PEG MURRAY

Consider Brooklyn, where we are among champions. Vance, Riggin, and Martin are three of the most prominent, and each one has achieved his or her fame comparatively recently.

Ladies first, so little Aileen is discussed before "Dazzy" or Eddie, who are not nearly so pretty anyway. As everyone who looks at the picture sections of the papers knows, Aileen Riggin is a champion diver and swimmer. Besides that, she is a student of ballet dancing, an accomplished cook, and the world's worst golfer.

At 13 she won the world's diving championship at the Olympic Games in Antwerp, and last year she won a second and a third at Paris, and an American national championship. One hundred and fifty cups and medals already prove her prowess as an all-around water champion. Right now she is in Florida preparing for the women's swimming championships at Miami.

"Dazzy" Vance doesn't live in Brooklyn, but he recently put Brooklyn on the baseball map in 1924. The premier pitcher of the majors, holder of strike-out records, most valuable player in the National League, sharp shooter extraordinary with a pistol, and comedian par excellence—that's "Dazzy."

Eddie Martin—bantamweight champion of the world—and from Brooklyn. Sounds pretty good—to Eddie's friends and family anyway. Eddie beat Abe Attel Goldstein in a hectic battle in Madison Square Garden just as 1924 was passing out of the picture. He is Brooklyn's first fighting champion since Terry McGovern. The title first held by Georgs Dixon should rest across the Bridge as long as Eddie can make 118 pounds.

MINE BOY TO MANAGER

BUCKY HARRIS'S STORY BY HIMSELF

This is the twenty-fifth installment of the autobiography of Stanley Harris, youngest major league baseball manager in the history of the game and the victorious strategist and one of the outstanding players in the 1924 World Series, in which his Washington club won the pennant for the first time. The rise of Harris from colliery boy to big league manager in eight years is one of the most remarkable life stories America has ever produced.

Chapter 25—TAKEN IN HAND BY GRIFFITH

BY STANLEY (BUCKY) HARRIS

[Copyright, 1925, in United States and Canada by North American Newspaper Alliance. All rights reserved.]

Manager Griffith took me in hand after putting me in the regulars' line-up. He noticed my weakness in going back after short flies when he first saw me play in Buffalo. He saw again, when I helped Johnson lose his four-teen-inning struggle with Mays the day I broke in with Washington, that I needed much drilling in getting under Texas leaguers. He instructed me himself. Day after day, in the hot Tampa sun, he batted short flies around second base and between first and second. He drilled me until I was almost ready to drop in my tracks. Thanks to him, I overcame a weakness that might have prevented me making good.

"I'd like to be able to eat those flies up the way Eddie Collins does," I told Griffith one day after an unusually long drill.

"If you are half as good as he is I'll be satisfied," the veteran leader replied. "He's the type of second baseman to watch closely. You can learn a lot from him. Did you notice any good points in his play when the Sox were in Washington last fall?"

"He has a system to prevent a mix-up with his outfielders when he goes after a short fly," I answered. "I noticed that he waved his arms to let them know he would take the ball. I can see they could get that signal where they might not be able to hear him shout if the crowd was making much noise."

"You learned something there, Bucky," Griffith said. He seemed pleased. "Take a leaf out of that bird's book. You may save a few games some time when they're needed. If an infielder and an outfielder really go after a short hit fly, about four times out of ten it falls safe unless some signal system is used."

The Washington leader did more than improve my fielding on flies. He drilled me in pulling up short in my stride while going after a ball hit toward second. I had been in the habit of running all the way to the bag before shooting the ball to first. He taught me to pull up sharp, slide my foot to the cushion and be set to make the play at the first corner. Such instruction helped me also in going to second to take a throw from the shortstop or third baseman, and pivot for a double play. I saved a good stride by the lessons. Most times that is all the difference between making a double play and retiring only one runner. The margin between success and failure in baseball, as in life itself, is seldom very great. Attention to the little things, in learning your business, always pays in the long run.

WHAT I NEEDED

I soon learned I needed steadiness more than anything else. I realized that no matter how speedy I became I couldn't be erratic and successful. I worked overtime in the training camp and on the barnstorming trip with the then world's champion Reds to become steady. I made my full share of errors and wild throws while schooling myself. In the long run, however, the extra effort was worth while. You can't really improve yourself without hard work and plenty of it.

REGULAR AT LAST

Griffith, while working to improve my fielding, didn't neglect drilling me at bat in training camp. He decided I was a natural chokestyle batter. He thought I might succeed as a hit-and-run man. He coached me in the hope that I would fill the place of Eddie Foster in this respect. Foster could hit behind a runner with the best the game has produced. His was a hard position in the batting order for me to fill. I had to do a lot of work before I earned the right to hit next to the lead-off man.

I enjoyed the intensive drills before the opening of the season. I was learning something each day. Griffith was a hard taskmaster, but he was a wonderful teacher. He kept the regulars and recruits on their toes all the time we were on the ball field. When the day's work was done we were so tired that no one thought of keeping late hours. We were supposed to be in bed at 10 o'clock. Most nights I was sound asleep long before that time.

The discipline in the Tampa camp, as in most big-league training places, was largely imposed by the players themselves. The veterans knew they had to work to get in condition. The youngsters wouldn't sacrifice a chance to earn a regular berth by breaking training. Dissipation in the spring training season is almost unknown. The business of getting in condition to play through a hard season is a serious one. A player's means of livelihood may depend on his showing over a few weeks. When we left Tampa on a long trip with the Reds I had the satisfaction of knowing my work had not been in vain. I was listed as Washington's regular second baseman.

Tomorrow: One Hit Puts Me in the .300 Class.

BREER AND BOWEN CATCH STEELHEAD

Louis Breer, well-known local sportsman, and Dr. Dwight Bowen, companion of many of his hunting and fishing ventures, returned from Ventura recently with a catch of eight steelhead trout, all of which were large enough to make a meal for the average family. The fish measured from twenty-one to thirty-one inches in length and weighed from seven to twelve pounds.

Both reported that fishing in the surf off the mouth of the river is fine. The anglers caught their fish with spinners, which seemed to be the only thing they would strike.

IRVINE AND KAHN-BECK MEET SUNDAY

The Kahn-Beck biscuit makers, who have been romping over most of their opponents quite freely of late, will attempt to wallop Irvine's assortment of bean-eating horse-hide handlers in the latter city this Sunday.

The Biscuiteers recently added Duncan, a right hand heaver that was formerly with the Pasadena Eagles, to their line-up, and he should prove a big help in their game Sunday.

LOCAL QUINTET HAS BUSY WEEK

Grizzlies Tackle Sagehens Twice in Two Days

Three Games Are Billed on Northern Invasion

Cards, Bruins and Winged O Furnish Competition

After the decisive beating handed out by the Southern Branch basketball team to the Whittier quintet last Saturday night in the Manual Arts pavilion, Coach Caddy Works's Grizzly outfit seems to be headed on the road to another Southern conference championship, as the Quakers were doped to be the classiest squad in the conference this year. The Grizzlies have two games scheduled for this week, Pomona being the opponent in both frays. The first is to take place at Claremont tomorrow night, while the Manual Arts pavilion will be the scene of the other the following evening.

HAVEN'T WON YET

The Sagehens have not as yet won a conference game, losing contests to both Whittier and Occidental. The Grizzlies should not have much trouble taking the measure of the Pomona outfit, and unless the unexpected occurs the Southern Branch team should emerge with its standing unspotted.

After the game Saturday night Coach Caddy Works is taking a squad of ten players on an invasion of the north, having three games scheduled, meeting Stanford February 7; California, February 6, and the Olympic Club, February 6. The Stanford clash is in the nature of a return game, as the Cardinals defeated the Grizzlies by a close margin when they came south the early part of this month.

BEARS STRONG

The California varsity has been going strong, and under the able guidance of Nibs Price, the Bruins will have another classy outfit, and the Grizzlies will have to be at their best if they expect to win. What the Olympic Club has in the way of basketball players is not known, but the Winged O usually has a quintet composed of ex-college stars, and should give the Grizzlies a hard battle.

CITRUS UNION WILL MAKE BID FOR TITLE

Coach Schott, who is mentoring the Citrus Union High this year, is rapidly proving his ability. Schott took an entirely green bunch of material at the beginning of the basketball season and has whipped it into one of the title-contending teams of the central loop.

So far Citrus has won two league games and dropped none. Tomorrow they will buck the South Pasadena five and, if they can overcome them, they will be in a fair way for the league championship.

NEUTRODYNE . . . . . for Distance

When the children are in bed and Father goes exploring—with

NEUTRODYNE

The thrumming of a piano a thousand miles away. The clear voice of a noted statesman coming from a thousand miles in some other direction. Now a singer—now an orchestra—

Through the vast night, countless impulses, passing, crossing, voices, music. . . . "Distance if you want it"—that's Neutrodyne. If the waves are reaching your neighborhood, you'll get the program with a Neutrodyne, no matter how far away the station may be.

Picks them clean

Neutrodyne selectivity is one of the marvels of radio. Just as definitely as the telephone operator plugs in at a certain spot on the switchboard, so you turn your dials to predetermined numbers—and there's your station, provided that station is on the air at the moment. It works every time. No fishing around, once you have the stations charted.

The tonal quality of the Neutrodyne receivers has won the warmest praise of musicians everywhere. The piping notes of the piccolo and the deep swelling tones of the pipe-organ are reproduced with a fidelity to the original that is unbelievable. The human voice sounds human on a Neutrodyne—not like the megaphoned overtones of the train-announcer.

Nobody likes a squealer

Have you ever listened to radio that sounded like the bird-house at the zoo? Be assured, that wasn't a Neutrodyne set. For Neutrodyne cannot create those squawks and squeals that have kept music-lovers from investing in radio. If all receiving sets were Neutrodyne, there would be no more squealing. Neutrodyne is noiseless. You'll appreciate its quiet, and so will the neighbors.

The thing you will like most about your Neutrodyne radio receiver is its absolute dependability. It is the set of no regrets. It is the set of no apologies as well. You can get up a radio party and not wonder if your set is going to "act up" at a critical moment. You will not have to alibi with: "It never did that before!"

Neutrodyne made for modern broadcasting

Neutrodyne was developed after modern broadcasting was established. The three other major receiving systems were invented previous to broadcasting. They were made first for dot-and-dash code (radio telegraphy) and adapted later to broadcasting. Neutrodyne was specifically designed to receive the broadcasting of music and speeches. It did not have to be "adapted."

In order to protect the public from fraudulent Neutrodynes, the Hazeltine Corporation was formed, and Professor Hazeltine, developer of Neutrodyne, entrusted his great idea to just fourteen hand-picked, licensed manufacturers. No other manufacturers may use the genuine Neutrodyne principle! Do not confuse NEUTRODyne with any other "dyne." Look for the Neutrodyne label on the set you buy. Neutrodyne uses either wet or dry batteries, and either outdoor or indoor aerial.

TORNADO LOSS TOTALS GIVEN

Property Worth $29,875,000 Was Destroyed in 1924

Kansas Leads in Number of "Twisters" Suffered

Line of Greatest Safety North, Says Col. Finley

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE]

NEW YORK, Jan. 28.—A total of 124 tornadoes in the United States during 1924 caused approximate property loss of $29,875,000, Col. John P. Finley, United States Army, retired, said in a twelve-month study made public today by the Insurance Press. The heaviest single loss was $13,000,000 suffered by Lorain, O., in the disaster there last June.

Kansas led among the States visited by the "twisters," showing seventeen such storms. Col. Finley found. Georgia was second with twelve, one more than the third State, Alabama.

Col. Finley, a former army meteorologist, reported the tornado season in this country generally extended from March to October, although tornadoes had occurred in every month of the year. Spring and early summer, he found, were the periods of "greatest occurrence and frequency." April, May and June receiving the hardest monthly blows in 1924, taking the country as a whole.

The most frequent "tornado hour" proved to be from 3 to 4 o'clock in the afternoon; tornadoes rarely begin after 6 p.m., although sometimes lapping over that hour if starting before.

Tornadoes generally moved from west to east, and Col. Finley warned all persons in their path to "keep to the right."

The line of escape was invariably northward, he said; the south or left-hand side being far the more dangerous. He also cautioned fugitives from running northeast, east or southeast, always due north. A frame building, he added, was safer than one of brick or stone, holding the ground longer when whipped off its foundations.

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

TUMA (Ariz.) Jan. 28.—Aurelio Gallardo has been transferred from El Paso, to be Mexican consul in Yuma.

FATHERS TO GET MISSION SITE

Franciscans May Plan to Restore Ancient Building

The Franciscan Fathers will on February 8 take over the site in Old Town, San Diego, of the first mission founded in California by Junipero Serra, it was learned from Bishop Cantwell last night.

The move, it is understood, may mean that eventually the old mission building, long since gone, will be restored on the site. Father Meaney now has charge of the place.

The Sisters of Nazareth, Bishop Cantwell said, now are building an orphanage at the old mission, which is about six miles, from San Diego and they "contemplate restoring the chapel of the mission."

John Steven McGroarty and others established at San Diego last June, Chapter No. 1 of the Society of the Golden Scroll, an organization founded by them for the purpose of restoring and preserving the Franciscan missions in California. It was understood that beginning with the first of the missions, others would be restored in order of their founding as fast as money could be provided by the society.

MOTORIST ATTACKED BY BANDITS

Man Shot in Shoulder as He Remonstrates With Two Masked Robbers

Assaulted by two masked men late last night at the intersection of Twenty-fourth street and National Boulevard, near Clover Field, Santa Monica, C. E. Hollock, 39 years of age, 3435 South Flower street, Los Angeles, was shot through the right shoulder when he attempted to remonstrate with the supposed bandits.

According to Hollock's story to the police, he, in company with Mrs. Ethel Dostwyck, 7205 Court street, had stopped his automobile at the lonely spot to examine a rear wheel, when the two men suddenly appeared out of the dark, one on each side of the car.

"Stick 'em up!" came the curt command.

"What's the idea—" began Hollock.

The bandit nearest fired without warning, the bullet passing through the shoulder and coming out through the fleshy part of the arm.

The two bandits fled to a car parked down the road and made their escape.

ACTRESS MARRIES DIRECTOR

Dorothy Wallace Becomes Bride of Millard Webb in Midnight Wedding

Millard Webb, known as the baby director at Warner Brothers, and Lettia Kelly, popularly known in screen circles as Dorothy Wallace, were married at midnight last night.

The wedding took place at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Herman H. Holbush, 102 North Wilton Place. Superior Judge Crawford married the couple. A number of persons prominent in the motion-picture colony were guests at the wedding. Among them were: Benny Zeidman, general manager at Universal Studios; William McGan, Webb's assistant; Edna Purviance and others.

Following the ceremony and a wedding breakfast, the young couple, accompanied by Mr. and Mrs. Holbush, left for San Francisco to begin a trip to Europe. Upon their return, Mr. and Mrs. Webb will probably live at the present home of the bride, 1334 El Cerrito avenue.

Mr. Webb has directed a number of well-known pictures, among them "The Dark Swan." Miss Wallace had a prominent part in Von Stroheim's "Merry-Go-Round."

WATCHMAN THREATENED BY GAS GANG

Man Employed by Victim in Attacks Gives Sinister Note to Authorities

A threatening note received by S. H. Davis, watchman at the home of George A. Dorsett of West Whittier, furnished a new angle yesterday to the investigation by deputy sheriffs under Capt. Townsend, of attacks on Dorsett by means of mustard gas. The note, turned over by Davis to the officials, read:

"Davis: Lay off if you want to stay with your family."

On several occasions prior to the 20th inst., according to Dorsett, mustard gas was placed in his home.

Capt. Townsend said yesterday he believed the gas attacks and the note were the product of a gang of extortionists that previously had sent threatening letters to T. H. Hinton and to Mrs. Mary Tyndall demanding money. He said his squad is watching several suspects.

INDIANS TO HAVE SHARE IN PROJECT

Plan to Dam Gila River to Give Arizona Tribes Water for Crops

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

CASA GRANDE (Ariz.) Jan. 28. Plans for the Coolidge storage dam on the Gila River, below San Carlos, are reported well advanced. They are being drawn by Maj. Oldberg, who is in general charge of governmental construction work along the Gila, with inclusion of the two diversion dams, above Florence and above Sacaton, and of the distributing canal system.

The new dam is to be 220 feet above river bed level, or a total of 265 feet above bed rock. It will create a lake about twenty-five miles long with an average width of half a mile that will store about 1,200,000 acre feet, or nearly as much as the Roosevelt reservoir. Several types of dam are under consideration.

The first work, financed by the preliminary Congressional appropriation of $460,000, will be to establish a camp at the damsite and build the necessary roads. It is expected that a branch railway, about five miles in length, will be built from the Southern Pacific for cheaper transportation of supplies. Cement probably will be obtained from El Paso and Coast factories. Rubble stone for construction is to be had in the immediate vicinity.

Land owners on the "white" lands to be irrigated, around Florence and Casa Grande, joined in a Water Users' Association, similar to that of the Salt River Valley, will have to contract with the Secretary of the Interior for repayment of their acreage proportion of the cost of the dam and diversion canals. The government, through the Indian Bureau, will assume the balance of the burden, for the benefit of the Pima and Maricopa Indians, who, for the first time in many years, thus are to be given irrigation water in dry periods.

No provision has been made in the new project for generation of hydroelectric power, such as has proved so valuable in the Salt River project, from which current now is being purchased for local agricultural pumping.

ERIC CLASH WITH MAE REPORTED

Von Stroheim is Said to Have Quit Set After Tilt With Miss Murray

Eric Von Stroheim left the set in a rage, it is reported, and Mae Murray tilted her chin at a proud angle and stamped her dainty feet. The clash between two temperamental natures was described as an occurrence yesterday during the filming of a scene for "The Merry Widow," new Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer production.

Neither Miss Murray nor Mr. Von Stroheim, the director, could be reached last night. The breach yesterday followed several prior spats, according to members of the cast. The director is reported to have shouted: "I'm through with this picture!" and Miss Murray is said to have made several snappy and emphatic remarks.

John Gilbert, who plays opposite Miss Murray, said last night the company has been ordered to be on the lot as usual this morning and that no special importance was attached to the temperamental upheaval.

HIGH CANAL AID HELD UNLIKELY

Arizona Legislature Has Avoided Clash

Ratification of River Compact Given Slim Hopes

Soldier Bonus Bill is to be Brought Up

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

PHOENIX, Jan. 28.—Though in both houses there appears to be a distinct antiadministration majority, the Seventh Arizona Legislature thus far has shown no clash between the conflicting Democratic factions, save to the extent of electing conservatives to the major clerical positions. Belief is expressed that no high-line canal aid will be given, yet the seeds of doubt concerning the Colorado River compact have been sown so broadly within the State that even the best friends of the agreement see little prospect for its ratification in this session.

One Democratic member says: "I fail to see, compact or no compact, how Arizona can help or hinder in the very necessary governmental work of building a dam on the Colorado River at a point that may be selected by government engineers. It's mere fiubdub to make plans for construction of any such structure by the State of Arizona. It's also mere talk to assert that Arizona can hold back river development for the next century or so, till a very visionary canal shall have been constructed to Arizona lands that might not be worth the cost. In addition, there's been too much loose conversation with reference to States' rights and too much appeal to prejudice and jealousy."

There is understanding that a bill is to be offered for the relief of settlers and landowners under the Lyman project, on the Little Colorado, near St. Johns. An attempt of a recent Legislature to remit all interest proved illegal, for the State loans were from special educational funds. Thus far, according to a report of the State Treasurer, the project owes the State over $524,000, or $25 for each of the 16,000 acres to be served by the dam and its canal works. The landholders appear to be nothing in the way of improvement or development, in the fear of foreclosure, and the State, with default of payment of principal or interest, is confronted with apparent necessity for foreclosure. This, in effect, would mean the purchase of the tract at a cost of about $50 an acre, considered rather a high price for raw land in a district remote from transportation. There is hesitation on the part of State officials in assumption of State responsibility for the project, with incidental criticism of its engineering features. Most of the State money was spent in making the dam safe after its original corporation had failed.

A number of bills already are on the file seeking State aid to veteran soldiers, with inclusion of gifts of land and development of water by wells and otherwise. A soldier-bonus bill is to be offered, though this may simmer down to enlarged land settlement offers, while a number of the service organizations will ask for support by the State of a new officer, whose duty it shall be to prosecute claims of disabled veterans.

CANADIAN POTATO CROP MUCH LARGER

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

OTTAWA, Jan. 28.—Canada's potato crop is 4,269,520 bushels in excess of the 1923 yield, according to a bulletin issued by the Dominion Bureau of Statistics. The bulletin places the total 1924 production at 96,394,540 bushels, compared with 92,125,020 bushels last year.

The value of the crop, the bulletin estimates, is $52,600,000. The average yield of potatoes per acre in 1924 was 170 bushels, compared with 164 in 1923. By Provinces the average yield per acre was highest in New Brunswick, which harvested 257.3 bushels. Production in the prairie Provinces of Manitoba, Saskatchewan and Alberta averaged 134.5 bushels to the acre.

DAMAGE JUDGMENT SAVED BY COURT

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

SAN ANTONIO (Tex.) Jan. 28.—Because a jury discussed the fact that the judgment would be paid by an insurance company, the Fourth Court of Civil Appeals shaved $2000 from damage given W. H. Ridgeway and Mrs. Ridgeway for injuries received in an automobile accident. The judgment was for $5000 against O. C. Baird.

Eleven of the jurors testified at application for new trial that the fact that the judgment would be paid by an insurance company was referred to, but all stated that the discussion did not effect their verdict.

Christine of the Hungry Heart

by Kathleen Norris

The story thus far: After a few years of marriage, Christine Knight, young, beautiful and rich, realizes that she is desperately unhappy. However, because she does not believe in divorce, she decides to make the best of her riffs with her adored little daughter, Betty-Lou, and her openly bored and neglectful husband, Stuart. He also and Dr. Alan Montcagle, who has recently met, and found themselves in love with each other, decide not to see each other again. Then one day Stuart, quarreling with the woman whom gossip calls his mistress, runs into his mother's car and almost kills Christine. Alan Montcagle hurries to her side, and by working night and day pulls her back to life. She divorces her husband and marries Alan. But a few years find her jealous of the time her husband spends on his profession—especially on the Viannes: young Ivan Vianney, wounded in the war, is one of his special interests. And Ivan becomes interested in Christine. Then Betty Lou goes to Rio de Janeiro, Alan divorces her and gets the custody of their son. She and Ivan return to New York. Ivan tires of her and goes to France.

A week later, from a small uptown hotel, she wrote Dan. Ivan had gone to France, she did not quite know when he would be back. Dan was pleased to deposit the inclosed check, and fell her how her finances were. And had he any news?

Dan a poor letter writer, immediately replied. She had a balance of some hundreds and her income would be about two hundred a month. Betty Lou was well and happy. Had she seen the little boy? Dan had called and had found him a fine little fellow. They called him "Alan" now, and he was in school.

He made no reference to Ivan's departure. Christie destroyed the letter, dissatisfied. Did Dan know that she and Ivan had not been married? Of course he must, for she would have told him otherwise. She read disapproval and shock into his brief lines, and resented them.

A few days later she took a small apartment in one of the Fifties, near Broadway. She got her own breakfast, but usually lunched and dined downtown. Every morning she bathed and groomed herself scrupulously; she walked down the avenue, studying the windows, she got the newest magazines, and she discussed novels, and read the paper for half an hour each morning, and for perhaps two hours on Sunday.

Presently, after a week or two of this, she met Genevieve Paddock, a handsome, vivacious woman who had once stayed at Friends' Crossing, and on another day she accidentally encountered the pretty, blond, helpless little Mrs. Maurer, who had been on the "Vestrea," Nevada-bound for her divorce a year ago, and with whom Chris had had an occasional lunch or tea during the past year.

Through Chris these two women, who were also established in small apartments in the neighborhood, met, and the three, when they could find a fourth, often played bridge, went downtown to lunch, and kept appointments together with manicure or corsetiere. They were occasionally joined by members of the rather less successful musical group, by actresses past their prime, by types of unsuccessful women ranging up and down the entire social scale.

Attached, and always in attendance as satellites, were plenty of men. Many were casual visitors in the city, who would be introduced to one women, in one of the cheaper hotels, and meet the others through her. These men liked company, liked smartly-dressed women to accompany them to the restaurant and sights, and more often than not, as Alma Bertmann who was a leader in the group, expressed it, "behaved themselves like gentlemen."

Chris, beautiful, distinguished and mysterious, need never have paid for a dinner in money. But she often found the money the cheaper of the two modes of payment.

She wanted not to think, she wanted to keep moving, to forget. But the dull round, the simulated intense long hours, the increasing stupidity and recklessness of the parties bored her almost unbearably.

On the burning nights of the summer there was usually a large open car, a packed party of some seven persons in it, the old jokes, the old threats, the old stupidities, and a run to the Long Island beaches, or perhaps Coney. They never looked at the sea, they never breathed deep of the clean country air; personalities were their world, and they stayed in it.

Late at night Chris would find herself re-entering her big, hot, sunbaked building, perhaps there would be a few annoying minutes while she dismissed a reluctant and half-irresponsible escort. No matter, she was alone at last.

She would get into a thin nightgown, put out the lights, fill a long glass with ice and ginger ale, and establish herself at her one wide window, to stare down at the city, that was still panting in the heat, and so soon to be smitten with the red dawn.

But even then she did not think; her mind wandered aimlessly, she would presently get sleepy, and go fling herself on the top of her bed.

On her dressing-table, among the pots and jars she arranged so neatly, and dusted so scrupulously, was a tiny snap-shot of Jeffy and Betty Lou, but she never looked at it, or even saw it. Her tortoise-shell set—the gift of a grateful patient to Alan, years ago, who had had her exchange it—bore the entwined initials "C. M. M." But she called herself "Mrs. Knight."

Chris paid a hundred dollars a month for her two rooms and four-foot closet of a kitchenette; it was too much. Her income was less than three hundred dollars a month, and was constantly decreasing because she had to turn two or three bonds into cash, every six weeks or so, to pay her bills. The simplest dress she wore cost her a hundred dollars, and her hats half that, and her shoes one-quarter. And she paid Kitty $10 a week to put her apartment in order once a day, and bring her her breakfast tray.

In the fall she combined forces with Mabel Temple. It was not less expensive, but much less lonely. Mabel was an actress unsuccessful but optimistic and because she acted like the most scrupulous of women, and talked like the most reckless of wantons. Chris did not quite know how to place her.

Mabel was large, about twenty-eight, and always described by her friends as "good-hearted." She ate, drank, slept, powdered and rouged too much, and at times she would cry, while defending her character, and claiming that she had always been a good friend to her friends.

But she was delightful company, sweet, obliging, clever in the kitchen, never cross or critical, and most amusing in her discursive moods. She kept herself and her room exquisitely neat, with a large and old-fashioned doll with real hair and eyelashes sitting up in a doll's buggy, in one corner, and seven expensive and enormous Kewpies arranged in a row in another.

Mabel introduced Chris, whom she admired, to young Bruce Morgenstirn, nephew of the great Morgenstirn, and Bruce arranged an interview with his uncle for Mrs. Knight, who wanted a small part in any play, at any salary. Rudolf Morgenstirn, the uncle, regarded Chris unfavorably, and taked to her facetiously about one night stands, and the accommodations of small-town hotels.

He was unctious, large, with a clever Jewish face, a big nose, and shining glasses. Chris was surprised at his youth, he was not much older than herself. But being a man, at thirty-three he was in his prime, and could tell her quite honestly that she was beginning too late.

"You shoot of begun at adeteen!" he said, with the thickest and most offensive accent she had ever heard, yet with an oriental suavity of voice. And as he casually dismissed her she saw blossomy girl after girl waiting, dewy-eyed, rose-cheeked, palpitant, in his outer office.

Nugent, his attorney, W. W. Smith, Assistant State's Attorney from Chicago, said today after conference with Mrs. Stokes.

OPERATION OF MILL BLOCKED BY SUCKERS

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

WEST SWANZEY (N. H.) Jan. 28.—More than 1000 suckers which got into the intake and blocked the water at the grate leading to the waterwheel at the Homestead woolen mills caused a shutdown of the mill until the fish were raked out. More than a ton was thrown upon the bank and residents of the town carried them away in sacks. A man has to remain at the gate raking out the fish to prevent another jam. The fish average from one to two and a half pounds in weight.

When Mr. Fallon had finished his questioning, he said:

The Assistant District Attorney then told the court that the government had not called all its witnesses, but had put on the stand only those whose testimonies would be "typical" and "indicative of the methods employed by the defendants."

TO ATTACK PROSECUTION

Fallon served notice that he would attack the prosecution for not having called as witnesses such men as Mr. Kahn, Mr. Harriman, Mr. Fleischmann, Jesse Lasky of the Famous Players-Lasky Corporation, and others. One of the character witnesses Fallon has promised to produce tomorrow is Jules Brulatour, millionaire film manufacturer and theatrical producer and husband of Hope Hampton, screen actress.

COOLIDGE ASKS FARM AID RUSH

Proposals of Agricultural Body Given Congress

House Committee Chairman Calls Meeting

Insurgents in Senate Raise Strong Objections

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE]

WASHINGTON, Jan. 28.—The legislative recommendations of the Agricultural Commission were transmitted to Congress today by President Coolidge with a request for their enactment "at the earliest possible date."

In a brief message sent to both House and Senate the President not only urged prompt action but took occasion to express confidence in the commission and its findings.

No draft of legislation to carry out the recommendations accompanied the report and it was indicated that this task would be left to the House and Senate Agricultural Committees.

MEETING IS CALLED

Chairman Haugen has called a meeting of the House committee Saturday to canvass the situation and it is regarded as likely the Senate committee will also determine its procedure before the week-end. There are indications that the two committees may hold joint brief hearings to expedite consideration of legislation.

Administration leaders in both House and Senate said they were confident Congressional action could be completed on most of the commission's recommendations before adjournment. Chairman Green of the House Ways and Means Committee said he thought it improbable that anything could be done at this session toward complying with the general recommendation for better tariff protection for farm products.

As a step toward putting into law recommendations of the commission, Representative Williams, Republican, Michigan, reintroduced his co-operative marketing bill after eliminating from the original measure known as the Capper-Williams bill, provisions not recommended by the President's commission. He expressed the belief that his modified proposal carried out practically all the commission's suggestions.

NORRIS OPPOSED

A formidable stumbling-block to the commission's program developed, however, in the Senate among the insurgent group. Senator Norris, Republican, Nebraska, Chairman of the Agriculture Committee, announced he thought the proposed legislation not only could not be enacted at this session, but did not go far enough. He said he had no plans for calling the committee together immediately to consider the program.

Chairman Norris was one of those invited to the breakfast conference at the White House yesterday with other members of the Senate and House agricultural committees. Among the Republican members who did attend, however, it was said that the commission's program would be pushed.

TAILOR HELD AS CHIEF OF LIQUOR RING

San Franciscan Indicted Under Volstead Act Said to be Rum-Runner King

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE]

SAN FRANCISCO, Jan. 28.—Joseph J. Parente, San Francisco tailor, was arrested here tonight on a secret indictment voted by the Federal grand jury yesterday. He was charged with conspiracy to violate the Volstead Act. After arraignment, Parente posted bonds of $10,000 and was released.

Details of the indictment were suppressed by Asst. U. S. Atty. Robert M. Ford, pending the apprehension of four other persons named in indictments.

It was learned that the indictment against Parente contained two counts, in which the man is accused of sale and smuggling of liquor into the United States.

According to Federal prohibition officials, Parente's activities had been under investigation for some time on the supposition that he was connected with a so-called "independent" rum-running ring. Parente, the officials said, was the alleged "king" of a gang of liquor runners operating from British Columbia into California. This ring, according to the authorities, operated independently of a larger group which was investigated last year.

CHILD DESCRIBES TORTURES

Revolting Details of Asserted Brutalities Practiced by Women's Cult Cause Court to Close Doors

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

SAN FRANCISCO, Jan. 28.—So sensational were the revelations concerning the activities of the dwellers in Hickory Hall, Oakland, now called the "house of child torture," where according to witnesses no men were allowed to enter, and where children were subjected to the grossest indignities at the hands of women, young and old, that all sessions today, in the court of Superior Judge Murphy were conducted behind closed doors.

The ordering of secret sessions in the habeas corpus proceedings of Mrs. Ildicka Conklin for the recovery of her 4-year-old daughter from the custody of Mrs. Maude Leech, came when the two younger children of Mrs. Leech were put on the stand to tell the story of abusive treatment which they asserted was at the hands of Mrs. Conklin.

Laurel Leech, 13-year-old son of Mrs. Maud Leech, "grand high interpretress," said that Mrs. Conklin, after removing his shoes and stockings, had tied him to a bed, after which she whipped him with a lash until his lower limbs were red and tingling. As soon as she had completed the whipping, which consisted of 100 strokes of the lash, Mrs. Conklin fled from the room in a burst of emotional excitement, the boy is said to have testified.

The child told the court that he was left tied to the bed, and was rescued by his father, Coray Leech.

Scheduled to take the stand tomorrow to refute many of the sensational charges of Mrs. Conklin against Mrs. Leech is Miss Charlotte Meadek of San Francisco, an architectural assistant.

Although he said he knew of the alleged brutality, Coray Leech, father, declared he was "so dominated" in the cult home that he had "nothing to say" there. He gave this as partial explanation for his failure to divulge the indignities to his son.

"I found him and cut him down," the father said. "Then I took him to a trained nurse."

Sensational testimony revealing purported unspeakable cruelties to children in the home of the Oakland cult continued throughout the session.

A grand jury investigation, with possible indictments, overshadows the legal ensemble.

NEW KLAN WAR FEAR IN HERRIN

Armed Followers of Young Gather for Funeral

Chance Shot May Again Open Bloody Hostilities

Witnesses Fail to Clear Up Forbes, Warren Deaths

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

HERRIN (Ill.) Jan. 28.—The citizens of Herrin are wondering tonight what is in store for this shot-ridden community of "bloody" Williamson county, when the funeral of S. Glenn Young, Ku Klux Klan dry raider, is held tomorrow. Thousands of Klansmen from Illinois and adjoining States were pouring into the city today for the ceremony. It is estimated that 20,000 members of the hooded order will attend.

On Tuesday, despite a bitter cold wind, more than 500 automobile loads of Williamson county folk attended the burial of Ora Thomas, anti-Klan leader, who was slain in the duel with the Klan raiders.

BODY LIES IN STATE

The Klan is planning to make the funeral of Young a memorable occasion in the history of the order. The body of the dry leader lies in state in the First Baptist Church, surrounded by flaming crosses.

Some residents of the city fear that some intrepid person may open fire on the hooded Klansmen en route to the cemetery. Such action, they predict, will precipitate a new war, bloodier than those that have gone before. It is not denied that a majority of the Klansmen arriving for the Young funeral ceremonies are armed. It is pointed out that it is natural for residents of Williamson county to go well heeled with artillery. A shot fired at random, it is predicted tonight, even if it is not directed at the hooded marchers, will cause a renewal of the hostilities.

Twenty witnesses from the forces of both Klan and anti-Klan were grilled today at the inquest into Saturday's gun battle, in which two others besides Young and Thomas were shot to death. The Coroner's inquiry is nearing completion, but officials admit they are in no better position to place blame than they could have an hour after the smoke of battle had cleared away.

The Coroner knows that Young was killed by Thomas and that Thomas, in turn was shot down by Young. These are the only facts that stand out. The responsibility for the killing of Edward Forbes and Homer Warren, both followers of Young, remains unplaced.

A half-dozen of Young's adherents accompanied him to the cigar store where the battle occurred. As many antagonists to the Klan were grouped in and around the place. But from which group came the bullets which killed Forbes and Warren, was not brought to light.

ARE STILL UNCLEARED

Neither the readily given testimony of Klansmen nor the reluctantly given statements of Klan opponents today, served to clear the case. Provided the unexpected does not develop tomorrow, when the four remaining witnesses are heard, the latest shooting scrape in Herrin bids fair to follow its predecessors into oblivion, as far as the law is concerned.

Lige Green, miner, who had aroused the ire of Young by his anti-Klan activities and to chastise whom, Young had gone to the Biotti cigar store a few minutes before the shooting, was the chief witness at the inquest today. He said that while Young was cursing him, Thomas had entered the store unobserved. Green said that before he dashed from the store he saw Thomas draw his gun, but declared that Young was ready with his weapon.

FATHER LONG FEARED SON'S DEATH

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

REDLANDS, Jan. 28.—A sad-faced father sat in Redlands this afternoon as he thought of a scene in Herrin, Ill., where the funeral of his son is to be held tomorrow. It was George B. Young, the father of S. Glean Young, Nemesis of the bootlegger, who was shot to death there Saturday night, and he will not be able to attend the funeral because of his health. "I have feared this, and so one knows how often I have begged Glenn to give up the work," said Mr. Young, "and he always said, 'I can't now, dad, I'm all shot to pieces and no good for anything else.' He certainly bore a charmed life. I don't know how many times he had been shot."

Mr. Young will go back in the spring to help the widow, who is almost blind. "I don't know about Glenn and the Klan," he said. "All he ever told me was that when he went into a town to clean up, he could usually get what information he needed from the Klan."

COAST MEN HIT NEW RAIL BILL

Gooding "Long and Short" Haul Act Attacked

Delegates Appear Before Committee of House

Angeleno Says Citrus Men Opposed to Measure

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE]

WASHINGTON, Jan. 28.—Opponents of the Gooding "long and short haul" bill from the Pacific Coast were heard today by the House Commerce Committee.

Seth Mann, attorney and manager of the traffic bureau of the San Francisco Chamber of Commerce, declared he believed the practical effect of enacting the Gooding bill would be to provide for a rigid long and short haul. He pointed out that it was expensive to put refrigerator plants aboard vessels to ship fruits and vegetables from the Pacific Coast to the Atlantic seaboard, and in this respect said there is no competition to speak of. No justification exists, he added, for any monopoly to be given to any means of transportation, be it rail, water or air. Rail and water transportation should be encouraged, he said, and nothing done to hurt either.

R. J. Knott of Portland, Ore., representing the West Pine Manufacturers' Association, called attention to the heavy westbound movement of empty cars. A more or less general increase in rates seems to be the alternative of relief under section 4 of the long list under Section 4 of the long Interstate Commerce Act, which permits revision of rail rates to meet varying conditions.

Various bills would be introduced in Congress to repeal the Gooding bill if it became a law, Knott contended, adding that its passage would mean a transition from the orderly procedure of the I.C.C. to the halls of Congress.

POINT OF ORIGIN

The average point of origin of the empty cars was between Chicago and St. Paul, he declared, in estimating that there are two empty cars to one loaded car through any given point west. Enactment of the Gooding bill would not put into effect a rigid long and short haul, he asserted. The Northwestern railroads would be obliged to seek greater revenue with a raising of rates under the Gooding measure, Knott said. The real purpose of the jobbers in wanting relief is because they are afraid the Pacific Coast jobbers might get farther eastward into the interior, Knott declared.

"I think the intermountain jobbers are theorizing and their theory is wrong," he said.

Inferior service, difficulty in securing cars and an increase in eastbound rates were observed as results of passage of the Gooding bill by D. M. Swope of San Francisco, representing the California White and Sugar Pine Association and California members of the American Short Line Association. Western carriers, he declared, are not making 3-4 per cent on their investment, but would be enabled to do so if given an opportunity to meet water competition.

CITRUS MEN OPPOSED

Karl D. Loose of Los Angeles, attorney for the California Citrus League, asserted the citrus growers were opposed to the bill being considered. It would increase transportation charges, he felt. No citrus fruit is now moving through the Panama Canal, he explained, as some was moved that way but owing to inadequate refrigeration the fruit spoiled.

Several San Francisco shippers were represented in opposition to the measure by A. L. Fowle, traffic manager of Hills Brothers, San Francisco. Increased rates and costs to the consumer would be effected, he said, by passage of the Gooding bill. Without domination of railroad rates, he asserted, water rates might rise. Another result from enactment of the bill, he pointed out, would be increased cost of newspapers through a rise in newsprint costs, giving advantage to Scandinavian paper manufacturers. Higher freight rates to newspapers, a restricted market and loss of business he placed as results from the bill if it is passed. Ships under foreign flags would also be given preference on West Coast ports if the bill is favorably acted on.

PERISHABLE PRODUCTS

H. M. Remington of San Francisco, general manager of the California Growers' and Shippers' Protective League, told the committee the production of perishables is California's great basic industry, and supplies 50 per cent of the eastbound tonnage and is dependent on the railroads for transportation. The deciduous fruit industry is now in a bad economic condition, he added.

His organization is "unalterably opposed" to the Gooding bill, he said. Sixty per cent of the refrigerator cars are empty westbound, he said, 40 per cent being loaded with products other than perishables.

Remington said the California growers expect to increase their products by 10,000 carloads a year and unless the railroads can make rates above the out-of-pocket cost they will not be enabled to provide for the new equipment needed.

William J. Urquhart of Yakima, Wash., manager of the Yakima Traffic and Credit Association, said he was apprehensive the bill would put a burden on the fruit producers in that territory.

BILL AIMED AT 'SHEIKS' AND 'VAMPS'

Nebraska Legislator May Make "Home Wrecker" Guilty of Felony

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE]

LINCOLN (Neb.) Jan. 28.—"Sheiks" and "designing women" who alienate the affections of a wife or husband would be guilty of a felony, and subject to a fine and penitentiary sentence under a bill to be introduced in the Nebraska State Senate tomorrow, Senator John W. Cooper, author of the bill, announced today.

The measure sets forth, however, certain conditions under which a person could alienate a married man or woman's affections and still not be guilty, namely when a divorce suit between the couple is pending, when they are separated and when the husband or wife represents himself or herself to be single.

Penalty for violation of the proposed law under Senator Cooper's measure, would be a prison sentence of one to five years or a fine of not less than $500, nor more than $2500, or both.

"No Senator or Representative will be in a position to vote against my bill," said Senator Cooper.

MORE DELAY IN VOTING ON POSTAL BILL

Night Session Threatened by Moses to Hurry Action on Pay and Rates

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE]

WASHINGTON, Jan. 28. — A night session of the Senate tomorrow to hasten action on the postal pay and rate increase bill was threatened today by Senator Moses, Republican, New Hampshire, in charge of the measure after the day's discussion had failed to bring a vote on any of the pending amendments.

During the discussion today, Senator Moses announced a provision in the bill limiting books, catalogues, seeds, cuttings, bulbs, roots, scions and plants to four ounces for mailing in the third class should read eight ounces. Other third-class mail, however, would be limited to four ounces.

A vote is in order tomorrow on the proposal of Senator George, Democrat, Georgia, to reduce present second-class rates on advertising sections of publications to those in effect before July 1, 1920. The bill provides for a slight increase in these rates.

Senator Moses contended today a reduction in these rates would result in a loss of $3,000,000 revenue to the government, whereas additional revenue was needed to pay the postal salary increases provided in the bill, but Senator George argued that lower rates would increase revenue by bringing additional pieces of mail into the service.

DAVIS FACES NEW CHARGE OF BRIBERY

Ex-Governor of Kansas and Bank Commissioner to be Arraigned Today

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE]

TOPEKA (Kan.) Jan. 28.—Jonathan M. Davis, former Governor of Kansas, will be arraigned in the court of Topeka tomorrow with Carl J. Peterson, his State Bank Commissioner and chief adviser, to answer charges of bribery. Warrants for their arrest were issued today on complaint of Capt. W. A. Smith, Assistant Attorney-General. Atty.-Gen. C. B. Griffith had obtained permission from Gov. Ben H. Paulen to investigate and prosecute where he deemed proper.

It was the second criminal action brought against the former Governor in little more than two weeks. Two hours before he retired from office Gov. Davis was arrested with his son, Russell, on conspiracy and bribery charges, alleging that Russell had accepted $1250 for delivering a pardon to Fred A. Pollman, convicted banker.

The complaint filed today was based on an affidavit made by Anthony L. Oswald, Hutchinson attorney, who stated that Peterson solicited a bribe of $2500 for a pardon of his client, Walter Grundy, then serving a penitentiary term for bank embezzlement. It was alleged that Peterson was acting as "agent for the Governor."

Peterson retired as State Bank Commissioner last Saturday. Grundy was never pardoned.

AVERS FRANCE WILL PAY DEBT

Mrs. Le Blond in Close Touch With Paris Officials

English Woman Performed Worthy War Service

Lauds California in Address to Friday Morning Club

BY ALMA WHITAKER

Speaking before the Friday Morning Club at the guest luncheon yesterday, Mrs. Aubrey Le Blond of London declared that she is in a position to state that France will pay in full her obligations to this country.

She is, she told the club, honorary secretary of the society known as the Friends of France, and through it is in close touch with the French government officials and the embassies and has personally received this assurance from them.

WORKED IN FRANCE

Mrs. Le Blond worked in France under the Serve De Sante Militaire and later, at the request of the British government, lectured to British troops for several months.

She is the daughter of the late Sir Vincent Hawkins-Whitshed, third Baronet, and married Col. Fred Burnaby, whose "Ride to Khiva" brought him fame. He died in the unsuccessful attempt to rescue Gordon in Egypt. She is cousin to the new Duchess of York. Also she is the author of several books on Alpine adventure, being last year's president of the Woman's Alpine Club. Other books of hers are "Cities and Sights of Spain" and "A Guide to the Old Gardens of Italy" and several biographies.

But since the war Mrs. Le Blond has chiefly devoted herself to gathering funds for the restoration of Rheims Cathedral, now accomplished with the aid of the French government. And for this reason she is in close touch with all things French and can therefore speak with authority on French intentions.

Mrs. Le Blond also stated that she wished to offer a special gratitude to California, which has almost restored her son, Arthur Burnaby, to health and strength after five years' residence in Altadena. She also brought Aubrey Le Blond with her this trip, ill and broken in health, and takes him back to England on Saturday robust and completely recovered, "owing to this most wonderful health-giving climate."

DEBT OF GRATITUDE

As a debt of gratitude Mrs. Le Blond's next book will be on California, to aid in confounding the slanders that have been heaped upon the Southland. To that end she has devoted her two months' stay here in pleasant research.

All the international activities in which Mrs. Le Blond is engaged, and they include many, have been performed as a pleasant and sacred duty without pay. Among other honors she is a gold medalist of the Royal Photographic Society and she has been making some remarkable pictures to illustrate her book on California.

Japanese Oath Questioned in Murder Trial

The question of the form of oath to be taken by non-Christian Japanese witnesses was raised yesterday before Judge Reeve in the murder case of T. Matsushima. The latter is accused of killing I. Suso Kikuchi, July 31, 1924.

The witness was T. Yamamoto, a fisherman, and his testimony was objected to by Attorney R. H. Loenholm of defense counsel on the ground that Tamamoto does not believe in the God mentioned in the oath.

Judge Reeve had the interpreter explain to the witness the legal penalty for perjury, and permitted him to proceed. The witness said Matsushima stabbed Kikuchi in the course of a quarrel.

ESKIMO MAIDS ON WAY HOME

Civilization Lures Fail to Hold Daughters of North Brought Out by Amundsen

The spell of the Arctic has proved stronger than 5000 years of civilization to two little Eskimo girls who are here aboard the Danish motorship Tongking, bound back to their home up under the North Pole after four years of European schooling.

Four years ago Capt. Roald Amundsen, Arctic explorer and discoverer of the South Pole, reached East Cape, Siberia, after having traversed the Northwest Passage via Greenland in the schooner Maud. From East Cape, the most westerly point of Eurasia and only a few hundred miles from the North Pole, he took back to Denmark with him Kamilla Carpindale, 11 years of age, and Kakonita Kakot, 7. They were to be educated in the best schools in Europe and after that, if they wished, they could return to their Arctic home.

Kamilla is the daughter of Charles Carpindale, an Australian adventurer who married an Eskimo girl and is now living on East Cape, while Kakonita is a full-blooded Eskimo lass—with the features of the typical Arctic barbarian.

But Capt. Amundsen, in planning the future of his adopted daughters, forgot about the spell of the frozen spaces that has called him to endure the hardships of the polar regions for thirty years. Kamilla and Kakonita are going back home because they could not forget the ice, the long nights and the dancing lights.

"We like the books, the shows and the music," explained Kamilla. "We tried very hard to forget the cold winds and the ice and the days when night never came, but something always made them come back to our heads."

This overwhelming something, homesickness or spell of the North, became so strong that Capt. Amundsen at last decided to let the two girls return home—believed to be the first Eskimos who have traveled over 20,000 miles of earth's surface.

Kamilla and Kakonita have both proved that heredity doesn't mean everything in development of the mind. In the three and a half years they were in Denmark they completed schooling upon which a youngster of the civilized world spends twelve years.

Their black eyes shine with the light of intelligence, but the sparkle is perhaps the brighter because in a few weeks they will be back again in the Land of the Midnight Sun.

SERVICE IS SUBJECT TO TAX

Goodcell Explains Goods or Lodgings Received as Part of Wages Must be Reported as Income

Payment for services made otherwise than with money is subject to the income tax, Rex. B. Goodcell, Collector of Internal Revenue, explained yesterday. The amount thereby included in the income will be the fair market value of the thing taken in payment. For example, the collector said, the value of merchandise received by a clerk in part payment for his services must be reported as income. The value the board and lodging constitutes taxable income to the taxpayer receiving it as compensation for services. The amount to be included is the amount he would pay in cash for similar accommodations.

Promissory notes received in payment for services and not merely as security for such payment constitute income to the amount of their fair market value. Compensation paid an employee of a corporation in shares of stock is to be treated as if the corporation sold the stock for its market value and paid him in cash.

Where living quarters, food, clothing, etc., are furnished solely for the convenience of the employer, the value of such does not constitute taxable income to the employee. This rule applies in logging or fishing camps and part board and lodging furnished seamen. The value of board and lodging furnished hospital employees is to be returned as income, unless the employee is subject to duty at any time during the twenty-four hours of a day, and therefore is required to accept quarters and meals at the hospital in addition to his regular compensation.

RUN ON BANK EXPLAINED

Burbank Miss Taught Costly Lesson; San Dimas Contestant Hits Limerick Bull's Eye Today

The Lim Ed is beginning to wonder, now that the contest is nearly over, whether anyone ever read his stuff. He recalls distinctly having delivered several lectures on the subject of feminine rhymes; and on last Thursday's lack liner, with only two more to go, only about 10 per cent of the fans started their rhyming at the next to the last syllable. So a lot of otherwise pretty good lines went into the discard.

First prize winner is Miss A. D. George of Gladstone avenue, San Dimas, getting the $25 award for this:

Bondsman Gives Up Man Accused of New Charge

J. C. Bee was surrendered yesterday by his bondsmen and held in $20,000 bail when Mrs. Maud C. Reed of Belmont declared she had recognized him as Hamilton T. Bee, whom she charges with swindling her of $15,000. Bee had previously been arrested on a less serious charge in Culver City.

According to Mrs. Reed, Bee was formerly manager of the Quick-Lite Lantern Company of San Francisco, and obtained the money from her in that capacity.

Bee declares her charge was the result of a political frame-up.

TORCHIA HOME IS GUARDED

Police Fear New Bomb Plot After Youth Fights Dynamite Suspects; Robbery Hinted

The home of Ernest M. Torchia, attorney of Los Angeles, at 1329 Campbell street, Glendale, was guarded last night, while Federal and county officers sought with renewed vigor the band of bombers who nearly killed Torchia last Christmas morning when he opened evidence of another bomb plot.

The home of Ernest M. Torchia, attorney of Los Angeles, at 1329 Campbell street, Glendale, was guarded last night, while Federal and county officers sought with renewed vigor the band of bombers who nearly killed Torchia last Christmas morning when he opened a gift box filled with explosive.

Elmer E. Fitz, 19-year-old youth of 1322 North Louise street, Glendale, directly behind the Torchia home, met and fought with two men whom he believed to be attempting the destruction of the Torchia home Tuesday night. One of the men, said Fitz, carried with him a small wooden box, like a chronometer case. The bomb which injured Attorney Torchia was contained in a narrow wooden box.

Mr. Torchia is still in the Glendale Hospital recovering from his wounds, while the wife and daughter of the injured man have left the home and are living in a secret place with friends. Because these facts are well known, both Capt. Bright of the Sheriff's homicide squad, and Chief of Police Fraser of Glendale said they believed that young Fitz did not meet with bombers, but interrupted an attempted burglary.

KNOCKED SENSELESS

"I was passing the Torchia home," said Mr. Fitz yesterday, "just after dark, when I saw a man in the rear of the house. I thought it was the watchman and stepped in to speak to him. He vanished. Then in the dark I saw a very tall man rushing at me. He carried the box under his arm. I struck out at him and he went down. Then the other smashed me over the head with some weapon. I lost consciousness and when I came to they were gone.

"The house next door was brightly lighted. If they had been burglars it seems that they would have hidden until I had passed. Instead they both rushed upon me." Fitz was little the worse for his experience yesterday.

"That's where they hit me," said he, pointing to a lump on the back of his head. "And that's where I hit them," anointing a skinned row of knuckles with iodine.

HOUSE NOT ENTERED

Glendale police responded to the call Tuesday night and developed the fact that the house had not been entered. They could find no

"That's where they hit me," said he, pointing to a lump on the back of his head. "And that's where I hit them," anointing a skinned row of knuckles with iodine.

The search for the Christmas Day bombers is continuing, said the officers, with the expectation of solving the affair. The hunt is progressing in secrecy, but it is known that several good clews have been secured.

Wage Claim of Cronin Before Appeal Court

Whether Robert E. Cronin is entitled to wages which he was refused after Sheriff Traeger discharged him as a county jailer in 1922, was taken under consideration yesterday by Justices Conrey, Curtis and Houser of the Second District Court of Appeal, Division One.

Cronin was denied a writ of mandate in Superior Court with which he sought to have the County Civil Service Commission reimburse him. He appealed, contending he had been discharged without being allowed a hearing before the commission.

County Counsel Bishop argued that as the only function of a civil service commission is to provide a list of eligible employees from which heads of departments may choose; the authority to discharge one of these employees rests with the heads of departments.

During its session the court admitted Wilbur F. Thayer, Jr., to the practice of law in California. Thayer previously had practiced in Massachusetts.

MOTHER SEEKS WORK

Deserted by her husband and destitute of funds or work to provide for their six-months-old baby, a young mother yesterday applied to "Brother Tom" Liddicoat at the Midnight Mission for aid in finding work and a home. The mother is willing to do any kind of honorable work that will provide for her and her baby, Mr. Liddecoat said.

SALVATION PARLEY TO END TODAY

Congress is Pronounced Most Successful Held by Army in West

With a meeting at 7 p.m. tonight of a staff officers' council, to be presided over by Lieutenant-Commissioner Adam Gifford, the fifth annual western territorial congress of the Salvation Army here will close.

At 10 a.m. today there will be a staff gathering and at 12:30 p.m. a staff luncheon at the Salvation Army headquarters, at which National Commander Evangeline Booth will speak.

Miss Booth talked yesterday on "Compromise Nothing" before an officers' council, which met to discuss reports of Salvation Army work during the past year, and to make plans for the coming year. A group meeting of officers was held in the afternoon and a further council of officers in the evening.

The national commander yesterday extended praise to Lieut.-Col. C. R. Boyd, divisional commander of Southern California, for the Salvation Army, on the successful manner in which he has conducted the western congress. The congress opened on the 23rd inst.

More than 600 delegates will begin leaving tonight and tomorrow for their homes. They pronounce the present Congress the most successful held by the Salvation Army in the West.

Appeal Court Reverses Suit Against City

Judgment of Superior Court awarding Garnett W. Coen damages of $61,000 against the city of Los Angeles in connection with the cancellation of a lease on frontage at Los Angeles Harbor was reversed yesterday by the Second District Court of Appeal, Division One. Coen sued for $300,000, asserting he suffered damages to that amount when the harbor department canceled a lease held by Coen on 204 feet on the water.

The tract was situated on Mormon Island and originally had been leased for a thirty-year term by the city to the Banning company, with a clause in the lease providing that the city might take over 204 feet on the water at any time after giving six months' notice.

The opinion of the Appeal Court was written by Presiding Judge Conrey and concurred in by Justices Curtis and Houser.

CORPORATE LOANS GAIN

Foreign Companies Now in Shape to Ask Financial Assistance; Government Financing Less

BY EARLE E. CROWE

In the last few days the nature of the large amount of foreign financing announced in the American investment market seems to forecast the decline of government demand for capital and the rise of an important period of financing by foreign corporations. This tendency is in accord with the opinions of many investment authorities and corresponds to the increase in the number of corporate issues in the closing months of 1924.

European industrial and public utility corporations are now in the market with a formidable list of obligations. A glance at the total amount now offered or sold, in addition to the issues rumored, points to the decision on the part of the European business interests to re-enter the domestic and foreign markets in a determined fashion this year. Evidently a conviction has been reached that governments are headed in the right direction, and that business operations can be resumed along normal lines with a minimum of political interference.

AMERICA BENEFITS

Generally, the business interests of the United States stand to benefit from this development. The copper companies are receiving tangible results in the increased demand for the red metal from utility companies and certain industries. The cotton growers are selling large quantities of the staple to the rejuvenated textile industry, although the domestic textile interests are rather dubious over the effects of the foreign revival. The domestic steel companies answer this argument by the statement that cheaper costs in this country will prevent any great amount of competition from foreign steel.

The three important corporate issues offered in the last few days are for the electrical and the steel industries. Three large American investment syndicates are handling the offerings, the first of which is a $10,000,000 commodity credit to the Siemens group, the largest manufacturers of electrical equipment in Germany and Austria. The second is an issue of $2,000,000 7 per cent long-term bonds of the Rima Steel Corporation, reputed to be the largest steel combination in Central Europe. The third is an offering of $10,000,000 German Electric Company 7 per cent debentures. The company is affiliated with the General Electric Company of the United States.

The foregoing are the principal European corporations to appeal to the American investors and bankers for assistance. In 1924, European railroads floated loans and credits for $45,000,000, and public utilities obtained $8,400,000. The largest industrial loan was one of $12,000,000 to the Industrial Mortgage Bank of Finland, guaranteed by the government. The Krupp Works obtained $10,000,000 and the Solvay & Co., and French National Mail Steamship Company each were successful in financing for similar amounts.

In a review of 1924 foreign financing the National City Company expresses the opinion that, "While loans to governments still form the great bulk of our foreign financing, in relative importance, they are losing ground, while corporate financing is gaining. This tendency is one of the most significant aspects of the 1924 totals."

DEMAND GROWS

Comparing the foreign securities outstanding January, 1918, with the new capital advanced in 1924, the National City Company shows that the percentage of corporate issues has increased from 14.37 per cent in 1919 to 21.85 per cent in 1924. This is comparable to a decline in governmental issues from 75.77 per cent in 1919 to 57.25 per cent in 1924.

The Department of Commerce is authority for the statement that the gross volume of foreign securities offered in the United States in 1924 totaled about $1,200,000,000, compared to approximately $540,-000,000 in 1923, and $340,000,000 in 1922. This amount was only slightly in excess of the peak years of 1915 and 1916, when the Anglo-French loans were offered.

Authorities are quoted by National City Company review to show that the interest payments to American investors on foreign security investments in 1923 were $227,000,000. Estimating the interest receivable in the last two years at $81,000,000, a total of $308,000,000 is obtained for the last three years. These figures indicate that the national income is materially increased by the participation of American people in the rehabilitation and expansion of European and other countries.

Aside, however, from the monetary returns from these investments, it is of considerable importance that the savings of the American people are assisting the deserving European corporations to get back on their feet. It is likely that this relationship is of much more international significance than the pacts signed in solemn diplomatic conferences.

WESTERN SECURITIES
GILMORE OIL COMPANY

GILMORE Oil Company, one of the recognized leaders among the independents, was incorporated March 17, 1923 with a capitalization of $5,000,000 divided into 200,000 shares with a par value of $25 a share. It acquired the A. F. Gilmore Company and the Gilmore Petroleum Company and engaged in the business of producing and refining oils.

A. F. Gilmore, who founded the organization, has been active in the industry for twenty-one years since he found oil on his ranch in the Salt Lake field, now the heart of the Wilshire district.

In those days the advent of a new well usually caused great consternation among the operators for the market was so limited that it could not readily absorb an added supply.

Confronted with this problem, Mr. Gilmore put his oil to use in laying roads and for many years the output of his organization was devoted exclusively to this work. Starting with about ten employees the Gilmore interests have grown until there are now 340 employees working under its banner.

REFINERIES OPERATED

Subrefineries and stations are operated in San Diego, San Bernardino, Santa Maria, Maricopa and Fresno and 343 independent service stations handle the company's gasoline and lubricating oils. The main refinery is at Vernon.

The company owns its own refineries and has its own production but does not enter extensively into the exploration phase of development. Efforts are centered on the refining, marketing and exportation of gasoline, asphaltic oil cinders for road construction, kerosene, lubricating oils, distillate, fuel oil and mineral turpentines.

When the Gilmore Company took over the Gilmore Petroleum Company and the A. F. Gilmore Company, both California corporations, it issued in exchange 100,000 shares, or $2,500,000 aggregate par, of its capital stock. In order to raise additional working capital to further carry out its corporate purposes, it received permission to sell the remaining 100,000 shares of its capital stock.

EARNINGS FAVORABLE

The consolidated statement, dated March 31, 1924, of the Gilmore Petroleum Company and the A. F. Gilmore Company, listed assets of $3,414,739.35, of which $1,-206,241.61 represented leases, contracts and good will, subject to liabilities of $914,789.39.

Earnings of the Gilmore Oil Company for 1924 are estimated at approximately $300,000, or at the rate of $2 a share on the 145,-819 shares outstanding of the total 200,000 shares. The regular quarterly dividend of December 31, 1924 was passed as it was desired to build up the company's surplus. Five dividends totaling $316,121.50, or at a rate of 8 per cent annually have been paid.

Officers and directors of the organization are:

E. B. Gilmore, president; C. W. Stone, vice-president; C. S. Boesmyer, secretary and reasurer, and S. M. Salisbury, director.

On the 10th inst. the Gilmore Oil Company stock was approved for listing on the Los Angeles Stock Exchange and since its advent the stock has been firm at favorable prices.

CITY SAVES ON STEEL BOUGHT

Standard Method Effects 12 Per Cent Economy

Eastern Authority Traces New Movement

Specifications Adopted at Hoover's Suggestion

Through the adoption of standard steel specifications, Los Angeles, among other cities in the United States, is saving 12 per cent on fabricated steel utilized in building construction, a group of local steel men were told yesterday at a luncheon meeting at the University Club by Charles F. Abbott, executive director of the American Institute of Steel Construction. Over 92 per cent of the steel fabricators in the United States are now using the specifications, which were adopted at the suggestion of Secretary Hoover.

"The Institute," Mr. Abbott explained, "has made signal progress in securing recognition and use of its standard specifications for the fabrication and erection of structural steel. Among other advantages, this specification makes possible a saving of millions of dollars on the fabricated steel entering into a structure. The Institute has established that improved methods of manufacture have resulted in a higher quality of steel, which permits the raising of the unit stress from 16,000 pounds a square inch to 18,000 pounds, at the same time maintaining every desirable factor of safety.

LOS ANGELES JOINS

"More than twenty-five cities have written the standard specifications into their building code, of which the city of Los Angeles is one. The 12 per cent economy effected in steel construction is amounting to an appreciable amount. It was recently estimated that on New York City's present school building program, $1,500,000 could be saved the taxpayers if the standard specifications were used."

Among the economies obtained, Mr. Abbott mentioned the use of rivets. The fabricated steel industry is capable of producing 5,000,-000 tons of steel annually, of which 100,000 tons are represented by rivets alone. It was determined that about one-sixth could be cut off the total number of rivets by proper specification, which resulted in an economy of fully $6,000,000 annually in the industry.

It was also found that the elimination of unnecessary coats of paint between points of contact saved in the aggregate between 30 cents to $1 a ton.

PRACTICES CODIFIED

The representatives of the American Institute of Steel Construction also explained to the Los Angeles fabricators the code of standard practice formulated by the institute. The industry, he said, in its growth during the thirty-five years that have elapsed since the introduction of structural steel, has developed many inconsistent practices and definitions which needed codification and improvement. He cited an instance of frequent misunderstanding between the buyer and seller in the classification of the various iron and steel items entering into a structure. In the past there existed considerable confusion as the exact definition of structural steel and iron. The institute, in its code of standard practice, divided steel into four standard groups, which are now widely accepted.

A committee of the institute also worked out the codification of engineering practice, which was reviewed from all angles by the important branches of the industry before it was adopted. Invoice weights were standardized in a similar manner. Contract specifications referring to delays in work are also definitely outlined.

Mr. Abbott lauded the work of the recent conference at Del Monte of the steel and iron men from California, Oregon and Washington. At this meeting the delegates unanimously joined the American Institute of Steel Construction.

Swine Herds in United States Show Decrease

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE]

WASHINGTON, Jan. 28.—Reduction of the number of swine by almost 12,000,000 compared with a year ago, was the outstanding feature of the Department of Agriculture's annual estimate issued today on the number and value of live stock on farms and ranges in the United States. The unusually large number of hogs a year ago and the poor corn crop last year reducing the number of hogs that can be fattened, were declared to be the principal causes of the decrease.

The value of farm and range live stock was placed at $4,824,-512,000, as compared with $4,906,-587,000 on January 1, a year ago. The average farm price of milch cows and dairy heifers dropped $1.66 per head in the year; mules dropped $3.58 a head; horses $1.50 a head, and other cattle 57 cents a head. The average farm price of sheep increased $1.46 per head and swine prices were $2.59 a head higher than a year ago.

There were decreases in the number of all classes of live stock, excepting milch cows and sheep. Drought in the range States, particularly west of the Rocky Mountains, caused a general reduction in live stock in that section, together with low prices for beef cattle, as compared with the prices for dairy products, mutton and wool. Continued low prices for horses and mules caused reduction in the number of colts raised.

The increasing number of automobiles, trucks and tractors on farms has also caused a slight reduction in the number of work horses in some States.

NEW YORK BONDS

Oil Issues Climb

NEW YORK, Jan. 28.—A burst of strength by oil-company bonds, which kept pace with a rise in the petroleum shares, featured today's bond trading. Other issues marked time, price changes mainly being fractional and insignificant.

Renewed buying of the oil obligations was prompted by advancing crude and gasoline prices, reports of decreased stocks and persistent rumors of preliminary merger negotiations by a number of the independent companies. Scoring gains of 1 to 2 points, Sinclair Consolidated, Skelly, Pan-American and California Pete issues sold at the highest prices since 1922.

Although railroad bonds as a group failed to show much change, several issues developed independent strength. New York Central convertible 6s followed an advance in the stock by moving up 1¼ points, and Hudson and Manhattan income 5s jumped 1¾. "Katy" adjustment 6s crossed 55 to a new high. St. Paul liens, however, continued to work lower.

Few features of interest appeared in the foreign list, although a rise of 3¼ points in Polish 6s on a small turnover was linked with reports that bankers were preparing to float a loan for this country next month.

Today's offerings of $14,652,000 Chicago and Western Indiana and $10,000,000 Union Oil of California bonds brought the total of the week's new financing so far above $100,000,000. Both issues were sold readily. Public offerings will be made tomorrow of $3,000,000 Pacific Steamship Company first preferred marine equipment 6½s at prices to yield 5 to 6¾ per cent.

Following are yesterday's high, low and closing prices of bonds on the New York Stock Exchange, and the total sales of each bond. This market is over Associated Press quotes, and the monthly transmission the closing is omitted when it is the same as the low, and both low and close are omitted when they are the same as the high.

No. 7 of a Series of Personal Messages from the Directors and Governors of Credit Finance Corporation

A Borrowing Community

BY

HUGO M. BURGWALD

Governor of Credit Finance Corporation

President of H. M. Burgwald & Company
Past-President, Los Angeles Fire Insurance Exchange
Director, National Auto Club of United States
Past-President, The Rotary Club of Los Angeles

Many of us remember the Los Angeles of a few years ago, famous mostly for its climate, a mecca for tourists. Once awakened, its progress has been phenomenal. With one or two exceptions it has probably developed industrially faster than any other American City

As surely as trade follows the flag so does finance play its part in industrial growth, until today the finger of finance touches every enterprise of consequence.

Administering the insurance needs of a clientele composed largely of manufacturers and distributors, over a period of nearly twenty years, often puts us in intimate touch with the affairs of these firms.

I have time and again noticed that they are frequently hampered in their development and expansion because the marketing of their product requires extension of credits, and therefore, financing, beyond their resources, and ordinary banking facilities.

So that, from our own experience, dating back to days when Los Angeles was an infant industrially, we are in a position to know that the Credit Finance Corporation, aside from offering an attractive investment, fills a great need in the industrial development of Southern California with an almost unlimited business instantly available. Los Angeles is essentially a borrowing community, developed and built on credit, and one whose credit needs will always exceed the supply for at least twenty-five years to come.

H. M. Burgwald

The fire siren screams, the crowds scatter and down the street comes thundering the huge engines and other paraphernalia of modern fire-fighting equipment. Another fire is in progress with perhaps a loss of a million dollars in property. But not altogether a loss, either, for the great insurance companies stand back of the temporary loss, supplying the money to rehabilitate. Because of this, no-one gets quite so closely and intimately in touch with the modern industrialist and business man as does the insurance underwriter. As Director of Insurance of the corporation, Mr. Burgwald brings with him a fundamental understanding of the conditions and needs of practically every basic industry being financed by this company.

CARL B. SPENCER.

Not for the Big Alone

An adequate Accounting Service is much more of a problem to the small concern than to big business.

The necessity for right Method and System is apparent to both. The only difference is that the smaller concern feels that it can not afford to have it, while big business knows that it can not afford to do without it. Yet the principles of accounting are the same in each case.

Long and varied experience in serving big business, nation-wide in extent, has given the Ernst & Ernst organization special facilities in Accounting, System and Methods, which make their service applicable to all business, whatever its size.

Our Service to the smaller concern is not big business service cut down to save cost. It is a special service of the highest merit, specially adapted to meet individual requirements. It is wholly adequate and easily obtainable at a cost in keeping with the size of your business.

The Service covers all accounting problems—monthly or continuous audits, costs, and all other business systems, tax service, etc.

LEAD GRASPED BY OIL SHARES

Marked Gains Recorded by Wide List

Wheat Detracts Interest from Securities

Earnings of Rail Companies Show Improvement

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE]

NEW YORK, Jan. 28.—Stock prices bounded upward today under the leadership of the oil shares, nearly all of which moved up 1 to 3 points to their highest prices in a year or more. Buying of the petroleum issues was stimulated by reports of another large decline in production in the new Wortham field, and a further extension of gasoline and crude-oil price advances.

Some heaviness was apparent at the opening in reflection of speculative disappointment over the failure of the directors of the United States Steel Corporation to place the common stock on a flat $7 annual dividend basis. All offerings were well absorbed, however, and the general market soon was headed upward with trading again in heavy volume.

Another sharp advance in wheat which carried May futures as high as $2.05 a bushel, undoubtedly was the outstanding financial development of the day. While it probably caused some diversion of speculative interest from the stock to the grain market, stock traders construed it as a bullish factor. Establishment of another seasonal record by carloadings and reports of further expansion in steel-mill operations also had a cheerful effect on sentiment.

NARROW RANGE

United States Steel common closed 5-8 higher at 127 3-8, after selling as low as 126 1-4. Baldwin showed a net gain of 1 point at 131 1/4, and American Can crossed 165 for a fractional gain.

Pacific was again the leader of the oil group, closing 2 3-8 higher at 64 1/4 on total transactions in excess of 100,000 shares. Tidewater Oil moved up 2 points, and the Pan-American issues, Coaden, Phillips Pete, Pure Oil, Marland, Sinclair, Standard Oils of California, and New Jersey, Texas Company and Union Oil of California were among the many issues to show net gains of a point or more.

Nash Motors scored a sensational advance of 37 1/4 points to 274 and then slipped back to 261. Jordon Motors and Mack Truck showed net gains of 1 and 2 points, respectively, but several other issues in the automotive group were heavy in reflection of the stiff competition in that industry.

The Commercial Solvents issues continued their spectacular advance, the "B" stock moving up 16 1-4 points to a new high at 175, and the "B" stock closing 18 1-4 points higher at 176 3-4.

RAILS BUOYANT

Railroad shares reflected the marked improvement being shown in the preliminary 1924 earnings report now being published. Lehigh Valley advanced 3 1-4 points to 78 and net gains of a point were recorded by the three Erie issues, New York Central, New Haven, Southern Pacific, Wabash preferred, Atlantic Coast Line, Colorado and Southern, Lackawanna, Delaware and Hudson, Denver and Rio Grande Western preferred and several others.

Call money held steady at 3 1/4 per cent. Time money and commercial paper rates were unchanged.

Foreign exchange rates held relatively firm. Demand sterling was quoted around 479 1/4 and French francs at 5.41 1/4 cents.

WALL STREET GOSSIP

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE]

NEW YORK, Jan. 28.—Net operating income of the first forty-three Class I railroads to report December earnings approximated $58,490,000, in comparison with $42,723,000 in December, 1923, an increase of 20 per cent. Gross revenues increased 31 per cent to $339,935,000, against $329,654,000.

An initial quarterly dividend of 65 cents a share was declared today on the participating preferred stock of the International Match Company, payable April 15 to holders of record March 25.

Directors of the B. F. Goodrich Company today declared the regular quarterly dividend of $1.75 a share on the preferred, but took no action on resumption of common dividends. B. G. Work, president, explained that during the substantial decrease in the company's surplus account after the severe depression in the rubber industrial in 1920, the directors deemed it advisable to replace at least a portion of this surplus before resuming payments on the common stock. Net profit was approximately $8,800,000 for 1924, equal after preferred dividends to $10.57 a share on the common, compared with $3,025,383 or $0 cents a share in 1923. Net sales exceeded $100,000,000.

The outward flow of gold continued today, shipments to India and Germany aggregating nearly $6,000,000. J. P. Morgan & Co., is sending another $2,500,000 to the Reichsbank toward the German loan, bringing withdrawals thus far for this account to $37,500,000. India's portion of $3,300,000 reflecting the high premium on the rupee and the country's heavy surplus of exports, was divided among the Canadian Bank of Commerce $1,700,000; International Banking Corporation $460,000, and the Seaboard National Bank and the French-American Banking Corporation $560,000 each.

CRUDE RUBBER MARKET

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

NEW YORK, Jan. 28.—On the strength of an improved statistical position and on account of the favorable tone created by a boost in the London market, crude rubber shipped slightly from its protracted closing today and advanced an average of ½ cent in this, the last week of the quarter. London is maintaining what seems a dangerously high scale price ½ the basis of the Stevenson Act to again to be put into effect. London closed at 21¾ pence.

JAPAN HAS HIGH YEAR IN IMPORTS

Largest Unfavorable Trade Balance in History Recorded by Nippon

A new high level for imports and the largest unfavorable trade balance ever recorded were the outstanding features of the 1924 foreign trade of Japan, according to a cable to the Department of Commerce from Acting Commercial Attache Rhea in Tokio.

Exports during the year totaled 1,806,815,000 yen, an increase of 257,785,000 yen, compared with 1923, but substantially smaller than the peak years of 1918, 1919 and 1920. On the other hand, imports, which during the year were valued at 2,448,533,000, were more than 118,000,000 greater than the previous record established in 1920. The excess of imports, amounting to 644,084,000 yen, was nearly 190,000,000 greater than in 1923, and more than double the 1913 figure.

However, the continued decline in Japanese exchange during 1924 considerably exaggerates the adverse character of last year's trade and makes comparison with previous years very misleading. During 1924 the New York buying rate for telegraphic transfers ranged from a high of $.4410 on January 15, to a low of $.3794 on October 10. The average for the year being $.4119, against a par of $.4985, and an average for 1923 of $.4856. For this reason the trade for the last two years has been converted to dollars on the above basis in order to make comparison possible.

This revised valuation shows imports of $767,272,000, and exports of $1,009,762,000 during 1924. In comparison with 1923, exports increased only $41,714,000, while the gain in imports amounted to only $27,821,000. It is apparent, therefore, that the comparative increases were very much smaller than indicated by the yen valuation.

On the whole the commodity trade was fairly satisfactory. All of the most important export commodities recorded fair gains, the largest relative increase being silk textiles. The only unfavorable results were the small declines in shipments of knitted goods and potteries, which are relatively unimportant. Although there were substantial gains in many import commodities, the increase was not excessive in view of the abnormal demand arising for reconstruction and replacement in the devastated area. Since this emergency demand has now been met it is possible that the present year will witness the removal of the heavy disparity between exports and imports that has been the most discouraging feature of Japan's trade during the past six years.

FIVE TAKEN IN RAID; GAMBLING CHARGED

Raiding a house at 6234 Sunset Boulevard early yesterday morning, a squad of police officers under Sergt. McHale of the Hollywood division, arrested five men on charges of gambling and lodged them in the police jail. All were released later on bail. They gave their names as George Drollett, 25 years of age; Edward Connors, 27; Nate Miller, 27; Paul Shelling, 45, and A. E. Clark, 38. According to McHale, the men were engaged in a craps game when the police entered the house.

LOS ANGELES MARKET

CATTLE: Today's estimated run was late in arriving and the moderate holdover, estimated around 600, consisting mostly of common and medium steers and she stock, met very slow trade and only a partial clearance was effected at a late hour. Prices generally held around the steady mark. Two cars of medium 1045 to 1130-pound southern steers cleared for 7.25, while a load of 961-pound averages with the same shipment realized 7.35. Common steers turned heavily from 6.00 to 6.50. Several lots of common and medium she stock cleared from 5.00 to 6.00, a sizable string of 926 to 1020-pound northern steers going over for feeder purposes at the latter price.

Fat cows turned largely from 3.75 to 4.25. However, small lots were numerous around 4.50, while odd head of choice kinds sold upward to 4.75. Canners and cutters held about steady, the bulk going over from 2.50 to 3.25. Bulls were scarce and relied firm, the bulk of bologna changing from 3.75 to 4.25.

CALVES: Today's moderate run was late in arriving. However, demand was narrow and only a small portion had turned at a late hour. Prices generally were weak to 50 cents lower. Most sales sold evenly upward from 6.50, while nondescripts cleared largely from 7.00 to 8.00. Weighty calves and very common kinds went over mostly from 5.00 to 6.50.

HOGS: Approximately 1000 hogs were offered on today's market. Of these, about 300 were held over from yesterday. Fair demand existed for handers and packers were bidding around steady prices. However, salesmen were holding for a 25-cent advance, or 12.00 for the best handers, but no sales of these had been made at a late hour. The few sales of less desirable handers were made on a strong to 25-cent higher basis. A load of 181-pound eastern grain fats realized 11.75, while light lights and downward to 11.00. Packing sows held about steady, the bulk going over for 9.50. The few stags on hand drade 7.00.

SHEEP: The two decks of lambs offered sold readily at fully steady prices. Three were good and choice 89-pound lights and cleared for 14.00 without a sort.

DAILY MARKET LETTER OF THE NEW YORK COMMERCIAL

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

NEW YORK, Jan. 28.—With a better call for dried fruits emanating from retail outlets, the spot market here is being gradually bolstered to the point where it shows signs of meeting the strength of the replacement market. Spot tradings continue on the firm price basis of the previous day, with offers rather free by factors, who had made early coverance at prices which make present levels good property lines.

California prune prices, while practically unchanged, are showing tendencies toward higher spot levels. The demand continued even with Coast advices stating that the absorption of Oregon stocks would influence later quotations. Peaches and apricots are firmly held and buyers found it difficult to unearth any blocks of important size. Raisins continue unexciting except in bleached Thompsons, which are very scarce and are moving almost entirely through resellers.

CANNED FOODS

Activity in the canned-food market has been checked somewhat by the absence of a large number of important buyers and, while trades are being made in good number, there is a general tendency to hold off for the week until the net results of the Cincinnati meeting are determined. The coming month will, it is expected, show a much wider source of buying. All lines of salmon were steady, with no exceptional call noted in any quarter. Sardines are steady. California lines are well taken, with holders firm. White meat tuna holds the strength, evidenced at the close of last week, and buyers are making strong efforts to unearth stocks.

SUGAR ACTIVE

The entire sugar market was active with more sales reported than on any other day this year. It was announced that late Tuesday, 10,000 bags, Cubas for February-March shipment, sold to Gulf refiners at 2 13-16 cost and freight. Today there were several sales at the same basis. Biondo bought 10,000 bags for early February shipment; 5000 prompt Cubas sold to an operator; McCahn was reported to have bought about 35,000 bags Porto Rico for second half February shipment at 4.59 or 2 13-16 cents on the Cuban basis.

American and Federal Refiners are said to be accepting business at 6, and it is supposed that other refiners are meeting the competition.

Raw futures hardened following the strengthening of actual raws. Opening prices were 2 to 3 points higher and gains were maintained. A report that the Cuban crop would be about 350,000 tons lower than the first estimate, had a bullish influence and closing prices were 4 points advanced for September, 5 points for December and 9 points for other months. Closing prices were February 2.80; March, 2.84; May, 2.97; June, 3.04; July, 3.13; August, 3.18; September 3.25, and December 3.34.

COFFEE AND TEA

Coffee prices on the exchange did not follow the lead of higher prices in the Brazilian markets. Rio and Santos opened at an advance, but pressing firm offers indicated a strong desire on the part of Brazilian interests to sell, and the local market was nervous. Opening prices here were 4 points higher for the March option and 10 to 12 points lower for the other months.

A small amount of liquidation, brought out by Brazil's evident desire to sell, unsettled the market and shortly afternoon prices were irregular. Late cables from the primary markets that prices had not held all the opening gains had no noticeable effect and closing prices here were 5 points lower to 10 points higher than yesterday's close. Quotations were: March, 20.40; May, 19.05; June, 18.32; July 18.04; September, 17.10; December, 16.52. Spots were quiet with Santos 4s at 27 7-8 to 28 1-4 and Rio 7s at 23.

Cable communications from Colombo report the tea market there continues strong for all good teas, with medium grades steady and in good demand. Less desirable grades are neglected. Java reports indicate continued firm prices, with no indingation to shade, and some business has been done with New York houses at the prevailing level. London market reports show that market for Indian teas irregular, but higher. The local market is quiet, but there are no concessions, all sellers holding firm and no large sales having been reported.

Latest advices from the rice market of the South indicate unchanged strong positions. Oriental conditions are stronger, with slight advances in prices. The surplus from the large crop in Burma probably will be taken by India and Japan, which countries have small crops and will be buyers again this year.

Pea beans are easier and quoted extreme. Red and white kidneys are quiet but retain the firmness noted last week. Limas are so firm that sellers decline other than bids which reach top quotations.

EGGS AND BUTTER

Receipts of eggs were 12,787 cases, which included 5067 cases rushed here by express in order to secure prevailing high prices. The situation is unchanged. The weather was too cold to encourage business. Call sales were 50 cases April seconds at 46 cents; 25 cases fresh firsts 55 cents; 25 at 50 cents and 50 cases April seconds at 46½ cents.

Despite small arrivals the tone of the butter market was easier than the preceding day. There seems to be entire lack of speculative support and most buyers are simply operating in a hand-to-mouth manner. Call sales were only 50 tubs extra fresh creamery at 38 cents.

COPPER SHAKY

Owing to the dullness of the copper market all efforts to get the price of electrolytic delivered above 14 7-8 cents have proved fruitless. The red metal is available at this level through April and weak at that. It would not be surprising should a lower price develop. London cables standard as declining 7s 6d to £65 for spot, and £66 for futures, while electrolytic registered a drop of 10s with spot closing at £69 10s, and futures at £70.

There was another drop in London lead and in the domestic market independents cut their prices to below those of the leading interests. The lead market is now quotable at from 9 3-4 to 10 cents, New York, and 9.65 to 9 5-8 cents a pound, St. Louis. London cables spot as declining 10s to £39 5s, and futures, 5s to £37 15s.

Zinc is firm and unchanged at 7.45, St. Louis, and 8 cents a pound, New York. In London considerable activity came to the surface, which caused spot to advance 2s 6d to £27 7s 6d, but futures were unchanged at £26 12s 6d.

Tin rallied today, Straits here showing a gain of 1-4 cents. Early estimates of an increase in the world's visible tin for January have been reversed and a decrease of 1500 tons for the month is now predicted. In the domestic market, the earlier deliveries and positions of Straits closed at 57 3-4 cents a pound, while the later months commanded a premium of 1-4 cent. London cables standard spot as declining £1 2s 6d to £262 12s 6d, but futures advanced £1 15s to £266 15s, and Straits rose £1 17s 6d to £266 17s 6d. Straits in Singapore dropped £3 5s, closing at £266 5s, c.i.f., London.

GASOLINE ADVANCES

The Standard Company of Kentucky advanced the tank wagon and filling-station prices of gasoline 2 cents a gallon in Alabama, Georgia, Florida and Mississippi and 1 cent in Kentucky. The Gulf Refining Company has raised prices in all points in Texas to a par with those just announced by the Magnolia company. Advices from Philadelphia state that the Atlantic Refining Company has advanced gasoline 1 cent, bringing the quotation at service stations up to 20 cents, plus 2 cents State tax, and the Gulf Oil Corporation and the Trans-Continental Oil Company followed suit. This is the second advance since last Friday. The Standard Oil of New Jersey has advanced the price of Diesel oil 40 cents to $2.70 a barrel, f.o.b. New York Harbor refineries. Bunker oil is still unchanged at $1.90 a barrel, refinery.

Increased activity and higher prices in the Liberty group featured the trading in the bond section of the stock exchange. The 4 1-4s were the active members of the group, but Treasury 4 1-4s were also active and higher, recovering to the 105 level for the first time in the present movement. Oil convertibles featured the industrial group, the demand reflecting the stronger tone shown by oil stocks. The rails were quiet and firm, but there were some exceptions to the rule. St. Paul issues were under pressure for a time and some of the high-grade rails made moderate advances.

Pelican Found Not Guilty of Trout Raiding

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE]

WASHINGTON, Jan. 28.—Pelicans at Anaho Island, Pyramid Lake, Nev., accused by fishermen of raiding trout strongholds in the region, have been acquitted by the Biological Survey, Department of Agriculture.

Investigators who studied the pelican's habits for three months reported they did not eat trout, living mainly on coarse fish not used as food by man.

Only two trout were found in food of the bird colony, investigators said, and these had been picked up dead. The pelican is not a diving bird, they said, and consequently does not disturb deep-lying trout.

"Well" "Well"
"Well"

"Numbers 1-3 & 9"

No. 1—at Athens on the Hill is out of its fishing job and should go on production in about two weeks now, and we expect a pippin there.

No. 9—of my 6-9 Syndicate in the Rosecrans field, looks like the berries too, the Brockley well of the Associated Oil Company having come in a few days ago, making they say around 1400 barrels of 39 gravity oil from the top sand. No. 9 should only have to go a couple of hundred feet deeper to pick up the grease.

No. 3—on our ten-thousand acre tract in Colorado is showing mighty good and nearing the point where we expect to tip in one of those babies that will make 'em all sit up and look at their hole card. The weather has been H—— up there and we are the only Company that hasn't shut down operations waiting for Spring.

By the way, we have a "SLEEPER" in the Northern part of the State in some big acreage that might give our shareholders a real thrill in a very short time now.

Now about this stock that many of our shareholders hold and have failed to bring in for escrow, here's the situation.

Up to date I figure we have approximately three-quarters of our issue already in a vault in the Bank of America, but what is outstanding is giving me plenty of concern, because to accomplish my purpose, I've just got to have it all in.

Now Folks, when I started this plan of getting our outstanding stock back in again, all the wise "Gazables" said it couldn't be done, but I didn't believe them, and I don't believe them, and I base my contention on the fact that anyone that purchased "JULIAN PETE" must have believed in my ability to bring home the cake or they wouldn't have bought it, and if they ever believed in me they should still believe in me now, because I've weathered many gales that rocked the boat plenty, but I'm all set to steer her into port under flying colors if every shareholder will co-operate with me on this stock plan.

Whether you purchased your stock from me, from a Broker, or on the open market makes no difference, I want you to escrow it with me for awhile and when I turn it back to you, I'll promise it will be worth plenty more than it is today.

You don't have to endorse your certificates or lose title to them, because I don't hypothecate it or use it for any purpose in the world but to get it off the market for long enough for us to get the Company on a sound dividend paying basis, and when I return it to you, then let them try and knock it down.

You don't have to run up to our office with it, merely stick it in an envelope, address it to me, I will mail you a receipt for it and watch me make you some money in a hurry, but one thing bear in mind, I've got to have it in to accomplish the things I've promised to accomplish for you, and if you'll act quickly I'll make my part snappy too.

RUBENS SUIT FOR DIVORCE SUCCESSFUL

The story of some of the high points of her life, from marriage to separation in five months, was related yesterday by Alma Rubens, motion-picture actress, to Judge Gates, who capped the recital by giving the actress an interlocutory decree of divorce when her husband, Dr. Daniel Carson Goodman, head of Cosmopolitan Productions, let the case go by default.

Marriage in Greenwich, Ct., in August, 1923, a honeymoon under ideal conditions at Scroon Lake, but which was said to have been interrupted by a sudden blow in the bride's face, further blows a little later at the Plaza Hotel in New York, a Christmas morning argument about going to church which resulted in her being on the receiving end of blows again, and trouble at her Hollywood home, figured in Miss Ruben's story on the stand of her married life with Dr. Goodman.

After the asserted blow at Scroon Lake, she called in a physician, although her husband is a doctor himself, Miss Rubens testified.

She said her husband used abusive language toward her at the Plaza Hotel a little later. When requested by the court to repeat the exact words of Dr. Goodman, Miss Rubens demurred, but consented to the suggestion of her attorney, Richard Kirrelie, that she whisper it to the court reporter, who might then read it to the judge.

The actress said she and her husband were riding in their automobile on Riverside Drive, New York, on Christmas morning, 1923, when they engaged in an argument about going to church. She got a blow out of this, she said, in the presence of several strangers.

Mrs. Teresa Rubens, mother of the star, testified she was present at the Plaza Hotel when Dr. Goodman struck her daughter. She was again present in Miss Rubens's home at 1624 El Cerrito Place, Hollywood, when a blow was struck, she stated.

"He pulled her hair and slapped her. I asked him to get out of the house because he wasn't supporting her or paying for the house, anyway," Mrs. Rubens said.

The actress did not ask for alimony or for any of her husband's property.

Following the conclusion of the trial, which was rushed through, Miss Rubens consented to an interview.

"Yes, I still have faith in marriage; it can be a wonderful thing if two people only get along," she said.

Dr. Goodman was represented by Attorney R. D. Knickerbocker.

Gloria Swanson Contrajo Matrimonio Con un Marqués

PARIS, enero 28.—La conocida actriz del arte cinematográfico, Gloria Swanson, contrajo ayer matrimonio con el Marqués James Henri de la Falaise, un aristócrata francés, de 27 años de edad, sobrino de Jean Hennessey, rico fabricante del cognac que lleva su nombre.

Gloria Swanson tiene ahora 27 años, segun expresa su pasaporte; está contratada para filmar "Madame Sans-Gene", de cuya producción se hacen las últimas escenas que han de tomarse en Paris, por haber decidido la casa productora que los actores regresen a América.

El esposo de Gloria Swanson, a pesar de ser de elevada alcurnia, no tiene fortuna.

La hoy maquesa de la Falaise y de la Coudray, ha declarado que no tiene tiempo para celebrar su luna de miel, por tener que trabajar de prisa en las escenas que faltan de la obra, y que se reserva a hacer su viaje de bodas el 11 de febrero, fecha fijada para su regreso a los Estados Unidos, en compañía de su esposo, por supesto.

Inspección Sanitaria del Puerto de Los Angeles

El Dr. Hugh S. Cumming, Cirujano General del Departmento de Salubridad Pública de los Estados Unidos, llegó a esta ciudad ayer, e inmediatamente dió principio a la tarea de inspeccionar los trabajos de exterminio de ratas que se llevan a cabo por las autoridades sanitarias del Estado, del Condado y de la Ciudad, desde que se desarrolló la epidemia neumónica en una parte del barrio mexicano, en esta población. El Dr. Cummin se aloja en el Hotel Biltmore, y se manifiesta muy satisfecho de la rapidez con que se logró dar fin a la referida epidemia.

El Cirujano General hace un viaje de inspección a todos los puertos marítimos del Sur y del Oeste; en su viaje ha inspeccionado los puertos de Nueva Orelans y de San Francisco, antes de venir a esta. Informa que aun existe una plaga de ratas en Nueva Orleans y en Oakland, pero que se procede con toda actividad a su exterminio. Hoy tenía pensado hacer una minuciosa inspección del puerto de Los Angeles.

Al examinar en detalle las condiciones que guarda el puerto, dedicará atención preferente a su acondicionamiento para las cuarentenas; pero anticipa la opinión de que, dado la importancia del puerto, requiere obras adecuadas para recibir a los inmigrantes en una buena estación de cuarentena, y asegura que ejercerá toda su influencia para obtener que se apruebe un gasto para este efecto.

QUICK BENEFITS FROM INTERNAL BATHS

Internal Bathing with Dr. Charles A. Tyrrell's famous appliance—the J. B. L. Cascade — brings improved health quickly. The very next morning you will feel much better. Your eye will hve a new sparkle. You will feel invigorated. Thus does Internal Bathing with the Cascade work its magic marvels.

Internal Bathing cleanses the intestinal tract of its poisons and impurities. It is these poisons that make us sluggish, easily fatigued, depressed and colorless. They contaminate the rich red blood. They weaken tissues and nerves. They speed old age. And, unfortunately, the bodies of nine out of ten of us hold these poisons.

Internal Bathing not only cleanses immediately but it strengthens the intestinal muscles and induces healthful regularity. How effective it is—what it accomplishes—is fully described in a wonderful booklet "Why We Should Bathe Internally." This booklet is FREE. You can get it today by just stopping in at the druggist named below and asking for it.

FARMERS DENY SOVIET CREDIT

Workers Demand Cash for Grain; May Anticipate Revolution

[BY CABLE—EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

MOSCOW, Jan. 28.—The rise in the price of bread which is scattering the seeds of revolution in soviet Russia is due to the small farmers who refuse to sell grain and flax to the soviets on credit. They have two years' crops stored away.

Government warehouses are empty and bread prices have begun an upward climb, which has been a blow to the worker in the cities and towns. The nationalizing of the holdings of the farmers has been suggested as a remedy.

SICK WOMEN ATTENTION!

Read this Remarkable Testimony Regarding Results from Taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

Norfolk, Virginia. — "If you only knew how many women and girls have taken your medicine by hearing my testimony, it would seem wonderful to you. Every day and every chance I have I advise some one to try it. It was in June, 1904, when I had given up ever getting well, that I wrote to you. My husband went to the drug-store and brought the Vegetable Compound home to me. In a few days I began to improve and I have often taken it since. I am now passing through the Change of Life and still stick by it and am enjoying wonderful health. When I first started with your medicines I was a mere shadow. My health seemed to be gone. The last doctor I had said he would give me no more local treatments unless I went to the hospital and was operated on. That was when I gave the doctors up. Now I am a healthy robust woman. I wish I could tell the world what a wonderful medicine Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound is." — Mrs. J. A. JONES, 317 Colley Avenue, Norfolk, Virginia.

CURED HIS RUPTURE

I was badly ruptured while lifting a trunk several years ago. Doctors said my only hope of cure was an operation. Trusses did me no good. Finally I got hold of something that quickly and completely cured me. Years have passed and the rupture has never returned, although I am doing hard work as a carpenter. There was no operation, no lost time, no trouble. I have nothing to sell, but will give full information about how you may find a complete cure without operation. If you write to me, Eugene M. Pullen, Carpenter, 4000 Marcellus Avenue, Manasquana, N. J. Better cut out this notice and show it to any others who are ruptured—you may save a life or at least stop the misery of rupture and the worry and danger of an operation.—[Advertisement.

EPISCOPALIANS POINT ADVANCE

Bishop Johnson Gives His Convention Sermon

Sees Migration to Southland for Generations

New Churches and Parishes Listed by Coadjutor

Calling attention to the general advancement of Episcopalian churches in the Southland during the last year and pleading for cultivation of a broader spirit of Christian fellowship, "which shall include love for and service to peoples of all races and religions," Rt. Rev. Joseph H. Johnson, Bishop of the local diocese, and Dr. W. B. Stevens, coadjutor bishop, preached their annual sermons yesterday to the 500 delegates attending the Episcopal convention at St. Paul's Cathedral.

Bishop Johnson began his address with tributes to the memory of three priests of the diocese, Drs. Sidney H. Woodford, Dr. W. B. Burrows and Dr. Frank Roulenbush.

CHURCH SHOWS GROWTH

"We have been making a creditable amount of history in California during the last thirty years," Bishop Johnson said. "Our diocese, numerically considered, is one of the most important in America. Naturally, this should be so since the development of California's population and commercial interests have been far greater than the population and commercial interests elsewhere. The law of general averages and the general average of climatic conditions create a situation which justifies our assumption as to the future. I believe that for generations to come great hosts will continue to come to California and that the lure to the fruitful fields of this State will not be easily withstood.

"From the East, the North and the South there will come to us a vast population with which the church must be prepared to deal, a population, which, tested by the past, will be sturdy, strong, self-supporting and always ready to meet any demand which the church and the State may make upon it. As a matter of fact, all elements that combine to build up a splendid society of men and women have been operative in this Southland for half a century. The opportunities to mould that society into a still more splendid form has never been larger than it is today. It is gratifying to remember that within the last decade more than fifty church buildings and church houses have been constructed by our devoted and enterprising people."

"Need for Christian fellowship in the individual congregation, in the community and among Christians generally," Dr. Stevens said, "is great, and the lack of it is retarding the progress of the kingdom. This matter is of great concern to us in Southern California. Our natural development is extensive in character rather than intensive. With the pressing problems of church extension confronting us, we are likely to neglect the important task of binding our people together.

"I am glad to announce that St. Andrew's Church has relinquished missionary aid and has applied for admission as a parish. With its fine new group of buildings and its strategic location, its future is unusually bright. The Mission of the Good Shepherd, which has been given independence by St. John's Church, will go immediately on a self-supporting basis. The Mission of St. Mary of the Angels and St. Jude's at Burbank has voluntarily reduced this missionary appropriations.

"The last year has seen the completion of their cathedral, St. John's Church, All Saints' Church, the Church of the Redeemer and St. Barnabas' Church."

TODAY'S PROGRAM

The convention program today will include Holy Communion at 7:30 a.m. and prayer service at 9 a.m., followed by a business meeting. The convention dinner, which will be in the nature of a reception to Bishop and Mrs. Johnson and Dr. and Mrs. Stevens, will be given at 6:30 p.m. today at St. John's Parish Hall, 514 West Adams street.

The program for tomorrow will be as follows: meeting of the Daughters of the King, 9:30 a.m. and 2 p.m.; meeting of the Girls' Friendly Society, 2 p.m.; joint supper of the G.F.S. and the Y.P.F. in the Cathedral House, 6 p.m.; business meeting of the Y.P.F. and the G.F.S., 8 p.m.

TYPHOID LIKE INCOME TAXES

Is a Rich Man's Disease in the East, Says Surgeon-General.

The typhoid fever epidemic in the East is a "rich man's disease," according to Dr. Hugh S. Cumming, Surgeon-General, United States Public Health Service, who arrived here yesterday.

Why the wealthy classes are catching the dread fever is not clear, Dr. Cumming says, but the fact is that it is confined largely to the finer residential districts of Chicago, New York and the other cities that are more or less affected.

Oysters have been blamed for the epidemic, with the result that the eastern oyster industry has been paralyzed, and this might account for the prevalence of the disease among the wealthy, who are apt to eat 'em raw as the first course of dinner. But Dr. Cumming says he is not at all convinced that the gentle oyster is at fault.

"I have had six men on it," says Dr. Cumming, "and it is still something of a puzzle. One explanation is that the wealthy people are more apt to travel around and eat in out-of-the-way places, and thus are more exposed to getting bad food."

were making an individual average of about 300 barrels per day.

According to geologists who are familiar with the field, it has at least three producing zones. The first, which was drilled upward of twenty years ago, lies between 1400 and 2600 feet. The second lies between 3000 and 3500 feet. The new one, into which the operating companies have each drilled new wells within the last two years, extends from about 4000 feet to a point well beyond 5100 feet. It is thought that in certain parts of the field the drill might still be in a productive zone at 6500 feet.

The Ventura field, in December, produced 143,143 barrels of crude. Of this the Associated got 96,151 barrels, the Shell got 45,259 barrels, and the General Petroleum got 41,805 barrels.

HARBOR HEALTH SURVEY

United States and California Sanitation Officials to Inspect Quarantine Facilities

Dr. Hugh S. Cumming, Surgeon-General of the United States Public Health Service, arrived here yesterday and at once began an inspection, which will continue through today, of the rat-extermination work which was undertaken by the State, county and city health officers following the recent outbreak of pneumonic plague in a part of Mexican quarter here. Dr. Cumming, who is stopping at the Biltmore, expressed gratification at the promptness with which the disease was completely stamped out.

The Surgeon-General is on a tour of inspection of important maritime ports in the South and West. On his way he stopped at New Orleans and he inspected San Francisco Harbor before he came here. He reports that some rat plague exists at New Orleans and at Oakland, at which ports the United States Public Health Service is conducting extermination work. Dr. Cumming naturally is interested in the work being done at Los Angeles, and he will inspect the harbor today.

Incidentally, Dr. Cumming will look into the quarantine facilities at the local harbor. He already is convinced, he says, that Los Angeles Harbor needs a new and adequate quarantine station for the reception of immigrants, and he hints that he will do all in his power to urge a proper appropriation for its construction.

The Surgeon-General is accompanied by Dr. George McCoy, director of laboratory research of the United States Health Service, and he was accompanied South by Dr. George Ebright, president of the California State Board of Health. They made a tour of inspection yesterday, visiting the State rat laboratory at 1015 East Eighth street and covering all of the area in which the rat-extermination work is being done, including that part of the Mexican quarter where the epidemic occurred. On this trip were Dr. Walter M. Dickie, secretary, State Board of Health; Dr. George Parrish, City Health Commissioner; Dr. J. L. Pomeroy, County Health Officer; Harold A. Young, chief sanitary officer of the county, and Dr. George P. Clements of the Chamber of Commerce.

The trip to the harbor will be made this morning under auspices of the Chamber of Commerce and the State Department of Health. The Chamber of Commerce will give Dr. Cumming and Dr. McCoy a dinner tonight.

Woman's Arrest Without Cause Asserted in Suit

Charging two deputy constables of Compton with arresting her without cause or court process and forcing her to ride to Compton in the town "dog wagon," Marguerite Dillon, a business woman of 1440 Alameda street, Paloma, yesterday brought suit in Superior Court for $11,500 damages against Walter M. Raselle, Edward Hawkins and Richard Reuce.

Raselle, who is constable of Compton Township, was made co-defendant as it was asserted he was legally responsible for the actions of his subordinates, Hawkins and Reuce, who were asserted to have made the arrest charged in the complaint.

ASKS CITY WATER SUPPLY

Residents of the Hyde Park district will be supplied with city water hereafter if an application for transfer of the Inglewood Water Company system in the territory to the city is granted by the State Railroad Commission. A joint application was filed yesterday with the commission. The water company asks permission to abandon service in the area and sell its water pipes and mains to the city for $7500.00.

SOUTHERN, ON STAND, WEEPS

"'You have the pictures. I can't deny it.'"

Then came their separation, he said. He asked her to come back. She refused. She was having "too good a time."

"She liked to get drunk. She wanted to go to South America with Mack. She would return and settle down later."

"I love that girl more than anybody in the world no matter what she has done," he continued.

As his recitation continued Southern seemed more and more shaken. He entered the recitation of his jealousy and determination to do something, sobbing intermittently, with his wife crying quietly as she watched him.

ADMITS PRISON RECORD

He said he entered Mack's office with the intention of "tearing the latter" to pieces. He did not intend to shoot, however, until the moment he opened the door of the office and saw Mack and his wife close together, apparently in an embrace. He didn't remember shooting, he said.

Under a withering cross-fire of questions by Dep. Dist.-Attys. Costello and Davis, however, Southern admitted that he had served an unrelated months' term in prison at South Dakota in connection with an attempted attack on a school-teacher. He denied, however, that he had ever been a bootlegger. He added that he supported his wife about one year of the four they were married and that she was 18 and he 26 at the time she became his bride four years ago.

Then Mrs. Southern, the cause of the murder, took the stand. She painted her husband as a wife beater. It was a beating which he gave her which caused her to leave him, she testified. She also broke down and cried on the stand. Assistant Captain of Detectives Bean and Patrolman Thompson testified to the effect that Southern, at the time of his arrest, told them he went to Mack's office with the sole intention of killing the latter.

York City. Central agencies in America now generate 20,000,000 horsepower and a horsepower roughly does the work of ten men. In forty-two years electricity has advanced to the point where it is doing the work of 200,000,000 men or ten times our working population.

"I am convinced that within the next forty years we will see extensive aerial navigation and Los Angeles, no doubt, will have a force of airplanes and dirigibles. We are progress. Radio will make in forty years no one can imagine, but we may expect startling developments.

"One of our Edison Company engineers not long ago made some studies which showed that the development work on which the company is now engaged will provide enough electric energy for a population of 6,000,000 people. We are going ahead with that development as we are not expanding our territory to take in other States. We have faith that the territory in Southern California and San Joaquin Valley will some of these days house a population of 6,000,000 people and we are backing our faith by performance. What Chicago is today in size and commercial importance Los Angeles will be in the very near future."

Concluding, Mr. Ballard said that our government was founded "to establish justice, insure domestic tranquility, provide for the common defense, promote the general welfare and secure the blessings of liberty to ourselves and our posterity."

Other speakers included A. G. Arnoll, secretary of the Chamber of Commerce, and Harry Lamport, retiring president of the Junior chamber. The retiring president expressed gratitude for the co-operation of members during the past year and pledged his support to the incoming officers.

Woman Offers Son as Hostage for Boy in Jail

"My boy is sick. If you keep him in jail he will die. Let me send up one of my strong boys to take his place. Please let me take Gabriel home to nurse him well again!" pleaded Mrs. Nicholas Carrillo for her son Gabriel, 13 years of age, who has been in jail about two months on a charge of automobile stealing.

For weeks the boy's mother and young wife have besought Deputy Public Defender Benedict to release Gabriel out, according to Benedict, he has been unable to make them understand the law must take its course. Anyway, he says Gabriel will be well taken care of if he gets sick in jail.

Today Gabriel will appear in Department No. 7 of Superior Court to enter his plea and no hostage can take his place.

railroad system," declared Mr. Gray. "Instead of hundreds of roads, each running independent of every other and often at cross-purposes, the railroads now are united on a co-operative basis. The result has been seen during the last two years, in the smooth operation of the transportation system."

NO CAR SHORTAGE

The railroad head said that during 1923, when the volume of freight traffic broke all previous records, there was never an instance of congestion or shortage of cars in any section of the country. He attributed the improvement in the transportation situation largely to the work of the American Railway Association, which was organized to equalize traffic throughout the country.

Mr. Thorpe's subject was "There Ought To Be a Law," expressing an idea which he suggested seems to be uppermost in the minds of the American people and which he holds responsible for the endless enactment of laws and regulatory measures which are proving a detriment to business. He stated that in 1924 some 22,000 bills were introduced in Congress and various legislatures, all of them having something to do with government and business.

TOO MANY LAWS

The editor pointed out how the number of legal restrictions has compelled business men, in many instances, to pay more attention to the laws governing their activities than to matters of vital importance in carrying on their business.

"You can imagine the slowing down of legitimate business promotion in the effort to keep track of the thousand and one ever-changing rules of the game," he said.

He concluded his address by suggesting the formation of a new organization, without constitution, by-laws or dues, to be known as the "Repeal-a-Law-a-Day Society."

ment of the valley and business to support the valley towns.

"The board's action today is the result of a number of conferences attended by members of the Public Service Commission, Mayor Cryer's special Owens Valley committee and committees of Owens Valley ranchers.

"Some two weeks ago a committee of ranchers from the Bishop Creek Ditch Company visited Los Angeles and held a number of conferences with representative citizens. The announced purpose of this committee was to establish a more amicable relation between the city of Los Angeles and Owens Valley ranchers, and thus pave the way for a settlement of the questions that have arisen between the city and the valley. The committee's visit proved highly successful.

PURCHASE IS DISCUSSED

"Last week this same committee, accompanied by a large number of their neighbors, returned to the city and held conferences with our commission and its engineers and Mayor Cryer's advisory committee. At that time the possible purchase by the city of the lands and water rights under the Bishop Creek Ditch Company was fully discussed.

"The Bishop Creek ranchers returned to the valley with a clear and definite understanding of what the city was willing to do in dealing with the Owens Valley ranchers. The committee also carried back with it a message from the Public Service Commission that it would welcome conferences with similar delegations from the other ditch companies in the valley.

"Yesterday a large committee of ranchers from the Owens River Canal Company came to Los Angeles and were given a hearing at a joint meeting of the commission and Mayor Cryer's advisory committee.

"Members of the Owens Valley committee urged that the city pay reparations to the townspeople in Owens Valley on the theory that land purchases previously made in the valley by the city have resulted in damages to the towns and the owners of remaining lands. The board in answering this request stated that it could not consider payment of reparations.

"Following a full discussion of the situation with the Owens River Canal ranchers the board today adopted resolutions in which it declares its willingness to negotiate for and purchase all lands and water rights under the valley ditches taking water from Owens River at prices conforming to those heretofore paid for similar lands in the Bishop region."

HAYS DESERTED BY VITAGRAPH

the labors of the Motion Picture Producers and Distributors of America.

Additional reports circulated last night that the Universal Film Company would be the next in line in withdrawal from the Hays leadership were emphatically denied by Carl Laemmle, president of the company.

"There is no foundation to such a report," Mr. Laemmle said. "We have no intention of withdrawing and are perfectly satisfied where we are."

"This organization has issued much propaganda, favoring clean pictures. Vitagraph has issued only clean pictures and no propaganda. Vitagraph has produced clean, wholesome pictures for twenty-seven years and enters into its twenty-eighth year in February more confident than ever before after the successes of "Captain Blood" by Rafael Sabatini, "The Clean Heart" by A. S. M. Hutchinson, "The Beloved Brute" and others on its 1924-1925 schedule. That clean pictures win is apparent. Vitagraph makes them and makes them for the public—not for its self-owned theaters as Vitagraph owns no theaters and therefore it can give the public what the public wants without any strings tied to it."

Mr. Lewis said that Mr. Smith had no further comment to offer on the withdrawal from the Hays organization.

Vitagraph was formed by the father of John R. Rock, one of the present trio owning the company, in March, 1896, with Mr. Smith and Mr. Blackton. Mr. Smith left for New York three weeks ago and it was believed then that Vitagraph was shaping its path to withdraw from under the Hays regime.

FOUR GUILTY IN SCHWARZ STOCK CASE

Brokers Tried for False Pretense Conspiracy to be Sentenced Monday

A jury in Judge Hardy's court last night returned a verdict of guilty against Barney Schwarz, Harry Weist, Norman Frankfort and Larry Goldner, accused of conspiracy to obtain money under a false pretense. The fifth defendant, Arthur Donlin, was found not guilty. The four will be sentenced Monday. The verdict was returned after six hours' deliberation.

The charges against Schwarz and the others followed numerous complaints of clients that they had been defrauded in trading Standard Oil stock for stock of less value. Schwarz and Weist were brokers, Frankfort and Goldner were salesmen and Donlin was an employee of the firm.

The trial was featured by the disclosure of what was described as an attempt by Amy Wallington, formerly an employee of Schwarz, to influence two of the jurors. A bench warrant was issued for her arrest but she has not been taken into custody. She is said to have approached the jurors with the request to "go easy on the boys, they are good fellows."

KIWANIANS JOIN IN LETTER PLAN

setting down on paper in orderly arrangement their lines of thought.

President R. W. Pridham of the Los Angeles Chamber of Commerce made public yesterday his letter, as follows:

"Dear Sir: I am wondering if you have seen in some of the eastern papers, as we have here, the idiotic statements concerning happenings out in Southern California. If you have, you will be impressed, as I am, that someone either is maliciously trying to injure the reputation of this section or is jealous of its progress.

"I often think that this kind of propaganda gives no consideration to the intelligence of the general public to which it is directed, and that to the average American who reads it, it is self-avident that there is an ulterior motive behind it. The best way anyone can get an idea of Southern California is, of course, to visit it. Those who have not been here can form no conception of what this section is, but to the average man a few simple questions and answers will serve.

SIMPLE QUESTIONS

"Can you eat your Christmas dinner on your lawn? We can.

"Can you bathe in the ocean on New Year's? We can and be comfortable.

"Can you go from ocean and sunny beach where you have bathed to the snows of the high mountains in a few hours? We can.

"Can you earn your living and conduct your business, whatever it may be, at a profit, where every opportunity is open to you to make this profit, because of the tremendous growth of population and resources? In Southern California, you can do this.

"It seems to me that if the answers to these simple questions are the answers to the whole problem—that is, if you can live in Southern California, if you can enjoy all the good things that nature has provided here and work in your profession or conduct your business, be it manufacturing, shipping or retailing, or any other kind of business, in the most rapidly growing community in the world—why not avail yourself of that opportunity?

DOOR OF OPPORTUNITY

"Any person who listens to the rubbish, as he reads it in some of the eastern press, concerning Southern California is merely closing the door of opportunity which may be open to him and to which he has been hoping to look for some time. There can be no other reason in my mind to deprive you and others like you from living in Southern California, because of selfish reasons that they may want you to remain where you are.

"Probably no other city in the world has as many writers in it as Los Angeles, and a good many of them have come here from elsewhere seeking scandal or whatever other unfavorable publicity they can find, and are selling this material to eastern papers at a price. You, of course, will appreciate the kind of information which they give out."

The plane was built by W. D. Waterman and later was rebuilt by Donald Douglas, builder of the around-the-world cruisers that broke all known air records. It was one of several that Mr. Brand keeps in a hangar on his estate north of Glendale.

LAHOMA KHJ OGRAM THEME

Past of State Told Radioland

Trio in Solo and Ensemble Numbers

Entertainment for Little Ones Presented

MARIE FORBES CRANE

Upon President Benjamin Harrison issued a proclamation announcing that certain land purchased from the Creek and Seminole Indians would be opened to white settlement at 12 o'clock noon April 22 of that year. At least no less than 20,000 people assembled on the border when the signal was given and caused a remarkably spectacular race for homes. Little did the home seekers realize that Oklahoma would give birth to a territory of Oklahoma. Neither did Congress dream that when they admitted Oklahoma into the Union on November 16, 1906, they were furnishing material for a radio program.

This, however, came to pass at 7:30 last night when the Pacific Electric Company presented another delightful program, devoted to the State of Oklahoma. The artists selected to interpret the musical series of the occasion were Flora Myers Engel, soprano; Edith Avery, the DeCampo Trio, composed of Douglass Campbell; Joseph Heindl, 'cellist, and Harry Hagen, violinist.

DE CAMPO TRIO HEARD

The program, rich in romance and tuneful lore, offered a splendid opportunity for the broad knowledge of Edith VanDegrift, professor of music in the University of Southern California, and he described his work in a comprehensive and interesting manner.

The De Campo Trio contributed important share of the program with their excellent ensemble numbers.

Flora Myers Engel is always a favorite with her listeners being gifted with an organ that is flexible enough to adapt itself successfully to the concert platform or the more rigid requirements of radiocasting.

CHOICE WINNING PLACE

Edith Melville Avery we found a newcomer to Radioland and a lady who should find a place in the favorites in musical circles.

The conclusion of this program was entertained by the Valencia Trio in a program of the classic works and semiclassics. They combine the attributes of personality and talent.

During the matinee hour, the Pacific Electric Company presented Grace Curry, harpist; Georgia Hood, reader, and Eleanor Leland, dramatic soprano. Below one can find a soprano with a voice whose lower register is strong enough to parallel the contralto range. Miss Woodford is naturally gifted in this possession.

CHILDREN ENTERTAINED

Uncle Walter Sylvester Hertzog drew the curtain on the "Children's Hour" with his absorbing entertainment of American history. Two other adults contributed substantially to the pleasure of youngsters last night—Carol Leland, soprano, in groups of children's songs, and Mrs. Leland, who accompanied by Millicent Hagen House, gave a group of dramatic readings.

Little Nuriel MacCormac looking as sweet as ever, and Micky McGregor as swagger as usual, and other screen juveniles, recited and played with Uncle John in a program that delighted their listeners. Dick Winslow, both screen favorite and reporter, related the story of his interview with Commander Evangeline Booth, who told of her youth in the London slums, when clad in rags and tatters, she traveled poverty-stricken districts to study the needs of the wretched people she was to help.

The conclusion of the children's hour, Roy B. Goodsell delivered the last of a series of talks he has given from KHJ during the month of February touching on interesting questions with special reference to the provisions of the Act of 1924.

The hour introduced the Pacific Athletic Club Orchestra, and so well did Radioland respond to their exceptional variety of syncopation, that our program manager, Miss Myers, arranged to have them heard soon again at KHJ.

Soprano De Mera, soprano, accompanied by Edyth Petesch, offered a group of ballads and was followed by Fred C. McNabb, who displayed his iron of knowledge and pounded out a number of problems concerning many gardeners have fathered.

LABOR BUREAU CHIEF ON INSPECTION VISIT

John Carl White, Second Assistant Secretary of Labor, spent Monday in Los Angeles with Harry R. Carr, district director of immigration. The Washington official personally inspected the work of the local office. He left Wednesday night for San Francisco. He came to Los Angeles from El Paso. Mr. and Mr. Carr conferred with other immigration officials regarding the work of patroling the Mexican border.

MARRIAGE IS REVEALED

Deputy City Attorney Here Takes Bride in San Diego

News of the marriage several weeks ago of Deputy City Attorney Donald M. Keith and Miss Ruth Parkhurst became known yesterday at the City Hall, and congratulations were extended the young attorney.

The marriage took place at San Diego, where the bride's brother, Ensign L. A. Zimmer, U.S.N., is stationed at the naval base. The bride is the daughter of Mrs. Julia E. Parkhurst, and she and her mother have been living here for two years, having come from Rochester, N. Y. The young couple have established their home at 6075 Franklin avenue, Hollywood. Deputy City Attorney Keith is a graduate of the law school of the University of Southern California, and has been a member of the City Attorney's staff for four years.

Dominguez Land Case Up Before Supreme Court

The State Supreme Court yesterday took under advisement the petition of the Dominguez Land Corporation for a writ of mandate to require Commissioner of Corporations Daugherty to accept for filing the company's application for permission to distribute $418,000 surplus capital.

Commissioner Daugherty, on advice of the Attorney-General, refused to accept the company's application on the grounds that the law granting authority to the commissioner to permit capital distribution is unconstitutional. Dep. Atty.-Gen. Harrison argued the case for the State yesterday and James S. Bennett represented the company.

The validity of the law was upheld last year by the Second District Court of Appeal, where a writ against Commissioner Daugherty was issued.

On submission of the case the court adjourned its session here and will return north today. The court is scheduled to convene in Los Angeles again some time in April.

TO DISCUSS PUBLICITY

The value of publicity for legitimate enterprises will be stressed at the annual publicity program of the Los Angeles W.C.T.U. to be conducted at 2 p.m. today at the First Methodist Church. A musical program will be given by A. S. Kellogg and Miss Helen Byrnes, and addresses will be made by Harold V. Mather and Miss Mabel Horton. The public is invited.

WHO LOST AN ANGLEWORM?

Pacific Electric Has Some Among Other Things in Found Department

Edibles, clothing, laundry, bibles, books, cash—even a nice mess of angleworms.

It sounds like a superdepartment store, but it isn't. It is merely a partial list of the things abandoned by forgetful passengers on the cars of the Pacific Electric. These articles, $945 in all, found their way to the company's lost and found department. A good portion of these articles, exclusive of the angleworms, remain in this department.

It all goes to prove, according to officials, that Southern Californians are more than honest. The majority of the articles were found by passengers and turned over to trainmen, though the value of some of these was considerable. Records show that more than 60 per cent of the articles found were returned to their owners.

NEW BANK'S EXPOSITION OPEN TODAY

Dolls as Large as Human Beings to be Included in Hellman Exhibits

Dolls as large as human beings, and dolls that do about all things possible to humans, are among the hundreds of imported articles to be exhibited today, Friday and Saturday at the preopening of the Hellman Bank headquarters in the new Hellman Bank Building, seventh and Spring streets.

The ornate quarters of the bank's main office have been rushed to completion to permit of the installation of all displays in readiness for the opening this morning. Department heads reported all things ready and visitors will be welcomed from 10 a.m. until 9 p.m. for the next three days. The bank will not open for financial transactions until February 2, next.

About seventy-five of the largest importing companies of Los Angeles have prepared exhibits for the event. Displays are of articles imported and not obtainable in the United States. Where raw materials are imported and manufactured here the various processes through which the article passes in finishing will be explained in detail by specialists in charge of the exhibits.

Every modern banking device used anywhere has been procured by the bank for this exhibition and officials of the Hellman Bank will explain details of the work to visitors. There will be no charge for admission and bank officials assert no expense or effort has been spared to make this one of the most comprehensive expositions ever held here. Every section of the world from which Los Angeles draws supplies will be represented.

Investors Have Receiver Named for Oil Concern

On the complaint of unit holders that the trustees of the Keck Oil Syndicate No. 5 were engaged with interests adverse to the concern, Judge L. H. Valentine of the Superior Court yesterday appointed Willard L. Goodwin receiver of the concern, to operate its properties pending litigation for the removal of the trustees.

Paul Kretek, Walter Hennessey and C. E. Bly, Los Angeles business men, were the unit holders who brought the action. They asked for the removal of L. J. Gillespie, F. E. Brittan and W. H. Rimmer, the present trustees, and for an accounting.

The syndicate, according to the complaint, owns assets worth $275,000, and is producing oil and gas from three wells worth $20,000 monthly. The plaintiffs asserted that the trustees had permitted funds and supplies belonging to the syndicate to become mixed up with other properties in which the trustees were interested, with the result that in one case, at least, some of their assets had been attached in proceedings directed against another concern.

It was also charged that the trustees have been attempting to frighten unit holders into transferring their holdings for stock of the Modoc Petroleum Company, in which they are also interested. Receiver Goodwin made bond of $75,000 and went to Long Beach yesterday to take charge of the property. The suit was filed for the plaintiffs by Attorneys Emerson B. De Vore and Newby and Palmer.

A CLEAN TRAIL

Theodore Roosevelt had a very small foot, wearing, it is now said, a number five shoe, but that didn't prevent his making a large footprint in the history of his country.

BUNGALOW ACOUSTICS

The woman who, when asked by a near neighbor "Do you love music?" replied "Yes, but don't mind that, keep right on playing," must have lived in a bungalow apartment with tissue-paper walls.

IS THE CZAR ALIVE?

The Dowager Empress Marie denies stoutly that her son, Czar Nicholas, has been killed by the Bolsheviats and forbids the loyal subjects to recite prayers for his soul. If this is true, it is to be hoped the one-time "Little Father" of Russia, a private citizen at last, is somewhere quietly enjoying himself planting a garden, as he was always said to wish to do when Czar.

MOOT QUESTIONS

Uncle Sam's men picked up nearly 300 ten-gallon cans of pure alcohol that were floating in the ocean around Catalina. What was the matter with the deep-sea fishermen that day or was this haul merely the excess? Or were the hardy souls fishing for cases of Scotch and only scattering the tinned alcohol for bait? What becomes of folk who cast their alcohol upon the waters?

HOARDED WEALTH

Statistics estimate the hoarded wealth of India as having increased $700,000,000 in seventeen years. It has probably been growing at a fair rate for thousands of years, among the few—while the majority starve, go off in epidemics or, at the best, live in ignorance and superstition. "Our own United States" is a pretty good country to live in when you come to think of it seriously.

BOWLING 'EM OVER

The average death rate from accidents in this country now exceeds 700 to each 1,000,000 of population every year. In England it is only about 300. The danger of being killed by accident in Great Britain is half that in America. It may be worth a lot more to live in this country, but if a man is going to be prematurely bumped off, what is there in it for him? This country should be made safer for both the Democrats and Republicans.

FEWER KILLINGS

There is an expected average of nearly ten murders a month in Los Angeles. The grim percentage was maintained during November and December, but there was much encouragement over the circumstance that the first twenty-six days of the new year went by without the overt taking of a human life. There was hope that a whole month might pass without a bloody mark and thus supply a shining new record for our modern city. We should be back in the peace-and-good-will class.

NOT BY BREAD ALONE

Selma Lagerlöf, in her book of reminiscences called "Marbacka," tells of a bookkeeper who was passionately fond of music, but much too poor to provide himself with any musical instrument, so he painted a keyboard on a common deal table at which he sat and "played." If a few people of wealth wished to "acquire merit" by playing fairy god-parents to some of the soul-hungry, who drudge year after year for necessities and never, in their whole lives, even step on the fringe of their heart's desire, what a privileged wealth it would be!

THE WOMAN OF IT

Two of our sovereign States are now running blithely along under the cradle-rocking hands of a couple of capable women. The citizens are not boasting yet of their accomplishments, but the year is young. Wyoming, one of the States referred to, has been awarded a national prize for recording the highest increased percentage of its vote at the last Presidential election. The big vote was not brought out by the woman candidate, but she is one of the beneficiaries. Wyoming was the first State in the Union to give women the franchise and they appear to be now contributing to the fame of the commonwealth.

SUSPENDERS OR BELTS

Here is another possible embroilment for the administration: President Coolidge has indicated a preference for suspenders and night shirts as against belts and pajamas. The foreign policy of the White House may not yet be fully determined, but on home affairs there seems to be a chance for definite alignment. When a statesman is invited to visit the White House he will do well to slip an old-fashioned nightie into his grip and also let it be known that his trousers are sustained by substantial suspenders. Although the executive will not stand for home-brewing, he likes old-fashioned things and he seems disposed to cling to his suspenders as closely as they will cling to him. If this is going to alienate the silk pajama and monogrammed belt vote it cannot be helped. The President will not truckle. There will be no pajama parties while he is holding down the White House.

AN INDUSTRIAL MILESTONE

The twenty-ninth annual banquet of the Merchants' and Manufacturers' Association of Los Angeles meant much more than a change of officers, a well-cooked meal and a few speeches. It marked another milestone on the broad highway of industrial freedom; the close of another year of industrial peace and prosperity under the open shop; the beginning of still another year with a clear industrial sky.

Years ago the business men and manufacturers of this city pledged their faith in the principle of a square deal for both capital and labor, stated their belief that only through free co-operation and individual liberty on both sides could industry be placed upon a sound and stable basis. They met Monday night to reaffirm their faith in that principle and to restate that belief, with the proof before them that both had been justified beyond all expectation.

For, as Irwin H. Rice, retiring president of the association, pointed out in his address, the strongest supporters of the open shop are now to be found in the ranks of labor. The American workingmen of Los Angeles now realize, better than any others can, that labor itself is the greatest sufferer when it permits itself to be made the catspaw of grafting and corrupt leaders; that labor violence hurts labor worse than property and that labor's true prosperity is based on freedom.

"The open shop," said Mr. Rice, "is only a name for freedom of the individual. It cannot be maintained by force. Its banner must be justness, fairness, righteousness and economic soundness.

"In earlier days we could rejoice in the annual telling of battles fought and victories won over organized labor. Today we can rejoice at peaceful progress in virtually all industries, and because we enjoy at last the respect of practically all labor and the outspoken loyalty and co-operation of many thousands of workers who are proud to call themselves 'M-and-M' men.

"It is even known that union men have risen in their own meetings to speak in defense of the M and M against the attacks of radicals."

This attitude on the part of labor must be manifest to any student of conditions in Los Angeles today. Perhaps the most striking demonstration of it was given by Mr. Rice when he pointed out that the American Federation of Labor had raised and spent a propaganda fund of $500,000 in Los Angeles during the past year, without producing a ripple upon the placid surface of our industrial stability and without making an inch of progress.

To the efforts of Mr. Rice himself, who for six years has guided the policies of the Merchants' and Manufacturers' Association, must go no small share of the credit for this remarkable achievement. He has conducted himself with humanity and common sense and he has been met in the same spirit. That the policies which have borne such fine fruit will be continued was the pledge of William W. Mines, the new president, upon assuming office.

"My heart is in this work," said Mr. Mines. "I believe the open shop has done more for Los Angeles than almost any other factor."

He declared that his first efforts will be directed to an expansion of the usefulness of the association's free employment bureau, which last year found places for 40,000 men without cost to them. His declaration was in keeping with the fine spirit of public service Mr. Mines has shown and with which those who know their Los Angeles are well acquainted. He has demonstrated his capacity for leadership and the expression of his intention can be taken at full face value. Both the Merchants' and Manufacturers' Association and Los Angeles are to be congratulated upon his accession.

MR. BRYAN'S ALTRUISM

Mr. Bryan, in a spasm of supreme altruism, has recommended to President Coolidge the cancellation of European war debts. He says that he would exchange "worthless debts for priceless peace." In chasing the shadows of phrase-making Mr. Bryan forsakes the substance of fundamental moral principles.

It is the opinion of The Times that Mr. Bryan is permitting his altruism to carry him so far he will have to walk back. He should read the admonition of Herbert Spencer, "pure altruism leads to inevitable suicide." Or, if Herbert Spencer, the materialist, is not to be found in his spiritual library, he might recall his own father's motto, "Spare the rod and spoil the child." Or, as a constant reader of the Bible, he might turn to Mat. xviii. 26, and meditate on the words "Lord, have patience with me and I will pay Thee all," in relation to the act of France which calls for cancellation of United States debts and stands ready to collect from Germany to the last farthing at the point of the bayonet.

It is not a question of leniency, but of moral principle. Nations, like individuals, should have a moral conscience. Conscience may become blunted when the finer points of honor are abandoned. Of all criminals who die on the electric chair or pine in the deathless grave of the penitentiary it cannot be said of one that he jumped from childhood innocence to the fatal criminal impulse which brought him before the bar of justice. All went through gradual degradation till the final leap of immoral recklessness came to a climax; from pilfering to theft, from theft to burglary and murder; then oblivion.

The loss of moral sense comes by degrees. That France is approaching that stage cannot be ignored if M. Marin's words are an expression of the French people.

The Times, however, refuses to believe that Deputy Marin and the other people temporarily in office in France express the opinion of the great mass of the French people any more than that Mr. Bryan expresses that of the government or the people of the United States. If it were otherwise France would, indeed, be in a bad way.

The Russian upheaval developed in stages. Kerensky was a revolutionist, but not a moral degenerate. Fomentation of bad blood, however, leads to feverish decomposition of the healthier corpuscles until death becomes unavoidable. Lenin and Trotsky injected the deathly virus which finally made Russia abandon all moral responsibility. Its first act was wholesale murder, its second repudiation of its debts, national and international.

Those French repudiationists are following the trail which was blazed by Bolshevism.

Any country which adopts the standard of Bolshevism will ultimately join the ranks of the Bolshevists. France is now in the throes of its worst evolution. Robespierre, Marat and Mirabeau fought for national prejudices, but never allowed themselves to challenge international relations. Herriot, complimenting Marin, flouted international opinion. Loss of respect for public opinion leads to social isolation and ostracism. Loss of national respect for international opinion follows the same route.

France will not be destroyed from without. The danger threatens from within. It is contemplating a flagrant violation on its own moral integrity, which leads to universal mistrust. The United States can afford a loss of $4,000,000,000, but France cannot afford the loss of its integrity as a nation and a people.

Comes now Mr. Bryan, attorney for defendant:

> I believe the time has come when America should decide to trade this worthless debt for a priceless peace. World peace will be worth more than the $12,000,000,000 the world owes us, even if it were collectable. If we were to announce our willingness to cancel the debts in return for world disarmament it would give the world peace. Even failure could not make the situation worse than it is now.

The debt may be worthless (if this opinion flatters France) but a peace among nations based on mistrust is even more so. For the very covenant proclaims that peace will be worth no more than the word of the individual signatories. England has kept its word and we have faith in Great Britain. Italy has acknowledged its liability. Belgium is paying its bills. Their words are their bonds. But the world must consider France's word like that of Bolshevist Russia if France insists on following Russia's lead.

ETHICS IN ARMAMENT

It is impossible to withhold sympathy and understanding from the Navy officials in their contention for naval improvements and enlargements. They are men of highly focused interest, of narrowly restricted vision. If they were otherwise they would not be good naval officers or good Americans. They keep a great and sacred charge and gain no very great reward for their triple devotion of spirit and mind and life. When we say that we are proud of our Navy we mean that we are proud of these men and of the spirit which has come down to them and which they, in turn, preserve and hand down.

There is a conflict between the naval viewpoint and the popular viewpoint which is not common to other enterprises, which is unique and incurable and which is nobody's fault, rather the opposite of a fault. It is regrettable that good men should be forced to work against such odds as naval officials face and will face increasingly as the world grows up. As high as the service of the Navy is, as necessary, as well and unselfishly performed, the still further sacrifice will be required of Navy officers of doing an unpopular thing, as well as a finely, grandly patriotic service. And the more vigorously they oppose the public's attitude the more unselfishly they stick to the ship in the face of changing world opinion on armaments and war-making, the more nobly will they acquit themselves of their high trust. And we should stick to ours.

It is a paradox that the Navy spirit, to be true to the Navy and American traditions, must oppose the popular spirit, a spirit always apathetic and now slightly, growing hostile. It is founded on an uncomfortable, paradoxical, half fact. The situation is a disagreeable cross between the necessity for armaments and armies and navies and an inclination to do away with that necessity. Nevertheless, it is an inclination far nobler than the narrow and mistaken patriotic inclination to war-making. For many generations, perhaps, we must slowly, gradually, carefully prepare for peace, while at the same time staying prepared for war. Navy and Army men must pull us one way, but we must pull the other. We bespeak as much sympathy and understanding on both sides as possible.

President Coolidge is right in enforcing a policy toward naval affairs that keeps the costs and the moral influence of armament aggressiveness down. It is right that the economic factor be introduced in the consideration of this question, because the greatest factor in morality is the price of wrong doing. There is no cynicism in this. The greatest inducement to do right is the reward, many-sided, that comes from so doing. The economic phase of the return for righteousness is down far in the scale ethically, but very high in the scale practically. The finest reward for right doing is a delight in the consciousness of others knowing that we do right.

Wars, warriors and war-causing policies are increasingly unpopular. It is not a joke that war can be outlawed; it is being outlawed. It is being hated out of existence. Love for our fellows is at the same time loving war out of existence. Morality has, in fact, at last become a social force applied to states. To the degree that it can be allowed to operate it should be encouraged.

"THE CAT'S WALK"

Along the keel of the good skyship Shenandoah, 682 feet long from nose to tail, is the runway, only nine inches wide, called "The Cat's Walk" because of the skill required to walk it. All of the officers and men must use this "straight and narrow path" to get to either end of the ship; twelve inches below is a thin cotton cloth covering, giving a certain sense of security, but, alas, the next step would be a long one, about 2000 feet to the ground; and yet, so fearless and expert did the men become on "The Cat's Walk" that they passed each other and, now and then, even stopped to wrestle.

A good many people in this old world find themselves confined to the limits of a "Cat's Walk," one way or another, and some of them even get used to doing stunts on it.

Just About It
by James J. Montague

SUPPRESSIONS

Every child is a bundle of suppressions and inhibitions—a Psychiatrist

The cat's up a tree, where she's likely to stay
While Willie continues his innocent play.
A dignified pussy, she values her ears
Too highly to have them excised with the shears.
In vain with me-yows to implore and beseech,
The one course for her is to keep out of reach.
For Willie wields shears with demoniac zest,
In spite of the fact that his will is suppressed.

The neighbors' blue chow is embarked on the trail
To the wide open spaces, a can on his tail,
Too trusting and friendly of late he had grown,
Which he would not have done if he only had known.
But upon his return from the ends of the earth,
He will give little Willie a rather wide berth,
For Willie is full of original sin,
Though of course he's a child, and it's always held in.

The dear little children, when let loose from school,
Walk wide of our house, as a general rule,
For a fast flying divot or fragment of rock
Is likely to damage a pretty new frock;
And such things have happened quite often before,
When Willie was showing them who won the war.
The boy is remarkably strong on attack—
Though his natural instincts are always kept back.

Poor lad, every impulse that seethes through his soul
Is subject to stern and unflinching control,
The glad tide of youth cannot sweep fast and free,
But must sluggishly flow into life's solemn sea.
The vigor and strength of a young lusty mind,
Alas! must be cabin'd and cribbed and confined,
Which perhaps is as well, for it might play the deuce—
And get Willie in jail if it ever broke loose!

HOW IT STARTED

BY JEAN NEWTON

"To Give a Wide Berth"

The origin of the phrase "to give a wide berth" to some one, meaning to "steer clear" of or to avoid the person, we have in the old meaning of the word "berth" in its nautical sense of space on the sea.

In the parlance of the sailorman "giving her a wide berth" meant keeping a safe distance from possible danger. And the adaptation of the expression in the figurative sense for keeping a safe distance from uncongenial people or disagreeable things, is easily comprehensible.

WORTH

To some there's beauty in a jewel,
In treasures quaint and rare,
In colonnades of fretted gold,
Paintings renowned and fair;
But I would claim such store as this,
A dawn, a tree, a smile,
The living things encompassing
The soul for its brief while.

One sweetly lilted song is worth
Ten thousand writ in tome,
A spoken word can make or mar
The structure we call home;
So, grant to me one friendship true,
The music of a stream,
The world may choose its hoarded dross,
But I will choose a dream.

LETTERS TO The Times

Spank 'Em!

LOS ANGELES, Jan. 24.—[To the Editor of The Times:] The Dorothy Ellingson case at least serves one useful purpose; the woodshed is a better place to learn behavior than jail, and it is to be hoped that our much-neglected custom will come back into favor as a result.

Dorothy states in a published interview that she never has been spanked and unconsciously hits the main reason for her present plight. Those of us who remember the march to the woodshed, the eternal wait while a paddle was selected and the invariable scolding delivered, the business of being partially undressed and laid across the parental knee and finally the unending rain of spanks that made sitting decidedly undesirable for the next hour have looked with amazement on the unspanked youngsters of this age. Poor kiddies—it isn't their fault that they behave as they do! Even the schools have yielded to the no-spanking fad and the days of the little red schoolhouse where "punishment" meant only one thing—a paddling with all the other children looking one and all at the whole affair—has given place to weird institutions where such things are unknown. What would the average child think if he or she were to be soundly spanked with all her playmates in attendance? The situation is really serious, and if discipline does not come back into its own before long the next few years will see a race of selfish, spoiled people. Of course, beatings and cruel whippings are not to be thought of, but good spankings can do no harm and certainly do a lot of good. The Chinese are a much-maligned people, but they defeat us in their treatment of petty crime. When an offender is found guilty of a mild violation of law he is laid face down on a mat, bared from waist to knees and spanked with a bamboo paddle. Anywhere from 25 to 150 blows are given with the light bamboo, which does not bruise or cut the skin, but merely stings as it slaps the offender's bare hips. When he has had his whipping he is released and in 99 out of 100 cases he doesn't return for more.

If some one had only spanked poor Dorothy San Francisco's jail would have one less tenant.

True Occultism

LOS ANGELES, Jan. 22.—[To the Editor of The Times:] It seems to me an appropriate time to remind those desiring to study occultism that there is no such thing as a true teacher of occultism who charges for his teaching.

A real teacher is only supposed to give his instruction to those who are prepared to receive it and who will use the knowledge unselfishly—and gives it with no charge—as he received it.

True occultism, like Christianity, is a way of life. It has to be learned by living it and from a teacher who is living it.

To show how easily people are deceived a supposedly great teacher recently in this city hulahuled his muscles around and told the vast audience it was caused by his sending the life force to different parts of his body. The people went wild with wonder and enthusiasm.

Eastern Advertising

NEW YORK, Jan. 13.—[To the Editor of The Times:] I am a reader of the Sunday Times and feel it a day lost if I ever miss this weekly issue.

I am greatly surprised that California chambers of commerce don't advertise more frequently in New York papers. Florida surely does spread itself out in the New York Sunday editions. Miami, Fla., more so than any of the other southern cities.

The small-house architecture is very noticeable. Most of them are of the flat-roof type or square style of architecture. The severe straight lines are relieved here and there by an occasional arch or two, which gives a very attractive setting. I hope that Southern California cities will use this style of Spanish architecture more often.

The Victor Girard abode bungalows in the Walnut Park section of Los Angeles are an admirable adaptation of this style of architecture.

Red Tape

LOS ANGELES, Jan. 24.—[To the Editor of The Times:] What a blessing it would be for the schools of Los Angeles if some one would persuade the Board of Education to have a little mercy on the greatly overworked teachers.

There are reports galore that must be made out and examination papers to be marked and corrected and then more reports, until they become "fuzzy-minded." As a rule they work nights and Sundays in order to get all the reports completed on time.

It often happens that the noon hour is occupied by "teacher's meetings" or some other foolishness to such an extent that they have not sufficient time to properly eat their lunches.

If the information that is supposed to be contained in those reports is ever summarized and tabulated it must require an army of clerks and secretaries to do that work and that is one reason why the educational item looms large in our tax bills.

JACKSON VICTOR IN HARBOR FIGHT

Civil Service Body Orders Him Reinstated

Quarry Chief Was Ousted by Ludlow in November

Action Seen as Forerunner of New Clash in Board

The Los Angeles Harbor political kettle, brought to a boiling point last July when J. W. Ludlow, then chief harbor engneer, was discharged by the Harbor Commission, and kept simmering since as Ludlow was reinstated again and later ejected, is expected to foam into violent life again, following ing the action of the City Civil Service Commission yesterday in ordering the reinstatement of F. C. Jackson, former superintendent of the city's quarries on Catalina Island, who was summarily discharged last November by Ludlow.

The order of the Civil Service Commission makes it almost mandatory on the Harbor Commission to reinstate Jackson at its meeting next Tuesday.

Ludlow put up a determined fight to keep his job as port engineer, during which many heated sessions of the Harbor Commission were held, and recriminations between some of Los Angeles' leading clergymen and Harbor Commissioner Mellus, flew thick and fast.

The former chief harbor engineer, when he discharged Jackson, charged the latter with "inefficiency." Jackson immediately declared that he would take his case before the Civil Service Commission, and when he did he asked that the Board of Harbor Commissioners exonerate him from "the imputation of dishonesty and graft" given at the time as reasons for his dismissal. Such action was later taken. The Civil Service Commission took no immediate action at the time, pending a report from Controller Edwards on his investigation into Jackson's purchases of supplies for the quarry.

LIQUOR-LAW OFFENDERS ADMIT GUILT

Roadhouse Proprietor Gets Fine and Jail Term; Waiter Also Must Pay

Joe Monica, proprietor of the Verdugo Roadhouse near Glendale, and George C. Fisher, one-time waiter in the place, pleaded guilty yesterday before Federal Judge McCormick to a charge of violating the Volstead Act. Monica was fined $500 and sentenced to serve thirty days in jail. Fisher was fined $250.

Bert Bustana and Nick Vallis, employees of Monica when Federal prohibition agents purchased some fifteen drinks of whisky in the roadhouse last July, also were arrested at the time of the raid. Judge McCormick dismissed the charges against them when Assistant United States Attorney McGann showed the court there was no evidence against the two.

Fisher, the waiter who supplied the Federal agents with their drinks, sought to take all the blame for the offense when he pleaded guilty. Monica, his employer, also tried to induce the court to believe that Fisher had surreptitiously brought intoxicating liquor into the Verdugo Roadhouse. Judge McCormick declined to believe Monica, and told him he believed him to have been responsible for whatever occurred in his place of business.

Surprise Looms in Trial of Rich Long Beach Man

Surprising evidence is expected in the case of Alexander R. Stewart, wealthy Long Beach fish packer, and others charged with conspiracy to violate the Volstead Act, when the case is resumed today before Federal Judge McCormick, according to announcement of Mark Herron, Assistant United States Attorney. Herron said he had subpoenaed Bert Taylor to appear as the "surprise witness."

The trial of the conspiracy case against Stewart and ten co-defendants was continued last Tuesday until today on account of the illness of a juror. The government rested its case last week but retained the privilege of introducing new evidence. Additional government evidence, Herron said, could be presented within an hour.

Defense counsel have indicated they will not require more than two ways in presenting their evidence.

Stewart and his co-defendants were arrested following the seizure in March, 1923, of 144 cases of intoxicating liquor on the wharf of the Curtis Packing Corporation, of which Stewart is the president. The seizure and arrests were made by Long Beach police and Federal prohibition agents.

CHINESE IN DOPE NET

Agents Say Fruit Stand Blind for Peddling of Narcotics

A prosperous fruit-peddling business conducted by Sam Long, a Chinese, at San Bernardino, has served as a "blind" in the illegal distribution of narcotics, according to Federal narcotic agents who yesterday arrested Long and Sam Levy following asserted sales of morphine. The two are held under $5000 bond each in the San Bernardino County Jail pending hearing on a charge of violating the Harrison Narcotic Act.

According to the agents, Long sold two ounces of morphine to a government operative for $150. Levy, said to have been employed by Long to distribute dope among addicts, is asserted to have sold the government operative one-half ounce of morphine. Long, it is said, is the owner of several fruit wagons that have operated for several months in San Bernardino.

WITNESSES DENY TRUST OF GROCERS

Assert Association Was Formed to Save Jobbers Unnecessary Losses

Whatever price fixing has been done by local wholesale grocers has been confined to commodities sold in Southern California and has been done solely for the purpose of protecting the jobbers against unnecessary losses, witnesses for the defense testified yesterday before Federal Judge James in the case against the Southern California Wholesale Grocers' Association and others charged with conspiracy to violate the Sherman antitrust law.

The defense witnesses admitted that price fixing had been done through the grocers' association, but asserted there had been no conspiracy to form a trust or to regulate the retail prices of groceries. The association of jobbers, they said, was merely an organization formed for mutual benefits arising from elimination of unnecessary competition.

The defense witnesses were J. R. Coffman, secretary of the grocers' association; R. Simpson, of the Simpson-Ashby Company, and E. M. Bosbyshell, president of the United Wholesale Grocery Company. The witnesses scheduled to testify for the defense today are John Kraft, of the Haas-Baruch Company, and Marco R. Newmark, of the M. A. Newmark Company. According to James E. Degnan, counsel for the defense, there is a possibility that the defense will close its case today.

Bosbyshell testified yesterday that as a former member of the price committee of the grocers' association he had never known the association to follow the recommendations of manufacturers as to retail prices that should be charged for certain commodities. The organization of the association, he said, resulted in 1922 from a general slump in business.

The witnesses, Coffman and Simpson, specified instances of price fixing that, they said, were deemed necessary to save members of the association from doing business at a loss.

Sister Verifies Portion of Baby Murder Story

Mrs. Maria Bulido was questioned yesterday by Deputy Sheriffs Catlin and Sepulveda, and corroborated in part, they said, the story told by her sister, Louisa Perez, 15 years of age, that Louisa had strangled her child. The deputies also made an investigation at the former Bulido home at Florence, but were unable to find any trace of the child's skeleton.

Louisa Perez, who is held at Juvenile Hall, is said to have declared she killed the infant at the command of Jose Bulido, who she named as its father.

Mrs. Bulido said she knew that her sister had had a child and had heard it was strangled, but denied her husband was its father, or that he had a hand in its death. The investigation will be continued.

Details of Fight in Cafe Slaying Told on Stand

Details of the altercation that resulted in the death in a North Broadway cafe of Carlos Carnevale were told by four eye-witnesses yesterday at the trial in Judge Hahn's court of Adolph and Joseph Rivera, ex-peace officers, charged with the murder of Carnevale.

The witnesses, Antonio Munio, Margaret Hummel, Edwin Haitem and R. C. Thomas, were not certain whether the shot that killed Carnevile was fired from the inside or the outside of the cafe. They said that Carnevale had been armed but that they were not not sure he had his gun drawn when he was shot.

The State's contention is that the defendants murdered Carnevale in cold blood while the Riveras expect to plead self-defense. The case is being prosecuted by Dep. Dist.-Attys. Dennison and Murray.

Defer Hearing on Extradition of Canada Suspect

Hearing on habeas corpus proceedings instituted for the release on bond of Andrew H. Pepall, former head of the Long Beach Glass Company, who is held for extradition to Canada, was continued yesterday by Federal Judge Bledsoe until 2 o'clock today. The continuance was made when counsel for the British Consul here notified the court that certified copies of warrants said to have been issued against Pepall at Toronto had not been received from the Attorney-General at Toronto.

Pepall was arrested last Saturday on a complaint filed with the Federal authorities by the British Consul. The complaint showed Pepall faces a charge of having embezzled $262,000 while acting as a government agent. The defendant is held without bond pending receipt of proof of the charges.

A telegram sent by the Attorney-General at Toronto to the British Consul here yesterday said certified copies of warrants, fully authenticated by the United States Consul at Toronto, had been mailed and should be received in Los Angeles today.

NO MURDER IN MONTH

Longest Period in Police History Devoid of Record of Slaying

For the first time in the history of the Los Angeles police department a month of thirty-one days has passed without a murder being reported, it was announced yesterday. The last murder was that of Miguel Ramirez, slain in a knife fight on December 28, 1924. The best previous record was twenty-three days without a murder in 1923, records show.

FOUR HUNTED IN AX-PLOT

Woman Held in Connection With Asserted Attempt to Injure Attorney is Released

Deputy sheriffs delving into the plot to mutilate E. Neal Ames, attorney, by lopping off his ears with a small ax turned their entire attention yesterday to the search for the four men said to have been behind the plot after the release of Mrs. L. Norman, who had been arrested in connection with the case, Tuesday.

A squad of six deputies, directed by Undersheriff Biscailuz and Chief Criminal Deputy Wright, spent the entire night Tuesday in checking the woman's story. They announced that she could not be held as her recitation had been shown to tally with the facts.

Pauline Kudenoff, 18 years of age, who was arrested with Mrs. Norman at the latter's home, was turned over to Juvenile authorities. The girl had vanished from her home some months ago and, at the time of her arrest, stated she was working for Mrs. Norman at the latter's home in Nadeau.

The plot on the attorney was reported to the Sheriff's office by Frank A. Sullivan. He told deputies that he had become the unwitting dupe of the plotters when he accepted a "blind" offer from a mystery man to make $10. He said he was taken by the man, who was later joined by three other men and a woman, to the attorney's home in Pasadena, given a hatchet and told to slice off the attorney's ears when he appeared. It was not until he received these instructions, he said, that he became aware of what he was to do to make the $10.

John W. Norman, husband of Mrs. Norman, who also was arrested late Tuesday night, was arraigned yesterday before Justice Miller at Huntington Park on a charge of assault with a deadly weapon on his wife. The Normans have been separated and Attorney Ames had been retained by the husband to represent him in the divorce case. It was thought by the deputies that the plot to mutilate the attorney may have been an outgrowth of the divorce action.

FIGHT OVER EVIDENCE

Officers Assert Man Attempted to Destroy Marked Money

An asserted effort to destroy evidence of the illegal possession and sale of intoxicating liquor precipitated a fight yesterday between A. V. Lagomarsino and general Federal prohibition agents, according to the latter, when the agents arrested Lagomarsino and his father, Joseph Lagomarsino at the Aquila Pharmacy, 709 North Broadway. The two defendants, held in jail on a charge of violating the Volstead Act, are proprietors of the pharmacy, where the agents said they bought moonshine whisky and seized five gallons of the liquor said to have been secreted in the store.

The arresting officers said the asserted purchase of liquor was made with marked money which the younger Lagomarsino attempted to destroy.

SNELL SUED BY FORMER OREGONIAN

Hollywood Banker Named as Defendant in Action Over Asserted Contract

Declaring Thomas T. Snell, Hollywood banker and former president of the Hollywood State Bank, failed to fulfill the terms of an asserted contract whereby he said he was to be made manager and cashier of the bank, G. B. Kellogg yesterday filed suit against Snell for $5500.

Kellogg, a young Oregon banker who came to this city last summer, said he and Snell drew up an agreement last August, under the terms of which Kellogg agreed to purchase $10,000 of the stock of the Hollywood State Bank. As an inducement to procure the purchase of the stock, Kellogg said, Snell agreed to have him made manager and cashier.

The complaint recited that Kellogg was given a position in the bank as teller and that Snell later resigned as president of the institution, thus making it impossible for him to live up to the asserted contract. Kellogg said he made demand on Snell for the resale of the stock at the price he paid for it, but that Snell refused to repurchase the stock. Accordingly, Kellogg asserted, he sold the stock at auction for $4750. He asked $4250 damages of Snell on the purchase price of the stock and $1250 he said he would have received had he been made manager and cashier of the bank.

The complaint was filed by Attorneys Woodruff & Shoemaker.

DOPE DEFENDANTS GUILTY

Federal Jury Convicts Attorney Guy Rockwell and Ercole Maglione on Narcotic Conspirocy Charge

Following a trial that began a week ago Tuesday before Federal Judge Bledsoe, a jury yesterday returned a verdict of guilty against Guy L. Rockwell, Los Angeles attorney, and Ercole Maglione, charged with conspiracy and with violation of the Harrison Narcotic Act. The verdict applied to four counts of the indictment, including possession, sale and transportation of narcotics. Judge Bledsoe announced he would sentence the defendants next Monday.

The case grew out of an asserted attempt on the part of the defendants to organize the sale of narcotics among employees of the Lasky studio in Hollywood. They were arrested by police on February 27, 1923, when they were alleged to have given Clyde Ewing, an employee of the Lasky studio, three ounces of cocaine. The arrest was made in the presence of numerous witnesses, who testified for the government. Employees of the Lasky studio testified they had been approached by Rockwell with a proposition to handle narcotics.

Rockwell, a former special investigator of the District Attorney's office, admitted on the witness stand that he had worked with Maglione in obtaining narcotics, and that he had talked with Lasky employees concerning the chances of selling narcotics. He said, however, that he had done that in connection with efforts he was making to obtain evidence against a dope ring he understood was operating in Hollywood.

Wife Threatened to Sic Klan Onto Him, Mate Says

Every time Bartholomew Lahey began to get the upper hand in a family spat his wife threatened to sic the Ku Klux Klan on him, he asserted in a divorce complaint filed yesterday against Mrs. May Lahey.

Not only that, he declared, but she had no compunction about humiliating him in public by berating him loudly and without cause.

It may have been a coincidence, Lahey averred, that he was robbed twice in his wife's company by the same man, but it was a fact that she never was robbed.

Each pay day, he continued, his wife would take charge of the envelope and would dole out to him on an average of 50 cents a day for his expenses.

She was also extremely jealous, he said, even pulling his hair one time at a dance because he waltzed with another woman.

Today's Beauty Help

If you are one of the many who try to make the most of your hair, remember that it is not advisable to wash the hair with any cleanser made for all purposes, but always use some good shampoo. You can enjoy the very best by getting some canthrox from your druggist, dissolve a teaspoonful in a cup of hot water. This makes a full cup of shampoo liquid, enough so it is easy to apply it to all the hair instead of just the top of the head. Dandruff, excess oil, and dirt are dissolved and entirely disappear. Your hair will be so fluffy that it will look much heavier than it is. Its luster and softness will also delight you, while the stimulated scalp gains the health which insures hair growth.

Your druggist can supply you and the low cost—scarcely three cents a shampoo—is almost unbelievable.—[Advertisement.

The supper-room of the Biltmore was the scene last evening of one of the loveliest affairs of the season when Miss Bernardine Murphy, attractive young daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Dan Murphy of West Adams street, entertained with a supper-dance in honor of Miss Georgina Hicks of Washington and New York, the house guest this month of her aunt and uncle, Mr. and Mrs. Dean Mason of Lafayette Park Place. The decorations were artistically carried out with a profusion of spring blossoms, sweet peas in the cerise tones predominating with ferns and pink flowers, while the tables were lighted by pink shaded tall candles. Miss Murphy wore an exquisite gown of silver lace, while her aunt, Miss Sue Sinnot, who assisted her in receiving, was attired in a gown of wine-colored velvet. Miss Hicks wore a gown of blue silver cloth, while Mrs. Mason's gown was of black velvet. The guests were members of the younger set, who were bidden to honor the charming young visitor from the eastern city, for whom many delightfully arranged affairs are being given.

ANSWERS TO CORRESPONDENTS

"Dear Doctor: Here we are—two chums—seeking help. I am 14 years of age, five feet, two and one-half inches tall, and weigh just 90 pounds; my chum is 17, five feet, three inches tall and weighs 192! I want to gain some twenty pounds (I'm so thin it hurts when I lean against a wall)—she wants to shave off forty pounds so they won't giggle at the pair of us on the streets. Please send us each the reducing-and-gaining pamphlets. Here is the 20 cents and two self-addressed, stamped envelopes.

"Also you will earn our eternal devotion and prayers if you will tell us how to chase away the pimples that run riot over our noble faces.—The Spratts."

By the time this appears you will have had your little booklets. I expect to hear from you again pretty soon telling me that you have started your devotional services.

"Chum" has got to decrease her calories 1000 per day under her maintenance and you have to increase them 1000 a day (You should do this gradually, but "chum" can jump right at 'em. Away from 'em, I should say.) You should be having at least one quart or more of whole milk and "chum" should have at least three glasses of skim milk. You are both growing and you need the lime salts and complete protein that the milk will furnish. The booklet will give you more in detail about the diet and exercise needed.

As you have acne—it is quite common in growing boys and girl—when you increase your calories, don't increase your fats in any way. Of course, "chum" should cut her fats and sweets down to the vanishing point.

I think when you get rid of your thinness and fatness your "noble faces" are going to be rid of their rioters too. Anything that lowers the resistance of the body (and thinness and fatness will do that) also lowers the resistance of the skin, and the germs simply love that. You will have to combine your general treatment of building up your bodies with a local treatment.

For the local treatment, scrub your faces well at night, with hot water and soap and gently squeeze out the blackheads, first thoroughly cleaning the hands. Never squeeze a pimple or blackhead without the thorough cleaning first, and don't do much pimple squeezing—it makes them worse. And don't ever squeeze pimples on the upper lip. After this treatment apply an antiseptic—ordinary sulphur ointment is considered good, and sometimes, just boracic acid powder patted on the face when it is wet, will do the work. Sometimes, laundry soap washes are effective.

If your acne is very severe, you should go to a skin specialist. Write again—do.

CHRONIC STARVATION

Mr. B.—There is no doubt that whatever your trouble is, it is complicated and perhaps caused by your prolonged undernutrition. You say that the X-rays and examinations have shown that you have no ulcers or other organic causes for your ill health.

Conditions such as you have described have been experienced by many people during wars and sieges. It has been shown in the experimental feeding of animals that degenerative changes in the digestive organs can be brought about by a prolonged starvation, and then, of course, there is a failure to assimilate the food properly, and dysentery and general discomfort result.

You must stop being afraid of food, but because of undoubted degenerative changes and because of the temporary lowering of tone in the intestinal tract, you must increase your diet very gradually. Even the gradual increase may cause some discomfort, but you will have to have the local discomfort before you can overcome your general discomfort. Send for the booklet the Spratt twins mention in the preceding letter.

WILL PLAY "SHE"

BETTY BLYTHE GETS COVETED SAMUELSON ROLE

By Grace Kingsley

So at last "She," the immortal heroine of Sir Henry Rider Haggard's novel, is to be immortalized in the deathless celluloid! It has all been settled, and R. C. Samuelson will make the picture, over in Berlin.

Betty Blythe is to star in the title role, and it has just come out that that is what she went abroad for a month ago. At that time, she was not certain whether she would accept the Samuelson offer or that of a French firm. However, it appears that Betty just could not resist the temptation to play the carefully preserved vampire of the ages.

It seems that screen producers the world over have been after the film rights to the story, and a goodly number of American actresses have been considered for the title role. "But," said Mr. Samuelson, "who that had seen Betty in 'The Queen of Sheba' would hesitate for one moment to give her the role?"

Exteriors of the picture are to be done somewhere in Italy. The picture is already being started, and Miss Blythe, according to a cable message received here by her husband, Paul Scardon, expects to be back in Hollywood about the end of March.

R. C. Samuelson is the best known of the English producers. He it is who has made most of the English pictures shown in this country. He says that he is sparing no expense in the making of "She."

FLORENCE VIDOR'S FIRST PARAMOUNT

The first role to be played by Florence Vidor under her new long-term contract with Famous-Players-Lasky Corporation will be in "Are Parents People?" it was announced today by Jesse L. Lasky, first vice-president in charge of production.

In this Saturday Evening Post story by Alice Duer Miller, Miss Vidor is cast in a featured role for which she is exceptionally well fitted. Not only will it be her first picture under her new contract, but it will mark her first appearance in several years before the camera at Paramount's Hollywood Studio, where she first gained recognition as a remarkable actress.

Another featured player in "Are Parents People?" will be Betty Bronson of "Peter Pan" fame.

"Are Parents People?" is the story of a young girl at a select finishing school who has a series of diverting experiences as a result of her infatuation for a popular motion-picture star of the sheik variety.

Frances Agnew wrote the scenario for the picture.

Pauline Garon in Hospital

Pauline Garon goes to the hospital today for an operation on her throat. Pauline's voice has been what you might call a sore spot with her for some time. But now it's going to be all right.

"You know that funny voice of mine?" said Pauline yesterday. "Well, it was the result of a poorly performed operation on my tonsils, done two years ago. But now I expect to come out with a regular goo-goo voice, just like a baby wamp! Won't that be just too sweet?"

—o—

Mae Marsh at Work

Mae Marsh is today deserting the comforts of home life in Flintridge, where she has a beautiful Colonial house set in six-acre grounds, for the cold, hard world of labor.

In other words, Miss Marsh begins work today at the Vitagraph Studio in the star role of Basil King's "The Garden of Charity," which J. Stuart Blackton will direct. Earl Schenck will play opposite Miss Marsh.

"The Garden of Charity" is one of King's most popular stories, and the Vitagraph people offered Miss Marsh a very large salary to enact the leading feminine role, as they considered she was the only actress who could properly portray the wistful heroine of the story.

Jimmie Talented Typist

James Morrison, who does juveniles so well on the screen, isn't nearly so light minded as you might think from just seeing him in pictures. In fact, James has bought himself a brand new shiny typewriter, and is taking a header into literature. At present he is laboring over one of those shuddery mystery novels, and it has been moving along at such a smacking pace that it is now about half finished. Just as soon as he finds out what to do with the villain, he will let us know all about the story.

—o—

Cast for "Escape"

Conrad Nagel and Renee Adoree have been chosen for leading roles in "Escape," Joseph Von Sternberg's first production for Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer.

The cast, which has practically been completed, includes Mathew Betz, Paulette Duval, Claire Dubrey, Fred Esmelton, Helena D'Algy, Robert Graves and Frank Currier.

Mr. Currier, who has just returned from Rome, where he played Arrius, Ben Hur's foster father, has been placed under a long-term contract by M-G-M and will be seen in a number of their future productions.

—o—

Sidney Olcott Injured

Sidney Olcott, directing Pola Negri in her current picture, is limping about on crutches. He met with an accident Tuesday, when he stepped on a low glass platform being used by Paul Bern in "The Paris Dressmaker," and broke the glass, falling through, cutting himself badly, and severing a small artery in his leg.

—o—

Bread-on-the-Waters Note

After all, it looks as though Messrs. Chaplin and Fairbanks's bread cast on the waters will return in the form of dough!

When these enterprising gentlemen financed George K. Arthur's production, "The Salvation Hunters," authored and directed by Josef Von Sternberg, they did so, aided and abetted by Mary Pickford, because they believed in the artistic merit of the picture; but they didn't believe it was a box-office attraction. Which only proves that you never can tell.

"The Salvation Hunters" opened in San Francisco, at the California Theater there, on Saturday last, and on Saturday and Sunday beat the seven-year house record of the theater for attendance and profits. This record lately was won by "Peter Pan," but "The Salvation Hunters" proved even more successful.

And "The Salvation Hunters" cost only $4500 to produce!

Some people liked the picture very much, indeed, the minority didn't like it at all. But everybody went to see it, because the fans said it was something different.

The release date of the picture in this city has not yet been set.

Bess Meredyth Signs

Miss Meredyth, former scenarist for Fred Niblo, and who has just returned from Rome, where she was preparing the script for "Ben Hur," signed a long-term contract yesterday under the conditions of which she will devote her time entirely to the preparation of pictures for Warners. Her first story will be assigned within the next week.

Miss Meredyth has been with the Louis B. Mayer interests for the last five years, and over half of that time was devoted to adapting stories for Fred Niblo.

She is recognized in the industry as one of the foremost scenarists, retaining in her adaptations the salient features and factors of the original story without losing any of its "high spots" for the picturization.

Miss Meredyth has to her credit such successes as "The Red Lily," "Thy Name is Woman" and "Ben Hur."

She is at the present time completing the scenario for "Nothing to Wear," which Hobart Henley will make for Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer.

—o—

Bert Lytell to Build

Of course, we aren't a bit surprised. But Bert Lytell is to build a home.

Mr. Lytell has followed close on the heels of Corinne Griffith in the purchase of Beverly Hills home property. Miss Griffith is now in her Beverly home for which she spent $100,000, and Lytell has just completed the purchase of a piece of land close to the Griffith home on which he will immediately start building.

—o—

E. Mason Hopper Gossips

E. Mason Hopper ought to be nearly as sure a connoisseur of feminine beauty requisites for the musical comedy stage as Flo Ziegfeld, Irving Berlin, Ned Wayburn or George White, because it seems that every time the director makes a Broadway picture production he finds it absolutely necessary to film scenes "back stage" of the famous choruses. His present production is no exception. For scenes in "The Crowded Hour," the Paramount picture starring Bebe Daniels, Hopper is extending himself. Not only is he using the chorus of the Music Box Revue, but he has just completed the filming of scenes in the oldest theater in New York, the Thalia, down in the Bowery, on whose stage Booth and Barrett once trod and spoke their classic lines.

Hitherto, Hopper has been addicted to the Follies, beginning some eight years ago and culminating in "The Great White Way," in which the entire Ziegfeld show played a prominent part. In "The Crowded Hour," Miss Daniels plays the role that Jane Cowl made famous on the stage.

Film commuters from New York are telling a funny story on Mason Hopper. The director, who is famous in private life for his culinary achievements, while filming scenes for this picture in New York's Chinatown invited his entire company to be his guests at a typical Chinese dinner. He ordered the cook to prepare duck in a certain Celestial style, and gave him $10 for a lesson. The joke is that the cook didn't know how, and it ended up with Hopper donning an apron and teaching the cook how to prepare the fowl in the real Chinese style.

Bradley King Shopping

Arrangements were made this week between E. M. Asher of Corinne Griffith Productions, and Bradley King, the scenario writer of that organization, whereby Miss King will pay a flying visit to New York.

The purpose is to seek story material for Miss Griffith and to see the popular footlight attractions in the aim of selecting a good stage play for a film story for the star.

Miss King adapted "Declasse," Miss Griffith's recently completed production and has just finished "The National Anthem," which the star will make next.

According to Asher, the writer will be retained for all of Corinne Griffith's stories.

Ably Filling Featured Positions

Leslie Fenton and Anna Q. Nilsson

The young man appears in "The Goose Hangs High" at the Playhouse, while Miss Nilsson plays "Inez From Hollywood" at Loew's next week.

Catholic Actors to Have Benefit Monday Evening

A benefit for the Hollywood branch of the Catholic Motion-Picture Actors' Guild is to be given at Philharmonic Auditorium Monday night.

A vaudeville bill, with Charley Murray as the master of ceremonies has been arranged. Among the stars to appear are Eddie Borden, Georgie Harris, Felix Adler, Chuck Reisner, Bull Montana, Lynn Cowan, Frank Ward, Harry Langdon, and several Orpheum players, by arrangement with Harry Singer, Pacific Coast representative. Two features of the program will be Trixie Friganza and Louise Dresser, who are said to be arranging unusual surprises.

The Guild is the organization to which the late Tommy Gray is co-operation with Father Mullen of the Good Shepherd Parish, devoted so much of his time. The benefit is for the furtherance of his plans for betterment among the ranks of his fellow workers.

New Screen Recruit Appreciates Opportunity for Home Life

As a rule an actor or actress will insist that they prefer the stage to the screen, explaining that the applause from an audience gives them an incentive that the cold motion-picture camera fails to inspire.

Not so with William Norton Bailey, however. Mr. Bailey although a recent recruit from footlight land, votes in favor of the silent drama. His first big screen role is the portrayal of the desperado in "The Flaming Forties," Harry Carey's latest production, showing at the Cameo Theater Saturday.

Mr. Bailey is a prominent figure on the New York stage. In addition to playing leading roles in "Tea Round Up," "Polly Preferred" and numerous other popular hits, he has been leading man for Grace George and Martha Hedman.

He came to California with his wife and family and turned to screen work because of the home-life that such professional work affords him. Bailey is a graduate of the University of Wisconsin and began his stage career with the Fabet English Stock Company in Milwaukee. He is a golf fiend and holds the hand ball championship of the Friars' Club in New York.

EGAN COMEDY ENTERS FIFTY-FOURTH WEEK

"White Collars" goes into its fifty-fourth week at the Egan Theater Monday under the direction of Frank Egan.

This comedy drama by Edith Ellis has all the elements of popularity, plenty of wholesome fun, a theme that is in the minds of thinking people today, a romance that seems occasionally to run counter to the current and a group of people in whom the spectator becomes deeply interested.

Producer Egan has given it an entirely adequate production, physically, and the supporting company which includes Craig Ward, Dian Esmonde, Ross Forrester, Jacqueline Dyris, Betty Sinclair, Zellah Covington, Margaret Nugent, Carroll Nye and Gordon White presents a rounded and even interpretation of the characters and gives a spirited performance of the play.

WAGNER NUMBERS SUNG SUCCESSFULLY

BY FRANCIS KENDIG

The numbers from Wagnerian opera which the Ellis Club presented last evening at their second concert are significant, because they show the very serious type of choral work which this time-honored organization is doing. Philharmonic held a gratifyingly larger audience than was present at their first concert of this season.

The Wagnerian numbers were done with orchestral accompaniment by members selected from the Philharmonic Orchestra. The "Pilgrim's Chorus" from "Tannhauser," "Grailsfeier" from "Parsifal," and the March and Chorus from "Tannhauser," were the numbers given, with the "Tannhauser" Overture preceding the "Pilgrim's Chorus."

The Ellis Club has been in existence a sufficient number of years to have a certain tradition to uphold, and not only do they keep up their standard, but in certain aspects they show a desire to surpass their previous efforts. Their impressive rendition of "Feast of the Holy Grail,"—exquisite music—I felt to be one of these occasions.

A small symphony is one of the most attractive types of ensembles, and for some compositions is better than the larger body of players. The themes are more transparent, and sometimes there is a greater leeway in matters of phrasing, individuality in the tone quality of solo passages, and an opportunity for simplicity and sweetness. Only it is even more important that the performers should be exactly on pitch. Sometimes our very worthy orchestra men give evidence of being just a little careless. They probably play too often in orchestra and not enough alone.

The soloist of the evening was Mary Bothwell, contralto, who sang songs of Gretchaninoff, Lie and Marx; a solo part in "The Angelus" by Hammond, and the aria "O Don Fatale" from Verdi's "Don Carlos." Miss Bothwell exhibited many fine qualities which go into the making of an accomplished songstress, among which were charm of voice and personality, of style and musical feeling. Some of her tones were unusually rich and lovely. Two years of very careful vocal work, for the purpose of strengthening her voice will probably make her one of Los Angeles' best. She should never force her voice for the sake of volume, because the sweet quality is sacrificed, and it is in this way that singers so frequently do permanent injury to the delicate cords which produce the tone.

Dorothy Robinson, daughter of the accompanist of the Club, Mrs. M. Hennion Robinson, assisted in two of the choral numbers at the second piano.

J. B. Poulin directed with his inherent finesse and suavity, obtaining excellent results. Other numbers, many selected from former programs, were included in the first part of the evening's performance.

DESIRE, FULFILLMENT IS PHOTOPLAY THEME

That one's idea of happiness, realized, does not always mean that expectations are realized as well, is shown in "The Price of Pleasure," Universal-Jewel co-starring Virginia Valli and Norman Kerry at the Forum Theater next week. The story is that of the romance of a shopgirl and the son of an arrogant woman of wealth and social position and it is the attitude of the mother that brings tragedy into the life of the young couple. The supporting cast includes such screen personages as Louise Fazenda, T. Roy Barnes, Kate Lester, George Fawcett, Marie Astaire and James O. Barrows. Edward Sloman directed.

THEATER OFFICIALS RETURN FROM EAST

Sol Lesser of Principal Pictures; Harry C. Arthur, general manager of West Coast Theaters and Marco, of the producing firm of Pancho and Marco, returned from New York Tuesday. While in the East Mr. Arthur and Mr. Marco engaged a number of big vaudeville acts for the West Coast circuit of theaters. The first of these new offerings will be presented at Loew's State and the California Theaters about the first of April.

Mr. Arthur visited more than 200 Eastern theaters and the ideas obtained will be incorporated in the eighteen new West Coast theaters now building.

BATHING GIRLS WILL DANCE AT AMBASSADOR

Several directors are planning to be on hand at the Blizzard Ball to be held in the Hotel Ambassador Auditorium Saturday evening to cast a critical eye over the ninety bathing beauties who train under the direction of Rodger Cornell, athletic director of the Ambassador. The girls will furnish atmosphere for the "Spirit of the Storm" dance to be given by Linda, premiere danseuse with Harry Carroll's "Pickings" for the first time at the Ambassador Auditorium as a feature of the Blizzard Ball. An Abe Lyman Orchestra will furnish the music for both the specialty numbers and the dancing.

ORDONEZ TO PLAY

Salvador Ordonez, pianist, who recently came from Europe, where he played with great success, will give his first public concert in America Thursday morning, the 29th inst., at 11 o'clock, in the Hotel Ambassador Theater. He has been heard, however, before several Southern California clubs, including the local Dominant, Ebell and Three Arts Club. He will be the soloist for the second concert of the Woman's Symphony Orchestra, to be given April 14.

Mr. Ordonez has been engaged for a tour in Mexico this season. Critics in Hambourg declared him to be the best interpreter of the Scriabine sonatas and to have a special sympathy and understanding for the moderns.

At his Ambassador recital he will play Bach, Liszt, Chopin, Paganini and others.

NEBLETT VIOLINISTS RECITAL

Ten pupils of Leona Neblett will play at 2:30 p.m., Chickering Hall, next Saturday afternoon. The event is open to the public. The allegro movement on the Concerto in D Minor, by Bach, will be played by Frances Knewing and Virgil Potts. Included in the program are compositions by Saint-Saens, Gomez, Gounod, Dancla, Mendelssohn, Kreisler, Hubay, Brahms, Ackron and others.

OLD-TIMER HAS HAT IN RING

Former Councilman Candidate in Pasadena

One of Group Opposed to New City Government

Promises Publicity and Many Reforms

By a "Times" Staff Correspondent

PASADENA, Jan. 28.—There will be more publicity given Pasadena's city business if John J. Hamilton, prominent resident of this city, who today announced his candidacy for City Director at the coming election, is elected, he asserted today. There will be no more secrecy about how public money is being spent, stricter economy, great efficiency, more democracy and taxes will be reduced, he declared in his open statement today.

Mr. Hamilton was chairman of the City Council several years ago when the city was governed by the Mayor and Council form. He was once re-elected by a heavy majority. When the city decided to turn to the City Manager form of government Mr. Hamilton was not a candidate for the office of City Director.

Only yesterday the four Directors whose terms expire in April announced their intention of seeking re-election. They are Fred Harris, Frank May, MacD. Snowball and Carl C. Thomas.

Mr. Hamilton is the first of a number of independent candidates who are expected to announce themselves in the running for the office, which carries little remuneration. The coming election in April is expected to be one of the most heated contests in the history of Pasadena. The lines will be sharply drawn.

So strong has the opposition developed to the present form of government that recently a petition signed by more than 5000 voters asking for a change to the Mayor form of government was filed with the City Directors. Due to a technicality the Directors were not forced to call an immediate election, therefore, this issue will not be settled for two years. The Independent voters have formed an organization and will endeavor to elect their own set of Directors. Every indication points to an exciting and vigorous campaign.

INSPECT LANDING FIELD

Beach City Community Aids in Establishing Air Port

By a "Times" Staff Correspondent

SANTA MONICA, Jan. 28.—Frank E. Bundy and members of the aviation committee of the Santa Monica-Ocean Park Chamber of Commerce inspected 158 acres of ground between Pico Boulevard and Central avenue at Fourteenth street for the purpose of converting it into an aviation center when the lease on Clover Field expires. The only question arising in the minds of those who are endeavoring to obtain such a site is whether or not the ground will permit landing and taking off.

The committee explained that they were impressed with the site and that every effort would be made to maintain an established air port. Aviation will appear in its infancy when developments now under way are completed, according to officers stationed at Clover Field.

A report of the findings of the committee working to establish a suitable site for an air port will be heard at a meeting of the chamber directors Friday night.

YOUNG HUSBAND IS SUMMONED TO COURT

By a "Times" Staff Correspondent

PASADENA, Jan. 28.—Louis E. Barbour and Doris Barbour, both of whom are 17 years of age, and who were married about a year ago, have found that married life is not an eternal path of roses. In Justice Morton's court today, Mrs. Barbour, who is about to become a mother, had her husband arrested for failure to support her. She asserted in her complaint that he preferred the security of his father's fireside to getting a job. The youth was arraigned and will appear for trial February 5.

The girl-wife told the judge that they were married in Santa Ana about a year ago and have not been living together since the ceremony.

BUILDS ADDITION TO SAN DIEGO HOSPITAL

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

SAN DIEGO, Jan. 28.—A gift of $300,000 by John D. Spreckels to the Sisters of Mercy Hospital, for the construction of a south wing, was announced today, together with word that work on the new addition will be started in the near future.

The main unit of the hospital was completed last year and some time ago the north wing was started. When the south wing is completed the hospital will have a capacity of 250 beds.

Mr. Spreckels's gift will be as a memorial to his wife, Lillie Stebbin Spreckels, who died several months ago.

EXPENSE ACCOUNTS CAMPAIGN ARGUMENT

RIVALS FOR OFFICE CITE COST OF RECENT TRIPS TO WASHINGTON

CALEXICO, Jan. 28.—Interest in the campaign for the election of a director in the Calexico division of Imperial Irrigation District has been developed this week by the circulation on behalf of Director C. W. Brockman of a statement of the expense accounts of the district directors for the last two or three years. Brockman is a candidate for re-election, being opposed by J. G. Scott of Calexico, who, it is asserted, is being favored by the Mark Rose forces of the irrigation district. Rose is a candidate for re-election in the Holtville division.

Brockman during his thirty-two months on the board of directors has repeatedly charged his colleagues with useless waste of public money. Investigation of the irrigation district books by Brockman showed that in the period beginning June 5, 1922, and ending December 3, 1924, his expense account totaled $441.90, while for the same period the expense account of Mark Rose was shown to be $3209.54. These sums were received by the directors in addition to their monthly salaries of $150 each, according to Brockman's statement. Part of the Rose expense was incurred by trips to Washington in the interests of the all-American canal project.

SECRETARIES MEET

City Boosters Plan Gathering in Calexico

CALEXICO, Jan. 28.—Seventy-five members of the Association of Commercial Secretaries of Southern California are expected to attend the monthly session of the organization here next Saturday, Secretary Harmuth of the Calexico Chamber of Commerce is arranging a program of entertainment which he asserts does not provide any opportunity for rest from the time the secretaries arrive here until they board the evening train for the north.

The program includes a visit to Mexicali and a call on Gov. Rodrigues, followed by a trip to Chinatown and other attractive features of the town, but this will all be after the business session of the association, according to Secretary Harmuth.

Innocence is Only Mask of Hardened Yegg

By a "Times" Staff Correspondent

PASADENA, Jan. 28.—Walter Socolow, the 23-year-old confessed burglar, who recently surprised Pasadena police by boldly walking into the sergeant's office, putting down his revolver and asking to be locked up, is not so innocent as officers were at first led to believe, it was disclosed today when Chief of Police Kelley obtained Socolow's record from various parts of the country.

The record disclosed that the youth had been arrested in Portland, Or., on charge of murder. He was also arrested in Los Angeles as a vagrant and was in the Riverside jail for robbing a slot machine.

When Socolow appeared at the police station he declared his first attempt at crime had been robbing the Imlay grocery store in this city. He is now awaiting trial in the Superior Court.

UNIQUE PERFORMANCE

Chinese Youths Stage Show at Hanford

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

HANFORD, Jan. 28.—An entertainment which would be a novelty anywhere in the United States has just been presented at the Pastime Theater in this city for two nights. Two plays, with the modern titles of "The Hero" and "Reflections of an Unhappy Home," were presented by Chinese boys and girls of the high and grammar schools of this city and the Canton Normal School of San Francisco.

The Chinese language only was used, with Chinese scenery, costumes and music. The large number of Americans present followed the action of the play by programs printed in English. Funds are being raised for the Chinese school here, the only one in the United States built, owned and conducted by Chinese, where the Chinese language is taught exclusively.

By a "Times" Staff Correspondent

A man walked into the store of a Santa Monica Boulevard merchant, offered some change for a $20 bill, stating he wished to mail it to a friend in Seattle. The change was short $3.

"I'll go right back to the bank and get my $3," explained the man. "I just had a bill changed there. You may keep the envelope until I return."

The merchant became suspicious and also kept the $17 in change. When the envelope was opened the $20 was missing. The thief at the close of the transaction was ahead $3.

OFFICERS RECOVER VALUABLE PROPERTY

YOUNG MAN'S CONFESSION MAKES TROUBLE FOR COMPANIONS

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

RIVERSIDE, Jan. 28.—As a result of several weeks of effort on the part of Sheriff's officers a considerable portion of the loot of half a dozen robberies of Palm Springs residences, covering a period of several months, has been recovered, according to announcement today by Sheriff Clem Sweeters.

Three of four men believed to have been implicated in the robberies are now in the County Jail and one of these, Harry Clark, 24, is said to have confessed his part in the affair and to have implicated others.

Clark has been sentenced to three months in the County Jail on a petit-larceny charge by Justice George Wing of Banning and Larry De Bois, 45, and C. E. Tanner, 51, are being held on charges on grand larceny for trial in Superior Court.

The arrest of the three came after Sheriff's officers are said to have found part of the stolen property in their possession and to have learned that some of the men had sold part of the booty at Indio, Sheriff Sweeters said.

A number of valuable dresses, blankets, shoes and jewelry, are said to have been sold by the men to Mexicans at Indio. Jewelry and shoes and some other articles are said to have been recovered. The total loss is said to total several hundred dollars. The most valuable articles having been taken from the Desert Inn.

In his confession Clark is said to have declared that a quantity of table silver was hidden under a rock in the desert near Palm Springs. Officers who made a search yesterday, however, were unable to find it.

FIGHT OFF SEA LIONS

Sardine Fishermen Troubled by Sea Monsters

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

SAN DIEGO, Jan. 28.—Sardine fishing is now at its peak on the banks of San Diego, and a large fleet of fishing schooners are engaged in netting tons of this delectable food, and incidentally fighting off a good-sized herd of sea lions.

The sea lions entered the picture almost as soon as the fishing operations began. These huge mammals are extremely fond of sardines and seem to know instantly when the fishing season is on. According to fishermen, the sea lions wait until the nets are well filled, and then gather for the feast. Not only has the loss of sardines been considerable, but the nets have suffered much damage.

About 100 tons of sardines are being landed daily. The entire catch is being absorbed by local canneries.

RECENT SNOW FALL STARTS WELL FLOW

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

HANFORD, Jan. 28.—Artesian wells in the Goldburg reclamation district, on the Tulare Lake bed, which have had to be pumped for the past four years, are flowing this season.

This is a phenomenon which can only be explained because the last few years have been seasons of drought, with light snowfall in the mountains as well as rainfall in the valley. This winter there has been an unusually heavy fall of snow in the Sierras east of here, where Kings county water for irrigation comes from, and the melting of this snow is sending down through granite strata between the Tulare Lake bed and the high mountains a volume of water which is forcing water to the surface again in artesian flows. There is a good stand of 100,000 acres of grain on Tulare Lake bed, growing thriftily, aided by recent rains.

NO CHANCE FOR 'FERNANDO'

Despite Postal-Clerk Carelessness Mission City Means to Hang to "San," Same as Bay City

[LOCAL CORRESPONDENCE]

LANKERSHIM, Jan. 28.—What's in a name? Nothing. As applied to one's sweetie, as in the Romeo and Juliet romance, the one could have been Sam and the other Gertie without an iota of the dampening of the burning ardor of either one.

But when it comes to a town's name in this day of bad handwriting, careless postal clerks and the similarity of other town's names in postal guides, it is a different matter. It's worse than a half-dozen John Smiths living in one flat building and the postman doing his best to keep their mail straight.

San Fernando now finds its name ought to be "Fernando" or some other word that doesn't look so much like San Francisco, but there isn't a man or woman brave enough to make the suggestion in this ancient village of the historic mission.

Carelessness of postal clerks the other day again caused a bundle of mail destined here to batter around San Francisco before it finally arrived. Freight and express, also, very often goes awry in the same direction.

SUGGESTION HOWLED DOWN

To eradicate the annoyance there has been an indirect suggestion that San Fernando would fare better if it would adopt the name "Fernando," throwing the "San" in the discard or surrendering it altogether to the Bay City. But this has been howled down because it is asserted that with the "San" also would go the romance, history and legendary tradition of the city—a sort of surrender to postal carelessness.

Behind back doors the change of name is being talked of, but no one has yet come out into the open to courageously suggest it would be a good thing.

The secretary of the local Chamber of Commerce says it isn't likely to be done.

San Fernando is not the only town in the Southland suffering with the name annoyance.

Over in the citrus belt, "Bardoo" is the most taboo thing in San Bernardino, though as a syllable saver it has fine points.

In the "abode of angels," "Los" and "L. A." are diminutives that everybody understands, yet civic boosters frown on them, and are on guard against either of them ever finding way on the maps or in postal guides.

EYE TO PUBLICITY

There is one man in Lankershim, with a keen eye to civic publicity, who wants the name of this hustling town changed to North Hollywood. But he is afraid to suggest it.

"For one thing," he says, "the name North Hollywood would forever hook the community up with the wide publicity of the film capital and it would mean money in the municipal pocket."

He also adds that most of his mail addressed here first finds its way to the Lankershim Hotel in Los Angeles before it hits his desk.

On the other hand, however, names of towns can be changed without much disturbance, for Lankershim was first "Toluca," a sort of chewing-gum sound of name, while Marian, an ancient settlement west of Van Nuys, became "Reseda" when that thriving valley town some years ago sat up and took notice.

CANNERY MACHINERY CONVEYED TO CHINO

[LOCAL CORRESPONDENCE]

VAN NUYS, Jan. 28.—Machinery of the old Golden State Cannery, which used to be in operation here, and which gave way for the new office building and subetation plant that is being erected in Van Nuys for the Bureau of Power and Light, has been stored here since the plant was taken over by the Libby-McNeil concern at Burbank. It is now moved from this vicinity. Last week the Bates Transfer Company, employing a truck and trailer, carried a large part of the machinery to Chino, where it is to be reconverted by the Libby-McNeil firm. Work on the office building for the power and light bureau is progressing. Plans for the substation are ready, and it is given out that work will soon start on construction.

Child Victim of Automobile Badly Injured

GLENDALE, Jan. 28. — Edwin Anderson, 4-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. C. Anderson, 621 East Lomita avenue, was struck and injured today, when he is said to have darted into the street in front of an automobile driven by Harry Thompson, 208 East Lomita avenue.

The child was taken to the Glendale Hospital, where it was found that he had suffered a fracture of the skull, and his condition is such that it is feared he may die.

The child, according to witnesses, had been taken across the street intersection at Colorado and Louise streets by one of the teachers of the Colorado School, but ran out on the street again in front of the car. Thompson is being held awaiting the outcome of the child's injuries.

CHAMBER FAVORS MERGER PROGRAM

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

UPLAND, Jan. 28.—Early consolidation of Upland and Ontario as one united city was seen here today, following the hearty indorsement last night of a co-operation program at the annual banquet of the Upland Chamber of Commerce, when more than 300 residents of Upland declared themselves willing to support the proposition of a greater community.

The keynote of the meeting was probably sounded by County Supervisor C. E. Grier, prominent resident of Upland, and active Chamber of Commerce worker, when he declared that the biggest thing before the Upland chamber today was to work for one united community with Ontario and Upland going hand in hand as one city.

PROTECTS MAYOR OF LA HABRA

Justice Refuses Warrant in Case Charging Executive With Selling Liquor

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

SANTA ANA, Jan. 28.—Refusal of Justice H. E. Hart to issue a warrant for the arrest of Dr. Evrit S. Boice, Mayor of La Habra, after the District Attorney's office here had drawn a complaint charging the veteran physician with issuing prescriptions for liquor for beverage purposes, left a peculiar situation to be worked out by court officials, both sides admitted today.

Dr. Boice, in denying the allegations made against him by Deputy Constable J. T. Bradford, complaining witness, declared he was being made the object of "spite" work and intimated, after interviewing C. N. Mosley, Deputy District Attorney, that he may insist upon his own arrest, in order that he might have the prescription matter thoroughly aired before a court.

Constable Bradford told Mosley he had obtained a confession from a man he found drunk on the streets as to the source of his liquor. After taking the matter up with the Medical Board at Los Angeles, he was referred to the District Attorney's office at Santa Ana, he said.

Justice Hart, in refusing to honor the complaint, declared he was positive an arrest was not justified. Unless the La Habra court issues the warrant, the District Attorney's office probably will not press for action, Deputy Mosley intimated.

DEFEAT BONDS

Small Interest Shown at Polls in Porterville

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

PORTERVILLE, Jan. 28.—Returns from yesterday's municipal election on two issues, that of a $50,000 bond issue for improved sewer facilities and the city manager form of government project, show that less than a third of the registered voters went to the polls and both measures were defeated.

The sewer-bond issue lost by a margin of 50 votes, while the question of employing a city manager was defeated by 150 votes.

It is expected that the sewer-bond issue will be submitted to the voters again as soon as legally possible.

BOND ISSUE UP TO VOTERS

San Bernardino to Ballot Courthouse

Call Election Early June

Citizens Raise Money to Buy Building Site

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

SAN BERNARDINO, Jan. 28.—A bond issue election to provide the erection of a new courthouse on the site at Third street and Arrowhead avenue will be called early in June, Chairman A. J. Kendall of the Board of Supervisors announced today. The site was donated by a syndicate of Bernardino business men who raised $75,000 as a premium when it was selected by unanimous vote of the Supervisors.

Whether or not the bond issue is approved will not halt the plan to erect a new building, Chairman Kendall said.

"We are going to build a new courthouse," Chairman Kendall announced at a meeting at which the courthouse committee indorsed the Third street-avenue site. "If the bonds are not voted, then there will be nothing left for the county to do but levy a direct tax. I would like to see a courthouse constructed story by story, as necessarily would have to be done if a tax is levied for the purpose. "We are in this position: Although the new structure can be built for approximately $400,000, we will, at least, will care for our immediate needs, I believe, if we complete our building and remodel our property here on Court and E streets. In later years we can sell this property, pool the proceeds and apply the proceeds to the bonds, or retain the property and its income will retire certain issues of the bonds outstanding. It is a good business either way."

LACY RECEIVES HONOR DIPLOMA

Kept from Graduation in 1882 by Illness

Total of 265 Finish Course in Los Angeles High

Commencement Will be Held Tomorrow Night

Illness in the last weeks before his graduation with his class in 1882 prevented President Lacy from receiving his diploma, or the coveted star and crescent pin worn by the alumni of that school. Victor Maynard of the class of '62 and Marshall Stimson of the class of '92 took part in the ceremony of welcoming Lacy, together with the other graduates.

The commencement program for the midwinter class will be held in the Los Angeles High School auditorium at 8 o'clock tomorrow night. The class is 25 per cent larger this year than the midterm class of last year, and diplomas will be conferred on 246 boys and girls.

Diplomas will be conferred by Mrs. Norman MacBeth, and the principal address will be made by Dr Charles H. Rieber, dean of the College of Letters and Science, University of California, Southern Branch.

Essays will be read by Donald J. Angus on "Coast Defense;" by Silba T. Weaver, on "Woman's Place in the Modern World;" on "Physical Education," by Grace Shattuck, and the "Boy Scouts," by William K. Brehm.

A program of musical numbers will be given by the high school orchestra. There will also be a Venetian folksong by Sylvia Hickey and Dorothy R. Goodrich and a violin solo by Evelyn Edlund, assisted by Anabel Wagner at the piano.

The girls who will receive diplomas are:

Helen Baxter, Cavelle Barlean, Helen Bell, Mary Binsford, Helen Schaffer, Amanda R. Albert, Gwendolyn E. K. Anderson, Mabel Anderson, Loretta A. Arnest, Elizabeth I. Arnold, Lillian P. FILM STARS ANNOUNCE BETROTHAL

George O'Hara to Marry His Leading Lady, Alberta Vaughn, Wampas Star

George O'Hara and Alberta Vaughn

BY GRACE KINGSLEY

Nobody except the principals took the screen romance of Alberta Vaughn and George O'Hara seriously! But they took them so seriously that they are engaged to wed.

George O'Hara is the handsome and stalwart hero of a series of comedies made by F.B.O. and Miss Vaughn has lately been his leading lady. She is a Wampas Baby Star, 1924 model, and one of the most promising of the younger actresses.

"I don't see," said George yesterday, "how anybody could kiss Alberta through a whole series of 'go-getter' pictures and not want to keep right on doing it in private life. You can charge another hit up to propinquity. For I was just sure I was a confirmed bachelor until I begin to costar with Miss Vaughn in that series. Now I've purchased a new home up in the hills and I'm contemplating proving that this thing of two living cheaper than one is not all real estate propaganda."

"Yes," admitted Miss Vaughn, "we're engaged. I don't know just when our picture activities will permit us to get married, but we are planning to make it as soon as possible and to take a honeymoon in Honolulu."

ACTORS OF OLD DAYS TO APPEAR

Former Footlight Stars Will Have Part in Wampas Bal land Frolic

Old favorites of the footlights who occasionally take a fling in the silent drama will have a prominent part in the entertainment program to be served patrons of the fourth annual Wampas frolic and ball to be held in the Ambassador Auditorium next Thursday, February 5.

Alexander Carr, whose musical comedy fame is legion and who has given of his talent to the screen on numerous occasions, notably in "Potash and Perlmutter in Hollywood," will offer several songs that became hits when he sang them to legitimate theater audiences.

Louise Dresser, who long was a favorite in light opera and whose work in cinema productions has won her equal acclaim, will revitalize some of the songs she featured on the stage in bygone days.

Last, but not least, Trixie Friganza, the plump comedienne, prom'ises to dig deep into her "little bag o' Trix," and bring forth some brand new entertainment.

Screenland's stars and favorites will renew acquaintances with members of their public and the new crop of baby stars for 1925—Betty Arlen, Violet Avon, Olive Borden, Anne Cornwall, Ena Gregory, Madeline Hurlock, Natalie Joyce, June Marlowe, Joan Meredith, Evelyn Pierce, Dorothy Revier, Duane Thompson and Lois Todd—will make their first public bow in person.

ASCOT TRIAL RESET

Adjournment in Speedway Case Taken to March 9

The case against George Bentel, J. Mahoney, William A. Pickens and Joseph E. Brown, of the Ascot Speedway Association, charged with fraudulent advertising in connection with the Thanksgiving Day race, was yesterday adjourned to March 9 at 10 a.m. Police Judge Frederickson, who made the continuance, did so because of a crowded calendar. The charge was made by Ferris R. Miller of the Better Business Bureau.

SUSPECT FAILED IN DASH FOR LIBERTY

A dash for liberty made by Brutus Miller, charged with automobile theft, was interrupted yesterday on the walk outside Central Police Station by Police Sergeant McPhillips. Miller, handcuffed, ran out of the detective bureau and started east on First street. McPhillips, who was on his way to the station, dropped the running man with a blow of his fist and hauled him back inside. Miller was arrested at Blythe by Detectives Wood and Held of the Automobile Club.

M'NABB TO GET FEDERAL POST

San Bernardino Man Slated for District Attorney

Candidate Supported by Senator Shortridge

Way Open for Appointment of Entire New Staff

The nomination of Samuel W. McNabb of San Bernardino to be United States District Attorney for Southern California was sen. to the Senate yesterday by President Coolidge, and if no opposition arises in that body it is expected that the nominee will succeed Joe C. Burke by February 15.

His nomination was at once referred to the Senate Judiciary Committee, of which Senator Shortridge is a member. Inasmuch as Senator Shortridge has been been one of Mr. McNabb's strongest adherents, it is expected that the Senator will expedite the confirmation, so that the new appointee can take over office within two weeks.

Should Mr. McNabb succeed to the office he will find the way open for the appointment of an entire new staff if he so desires, it was indicated yesterday, when announcements were made that formal resignations would be submitted by all assistants, except John Layng, who was out of the city and could not be reached.

Mr. Burke, Chief Assistant Mark Herron and Robert Camarillo, in charge of civil matters, filed their resignations two months ago, with the statement that they have formulated a partnership and intend to take up the practice of law.

Russell Graham, appointed in June, 1923, stated he would submit his resignation to take up the practice of law with his father, Ralph F. Graham, with offices in the American Bank Building. Eugene T. McGann and J. Edwin Simpson, assistants, said they would present their formal resignations, but would remain in office if so requested by the new District Attorney.

Mr. McNabb is now serving his third term as Mayor of San Bernardino. He came to Southern California from Iowa in 1894, engaged in his trade as a printer and later was named undersheriff by Sheriff John C. Ralphs.

He studied law at this time and became a member of the legal firm of Curtis, McNabb & Curtis. The junior member of the firm is now Justice Jesse W. Curtis of the District Court of Appeal. Mr. McNabb was elected Mayor in 1909, serving until 1911, and was re-elected in 1921 and 1923.

During the railroad shopmen's strike of 1922 Mayor McNabb stood steadfast for the maintenance of order, notifying the strikers that there must be no disorder and that the right of the men still at work to walk the streets peacefully would be protected. The announcement roused a storm in union circles, but the Mayor stood his ground and kept his word.

Of late years he has been a member of the firm of McNabb & Hodge. He is a Mason, Shriner, Elk and member of the Congregational Church. He is married and has two children.

Mr. McNabb has been active in politics as a member of the Republican party. He was indorsed for the position by the Los Angeles Republican County Central Committee and by many individual Republicans of prominence.

Wife Believes Mate in Borneo, Given Divorce

Belief that her husband had taken his true love and fled to Borneo, where he now has a job with the Shell Oil Company, was expressed yesterday before Judge Summerfield by Mrs. Evelyn Pearl Sherwood.

She was not able to prove the assertions in her complaint which named Mrs. Pearl Watson Rafael as corespondent, but was granted a decree from Edward Sherwood on the grounds of cruelty. She swore he struck her in the eye, and a neighbor corroborated her testimony.

An interested spectator in court was Attorney Ben Goldman, who took notes on behalf of his client, David Rafael, for use in a suit for $100,000 for the asserted loss of the affections of Mrs. Rafael. This suit is set for trial in April.

A property settlement, Mrs. Sherwood said, was made out of court.

HEADLIGHT REFLECTOR PATENT SUIT IS FILED

LOCAL CONCERN CHARGED BY COMPANY OF CINCINNATI WITH INFRINGEMENT

Infringement of patents on the Flatlite headlight reflector is charged in a suit filed with the United States District Court by the American Flatlite Company of Cincinnati against the Morrison Manufacturing Company of Los Angeles. The plaintiff asks for $300,000 damages and for an accounting of profits that may have accrued in sale of the Floodlite reflector manufactured by the defendant company. An injunction also is sought to prevent manufacture of the Floodlite reflector or use of that trade name.

The bill of complaint avers the reflector manufactured by the plaintiff company was invented in 1920 by John Graeme Balsillie of Melbourne, Australia. It is asserted W. F. Morrison, E. W. Provine and P. T. Porter, also named as defendants, conspired to imitate the Flatlite reflector and to cause the asserted imitation to be sold under a similar trade name.

Lyon & Lyon, patent attorneys, represent the plaintiff.

FLEET LOOKS TO GUNNERY

Battleship Divisions Plan Secret Practices Before Arrival of Ships From Atlantic

Tomorrow the battleship divisions will begin assembly at Los Angeles Harbor for the final series of gunnery practices before the arrival of the Scouting Fleet and Control Force, due from the Atlantic on March 11. Eleven dreadnaughts, with an attendant force of aircraft, destroyers and auxiliaries, will participate in the triple series of secret advanced practices during the fortnight beginning February 2.

Four battleships will sail from San Francisco tomorrow, arriving at the home base Saturday afternoon. They are the U.S.S. West Virginia, U.S.S. Colorado and U.S.S. Maryland, which have been in San Francisco the past week for the reception of the Japanese midshipmen's squadron, and the U.S.S. Oklahoma, which has been in dry dock at Hunter's Point. The Oklahoma will conduct her annual full power runs en route.

On Monday, the U.S.S. Arizona, which has been on a week's courtesy visit at San Diego, will return to port, while on the following day the U.S.S. Nevada will sail from the Puget Sound navy yard for Los Angeles Harbor. The Nevada has been absent for the past two months for annual overhaul.

With the Nevada's arrival here on February 7, eleven battleships will be in port, the U.S.S. Pennsylvania, flagship of Battleship Division Three, being the only absentee. She is now at Puget Sound for overhaul.

The aircraft tender Aroostook, now completing overhaul at the Mare Island navy yard, will also arrive here on February 3, to serve the three aircraft squadrons now based here with the battleship divisions.

It was announced yesterday that the U.S.S. Mississippi will not fire her long-range battle practice until shortly before the combined United States Fleet sails for Hawaii in April. The Mississippi was scheduled to fire the practice in February, but due to her long period at the Puget Sound navy yard it was impossible to prepare for the difficult exercises. Long-range battle practice of the U.S.S. Nevada has also been similarly postponed.

LAWYER OF MEXICO TO SPEAK HERE

Says He Studies America from Spiritual Instead of Material Side

Nemesio Garcia Naranjo, eminent Mexican attorney, journalist and statesman, arrived here yesterday on a lecture tour of the western part of the United States.

"I am particularly interested," he said, "in what Mexicans can learn from the United States."

But Mr. Garcia Naranjo is not interested in the material achievements of the United States which usually strike the foreign tourist.

"I think," he explains, "that the most important things Mexicans can emulate is the spirit of toleration and the collective spirit of Americans. These are your chief sources of greatness. And we, being too great individualists, may well adopt them if we can."

Mr. Garcia Naranjo has a law practice at Mexico City, and contributes signed editorials to the liberal newspaper, Universal. He is an orator of considerable note. He formerly was a Deputy from his native State of Nuevo Leon, and once was Secretary of Education.

While in the north, he lectured in English at the University of California, and spoke before the San Francisco Chamber of Commerce.

He will speak in English at a literary-musical program on Monday night at the Ebell Club auditorium, at which time he will discuss the subject of what Mexico can learn from the United States. The Mexican dramatic soprano, Alma Real, now resident here, will sing and there will be dancing.

Espee Receives Thanks Letter From Deportees

Traffic department officers of the Southern Pacific Company frequently receive letters of appreciation from shippers and travelers acknowledging courtesy of train crews and railroad officials, but a letter just received from the chairman of an I.W.W. committee has been given a place in the files by itself.

The letter was sent to J. H. R. Parsons, passenger traffic manager of the railroad, from Ellis Island, N. Y., following the arrival there recently of a party of alien deportees.

Signed by P. T. Jordan, I.W.W. chairman of committee, the letter stated:

"The accommodations and refreshment arrangements during the train journey from California to New Orleans and again by steamer from New Orleans to New York were of such a nature that I have been instructed as chairman of the welfare committee elected by representatives of practically every country in the world, to tender the party's gratitude and acknowledgments for same and, furthermore, the courtesy shown by those officials conducting the party."

DRIVER TO FACE TRIAL

Manslaughter Charge Is Based on Death in Crash

Guy E. Frazee was held for trial yesterday by Justice Marchetti on charges of manslaughter, reckless driving and driving while intoxicated. The charges grow out of the death of Matt Plunkett in a wreck of an automobile driven by Frazee on Telegraph Road on the 8th inst.

Several witnesses testified that Frazee's reckless driving caused the machine to crash into a telephone pole. Frazee was held in $5000 bail on the three charges.

INQUIRY IN KATZ DEATH IS REVIVED

Guy Peterson, ex-Employee, Arrested in North With Stolen Car

Arrest in San Francisco yesterday of Guy Peterson, former employee of Harry Katz, wealthy diamond broker, killed under mysterious circumstances in the doorway of his home in the Ambassador apartments several months ago, revived the investigation of the murder.

Peterson was arrested by G. W. Whaley of the local police automobile detail, assisted by San Francisco officers, charged with stealing a $20,000 automobile that had been awarded by court decree to Mrs. Dora Katz, mother of the murdered broker.

The expensive machine was built for Katz in 1921 by Peterson, who took the car when he left the diamond broker's employ.

After Katz's murder, the car was awarded to Mrs. Dora Katz, together with $2500 damages for its detention.

Mrs. Katz insured the car for $4000 and a few days later she reported it was stolen while she was on a shopping tour.

Theft bureau investigaters of the National Automobile Club assisted Officer Whaley in tracing the car to San Francisco where Peterson was arrested when he attempted to claim it. Whaley is scheduled to arrive in the automobile, with Peterson, this morning.

MYSTERIOUS DEATH LAID TO SUICIDE

Weighted Body of Man is Found in Venice Canal; Still Unidentified

That the unidentified man, whose partially decomposed body with a sack of concrete tied about the neck was found in the lagoon leading into the Grand Canal in Venice yesterday, committed suicide instead of being a victim of foul play, was the theory of Venice police last night after County Autopsy Surgeon Wagner reported on the results of an autopsy.

Dr. Wagner explained the absence of water from the lungs as due to the fact that the gasses in the body, which had been in the water for about six weeks, had forced the water from the lungs. The suicide theory is borne out, Dr. Wagner declared, by the absence of marks of violence.

The body was found by W. C. Holmes, a member of the Venice engineering department, who was superintending laborers, on a sand bar near the foot of Avenue Forty, half immersed in water. The small sack of concrete weighed about ten pounds.

The police are endeavoring to identify the body, which is being held at the O. A. Kirkelie mortuary. The body was clad in an expensive blue suit. The victim wore black shoes. Every mark of identification had been removed from the clothing, police found. In the pockets were found a set of upper and lower false teeth, a pair of hornrimmed glasses and a pocket knife. He was about 45 years of age, about 5 feet, 10 inches tall and of rather heavy build.

FIESTA AND DANCE PLANNED

A Spanish-Mexican fiesta and dance will be given at the Knights of Columbus Hall, 412 South Flower street, next Thursday night. The proceeds will be turned over to the Catholic Church of Belvedere. A playlet will open the program and the songs and dances of old Spain and Mexico will be given by artists of the local Latin colony.

CONVICTED SEER MISSING

Mohommed Ortaay Sought by Police; Court Allows Forty-eight Hours of Grace for Appearance

Mohommed Ortaay, Hollywood's own seer and mystic, did a quick fade out yesterday as he was about to be sentenced by Police Judge Pope for violation of the city fortune-telling ordinance.

As a result he is temporarily listed among the missing and police are seeking him. The soothsayer, whose "Temple of Mohommed" at 5656 Carlton Way, Hollywood, was raided by police more than a week ago, was scheduled to appear before Justice Pope yesterday for sentence. He failed to show up but his attorney was present and the court announced that Ortaay would be given forty-eight hours to put in an appearance.

Several hours later Justice Pope was informed by the attorney that the mystic had vanished without leaving a trace. He left his "temple" Tuesday, according to his wife, taking nothing with him. The attorney stated that he could not account for the seer's absence but expressed the belief that he would return before the forty-eight-hour period of grace extended by the court expired.

Ortaay was convicted of fortune telling without a license. His "temple," according to police, was a rendezvous for women desiring to pierce the future, many of them motion-picture actresses.

MILLIONS FOR LEASE ON HILL

Sun Realty Company Gets Downtown Property

Deal Requires Erection of Class A Building

Site Bought Twenty Years Ago for $50,000

For a total rental of $3,564,000 and requiring the erection of a Class A limit-height building, the property located at 633 South Hill street, with the two-story red brick colonial structure, was leased yesterday for ninety-nine years by the Sun Realty Company. Isidor Eisner is president.

The property is owned by Mrs. Annie E. Rose, 727 West Thirtieth street, and the deal was consummated yesterday following consultations between Miss Bertha A. Rose, who for some time past has managed the property interests of the family, and Mr. Eisner and the real estate firm of Metcalf & Ryan.

The property was bought twenty years ago for $50,000. Miss Rose three years ago, she said, confident of the future of Los Angeles, refused an offer of $275,000 for the property.

It has a frontage of sixty feet on Hill street and extends back to the alley for a distance of 156 feet. Some years ago Miss Rose supervised the erection of the colonial type red brick structure occupying the site at a time when there was but little building activity in Los Angeles.

The building is occupied by the Colonial Cafeteria and Hamilton's Men's Shoes Agency. Upon the expiration of the first lease, four years and three months from the 1st inst., the erection of the Class A limit building is to be started.

ETHIC CODE SEEN BAR TO CHILD CRIME

Hilf Declares Parents and Schools Must Pay Heed to Moral Side

Suggesting as a preventive of crime among juveniles the placing of emphasis in schools upon the study of civics, and particularly the study of the Constitution of the United States, in an effort to build up a firmer code of ethics and honor among students, Deputy Police Chief Hilf spoke on the "Responsibility of Parents" at 6:15 o'clock last night to the congregation of the First Methodist Church.

Hilf, reading from statistics gathered by the Crime Prevention Bureau and other sources, showed how the average age of criminals is dropping. A few years ago, he said, the average age of those confined in penitentiaries was 30 years; now it is less than 20, and dropping at the rate of two years per annum.

"This is a mechanical age and spiritual development is being neglected," he declared. "What we need is less time spent on various 'ologies' in the schools and more in an effort to establish firmly a code of honor."

The speaker said he did not blame motion pictures or any other particular agency for the increase in juvenile crime, but traced it rather to parents so engrossed in the numerous modern-day activities that they did not give their children proper attention. Often, he charged, the parents of wayward children should be made to stand trial for their offspring's misdeeds.
